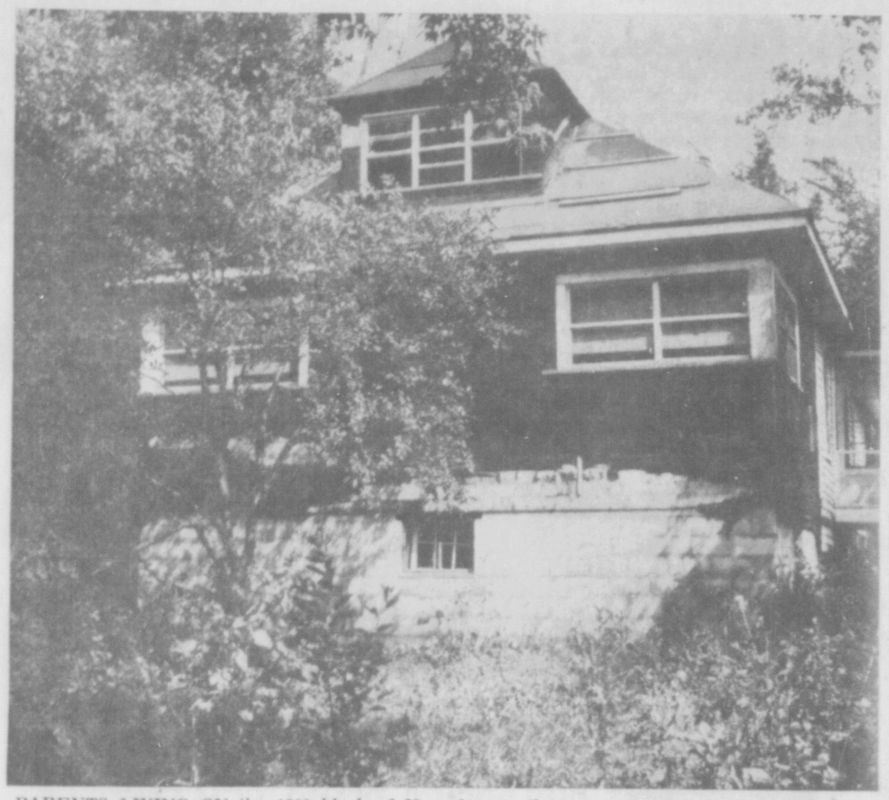
CELEBRATION IS 'TAKING SHAPE'



PARENTS LIVING ON the 1300 block of N. Dunton in Arlington Heights term this house a safety hazard. The dilapidated, unoccupied house, the property of a local builder, has become a favorite gathering place for children living in the area.

Vacant House Stirs Unrest

by WILLIAM HOGATE

An old frame house sits dejected and forelorn at 1330 N. Dunton st. It's occupants are long since gone.

Only a skinny grey cat and a few skampering children around the outside bear witness to the fact that people once lived there.

The windows are boarded up, at least partially, and broken glass lies scattered about the premise.

Several jagged pieces from an upstairs window hang precariously from the roof of the front porch —waiting for some child to pass underneath when a puff of wind blows.

A rotten, sagging side porch looks as if it is about to fall apart. This reporter almost fell through when he stepped on it to observe the inside.

BASEMENT windows have been knocked out where neighborhood children have made entries. A soggy mattress lies in a heap outside the building and weeds and undergrowth combine to make the house look hideous.

A Herald reporter visited the house Saturday in answer to a complaint received from a neighbor in the area. Mrs. Don Ruehlmann, 1316 N. Dunton st., told this reporter, "Three weeks ago a drunk wandered down the street and entered the house. I have a two year old child, and I'm frightened to death that something will happen."

HENRY MEYER, 1322 N. Dunton st., stated that, "Kids go down there all the time and fool around. No one has been hurt yet, but it's a wonder!"

Mrs. Joseph Moran, 1319 N. Dunton st., said that she felt children to play around there."

OWNER OF THE structure is Carroll-McHugh builders, 1309 N. Highland, Arlington Heights. Carroll told this reporter, "I will tear it down sometime this year, but I'm not sure when I'll get to it."

There is no fence surrounding that the old house was definitely "an eyesore that needs correction as soon as possible."

"I understand that there were some kids upstairs in that old house," commented Lowell Piant, 1323 N. Dunton st.

"It looked like some of them must have fallen through a plaster ceiling. We forbid our the property, nor is there a warning sign telling people to "keep off." Despite the undergrowth, children still can enter the premise quite easily.

The only sign on the building is a 6" by 7" yellow card from the Arlington Heights building department.

IT SAYS IN part, "... Do not occupy this building until a final inspection has been made ..." No other warnings are posted.

Addresses Conference

Learning Should be Enjoyable: Clabaugh

Superintendent R. E. Clabaugh had a hatful of advice for Arlington Heights grade school district 25 teachers and parents in a speech delivered last week at South school.

Clabaugh addressed the district's 245 teachers and administrators during the Thursday morning session of the 15th annual pre-school planning conference.

He told the teachers that he sometimes thinks education is "a vast conspiracy of dullness."

Learning must be enjoyable; the child must be allowed to please himself, he advised.

Clabaugh warned instructors not to try teaching "everything".

"Never tell the child what you can get him to tell you," he said. "Nothing is taught until something is learned."

"WE ONLY CAN point the child in the direction of learning. Only what they learn after leaving here is important," he remarked.

He asked the teachers to make the best use of every child every minute the child is in the classroom.

"We too often think that remediation is the sum and substance of individual instruction," Clabaugh said. "We think we can put a good student on a conveyor belt, let him go, and he'll come out educated."

HE NOTED that the blame for a student's failure to learn must fall on the instructor.

"We can depend on the performance of the child," Clabaugh said, "because they like to do something if it is good and enjoyable."

R. E. CLABAUGH

Clabaugh told the instructors they have an important job in educating parents to the schools' purpose.

"YOU MUST help parents understand that education is too important for it to be wasted on the young," he said.

He pointed out that, while children may seek education, parents often seem to want to avoid it.

Parents should be more sympathetic toward education, Clabaugh said.

"Too often children go to school and the parents just go to work. We would like them both to learn," he said.

BUT CLABAUGH cautioned parents to leave the actual teaching to the instrutcors.

Instead, he remarked, parents should know the schools' goals so they can understand where the schools are trying to head.

He encouraged parents to see more of their child's instructors.

"The give and take between teacher and parent," he said, "can have more influence than anything else over the educational process."

PUTTING THE FINISHING TOUCHES on the script for the Anniversary pageant "The Bountiful Prairie," is Dick Dunlop, a professional writer, 1115 Mayfair rd., Arlington Heights. The giant outdoor extravaganza will be held at the Arlington Park Jockey club on October 1 and 2.

'I'm No Censor', Librarian Says

The Chicago Tribune's recent announcement that it was "cleaning up" the best-seller lists has the enthusiastic endorsement of Mrs. Evelyn Stadelman, Arlington Heights librarian.

The Chicago paper said no longer would books "sewer-written by dirty-fingered authors for dirty-minded readers" grace its list.

From now on, the paper said, the Sunday book section will report books that are "Among the Best Sellers," instead of the undiluted "Best Selling Books in the Midwest."

MRS. STADELMAN Tuesday said she felt too many readers indiscriminately purchase books off the best-selling lists without knowing the contents.

She explained that many people come into the library asking for Henry Miller's "Tropic of Cancer." When she informs them of the book's content, she said, the people often change their minds.

"Tropic of Cancer," Miller's bawdy tale of Paris life that many acclaim an American classic, was one of the books that has disappeared from the Tribune best-selling list.

Mrs. Stadelman said she is undecided whether to purchase the book for the library.

"IF ENOUGH people demand it," she commented, "I'll have to order it. I don't want to play the part of a censor.

"However," she continued, "If books of this type are kept off the best-seller lists, I feel the demand for them will fall off greatly."

Mrs. Stadelman noted that she reads a number of library reports each month that advise if a book "belongs" in a public library.

AFTER THE LIBRARY receives a book, Mrs. Stadelman said, she has a staff member read it to decide whether or not it should be marked "for adults only."

Very few books in the Arlington Heights library are so marked, she said.

Pool Drains, Kids Lose a Day's Swim

Recreation park swimming pool went prematurely dry Saturday, probably causing a few Arlington Heights park officials to turn prematurely grey.

While the pool at its lowest ebb retained half of its 500,000 gallon capacity, it might as well have been dry to swim-happy youngsters who saw hopes for a late summer dip fade.

PARK DISTRICT Director Tom Thornton explained Friday night's thunderstorm was the villain.

The thunderstorm caused a power failure, according to Thornton, resulting in the pool's circulating pumps turning off. Once the pumps shut off, they have to be reset before they start circulating again.

They weren't reset until 8 a.m. Saturday when park district employees turned up at work to find a nearly waterless pool.

USUALLY, the water would stay in the pool if the pumps shut down, Thornton said. However, a faulty valve allowed water to seep into the filter room, draining half of the pool.

The pool was refilled by 2 a.m. Sunday, the day before Labor Day.

Labor Day was the last day the pool was open.

Thornton said the pool was refilled because the park district plans to keep water in it through the winter as a protection against frost damage. He also said a full pool will be used for a "kids fishing day" later in the year.

TO THORNTON, problems with keeping the pool filled are nothing new.

Last year, he said, water backed up through a faulty check valve and drained much of the pool.

T. Catino Dies Here August 30

Thomas A. Catino, Arlington Heights builder, died of a heart ailment Wednesday, Aug. 30, in Northwest Community hospital.

Mr. Catino, 63, of 602 Catino, is the developer of Catino Estates i south Arlington Heights.

The 126-lot upper-income subdivision is bounded by Kirchoff rd. on the south and Pioneer park on the north.

HE BEGAN building the subdivision five years ago, and was adding homes to it at the time of his death.

October 1-7 Spectacular

Arlington Heights' mammoth 125th anniversary celebration began to take shape this week as committees continued to submit reports to anniversary headquarters.

And, going by advance plans for the October 1-7 celebration, it will be a "spectacular" rivaling anything Hollywood puts on.

The schedule of events looks like this:

An antique auto show and a kiddie parade will mark the October 1 opening of the pageant. Both will be held at the Arlington Park race track.

The antique auto show will feature cars from the entire Chicagoland area.

Local businessman Vic Beisler has taken charge of the kiddie parade, details of which will be released later. Dick Dunlop, Arlington Heights resident and professional writer, has prepared an original five-act play for presentation October 1 and 2 at the race track.

THE HISTORICAL pageant, entitled "Bountiful Prairie," will depict the history of Arlington Heights.

Win Stracke, well-known television personality, will have the leading role. Other roles, for the most part, will be filled by local residents.

Square dancing will return to the village October 4 when a huge hoedown will be held at Campbell and Dunton sts. Three professional callers and an orchestra, the Ranch-Hands, have been signed.

The Newcomers club will sponsor an old-fashioned ice cream social in the parking lot of the Arlington Heights National bank, at Davis and Campbell, October 4.

FINALS OF BOTH the baby contest and "Miss Arlington Heights" contest have been set for October 5.

Entries for the baby contest, sponsored by the Newcomers club, can be obtained from local merchants. The contest is open to youngsters aged one through three. First prize has been set at $10C, with additional prizes for runner-ups. Deadline for entries is September 29.

"Miss Arlington Heights" contest is open to any girl living in the northwest suburbs between the ages of 17 and 27.

The first place prize will include a $500 scholarship.

ENTRY BLANKS must be turned into contest chairman Ruth Miller at the Ruth Miller Apparel shop, Arlington Market, by September 30.

Both the October 3 semi-finals and the October 5 finals will be held at Arlington Market. Winner of the "Miss Arlington Heights" contest will advance to the Miss Illinois pageant being held next year in Elk Grove Village.

Arlington high school will be the center of activities October 6 with its homecoming parade and football game.

The official 125th anniversary parade will take place Saturday, Oct. 7, beginning at 11 p.m. The route is uncertain.

THE PARADE will feature a multitude of floats and other attractions. Leading it will be Arlington Heights oldest resident, who will ride in a convertible with his court of the next eight oldest village residents.

Senator Everett Dirksen and Representative Margaret Stitt Church are scheduled to attend the celebration.

In the afternoon, following the parade, judging of the beard growing contest and a shaving contest will take place.

Festivities will be climaxed with a grand ball Saturday from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. at the Arlington race track.

ART VAN DAMME and his Quintet and another big name band, still being sought, will play at the ball.

Throughout the week of the celebration a carnival will go on at State and Sigwalt.

Arlington Heights Garden club October 1 and 2 will conduct a garden show. Displays will be shown in various store windows.

Paddock Publications will publish a special 70-page supplement to commemorate the will come out later this month. anniversary. The supplement

Set Hearing On Sept. 13 For Budget

The public hearing for the proposed 1962-63 Arlington-Prospect high school district 214 budget will take place Tuesday, Sept. 12 at 7:30 p.m. in the Arlington high building.

Superintendent H. L. Slichenmyer said the meeting either will be held in the board of education meeting room or the little theatre, depending upon the size of the crowd.

The 1962-63 budget calls for an estimated tax rate increase of 15 cents per $100 valuation over last year to cover expanded physical facilities and an improved educational program.

AMONG the budget provisions is the laying aside of $125,000 for increases in the teacher-salary schedule.

District 214's school board has been criticized in past years for holding teacher salaries at a level below other schools in the conference.

The additional $125,000 is expected to place the district salaries in the top 50 per cent of schools in the suburban area.

Slichenmyer said the public is invited to attend the hearing and express their views toward the budget.

Residents of Stonegate to Hear CD Head

Wallace Daughtry, recently appointed Civil Defense director for Arlington Heights, will speak at the opening meeting of the Stonegate association.

The meeting will take place at Miner school at 8 p.m. Monday, Sept. 11, according to President Walter Kellin.

Daughtry will speak on the psychological aspects of American thinking toward Civil Defense, and suggest preparations for meeting a nuclear attack.

Kellin invites residents living outside Stonegate to attend the meeting.

Editor's Column

STUART R. PADDOCK

We agree wholeheartedly with Rev. Louis Stumpf of Arlington Heights when he wrote a Chicago newspaper which had banned raw, sex-ridden, or sadistic novels.

He wrote: "I hope you have started a trend for the press of the nation. Gutter literature is not the demand of the people."

As one of the press we agree with Rev. Stumpf and the Chicago newspaper.

President Kennedy has not told us how he happened to appoint Marguerite Stitt Church to the United Nations, but we have a guess.

She has fought so hard against some of his favorite legislation in Congress, he was convinced that such a fighter for what she thought was right would fight just as hard in the world court for democratic principles.

Friedrich Ruth, of the German Consulate in Chicago, told the Arlington Heights Rotary Club last Thursday that the Soviets would not go to war over Berlin.

The dire news of Soviet resumption of nuclear testing has us a bit worried.

That evening, President Kennedy came back with the warning that the United States had sufficient nuclear bombs, itself, to destroy the world.

We hope the German Consul is right.

It is a little bit like the game of "Tag, you're it."

Before we have an opinion as to whether a junior college is worthwhile in this area, we wish someone would poll the high schools on how many of last year's graduates are going to take up college work this month.

The poll could ask the question "If a junior college was available, would you have preferred it to a regular college?"

And to complete the job, how many 1961 graduates, in the opinion of their instructors, are college material?

We think another step could be a study of a lot of "extras" that are today considered a necessary part of our educational system. With them eliminated perhaps the taxpayer could see his way clear to support a junior college.

What are those extras? Finding out should be the job of the school citizens committees.

The sudden death of Mr. Burkitt, Park Ridge Cadillac dealer, recalls in the minds of the older residents of Arlington Heights, the days when his father was a prominent Arlington businessman, operating a jewelry store east of the present Gieseke store.

His sidelines included bicycles and sewing machines. The second location of the Arlington telephone exchange was in his store.

During the cherry season he made large shipments of that fruit to the wholesale market.

Lewis Gregg Elected to Assn. Board

Lewis D. Gregg has been elected to the board of directors of the Northwest Suburban Cooperative Mental Health association and will represent the Arlington Heights chapter of the organization.

Donald Tynell, Arlington psychologist and chairman of the Personnel and Clinical Practices committee of the association, will address his committee and the members of the local chapter September 11, at 8 p.m. in the east room, Pioneer park.

The stated purpose of the clinic will be the topic of discussion as well as definitions of psychiatric terms.

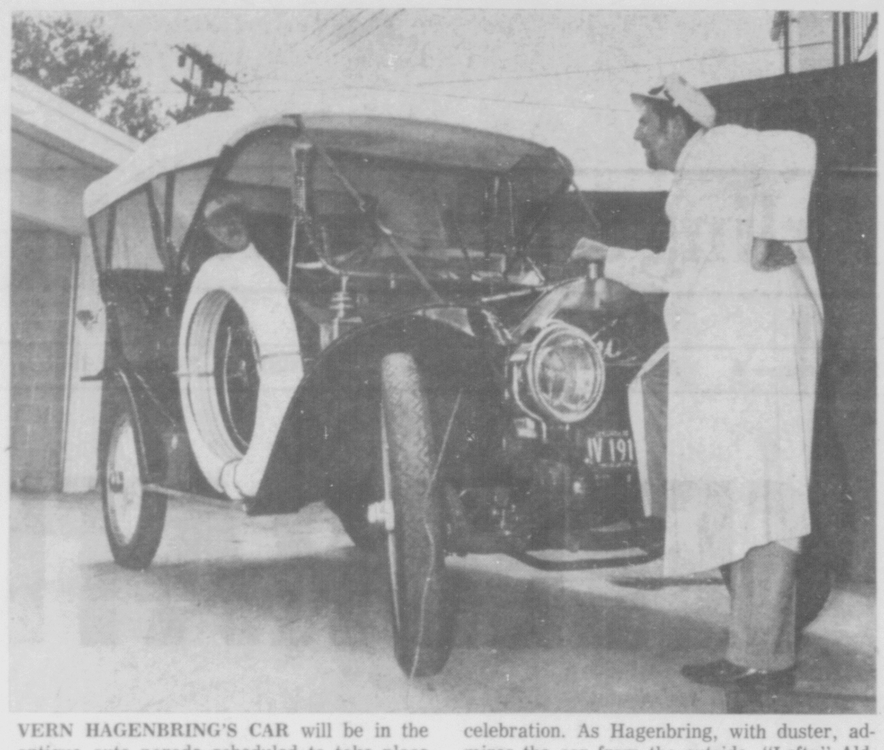
Woman's Club Plans Sale Of Bonnets

Bonnets will soon be sold from Arlington Heights corners.

The Arlington Heights Woman's club will be peddling the headresses to be certain that women look "authentic" during the village's 125th anniversary celebration.

BONNETS, coming in all colors, will cost $1 each.

According to Mrs. Ben Carns, directing the project, the bonnets will be sold throughout the rest of September and perhaps during anniversary week, October 1-7. (AF



VERN HAGENBRING'S CAR will be in the antique auto parade scheduled to take place during Arlington Heights' 125th anniversary celebration. As Hagenbring, with duster, admires the car from the outside, "Lefty" Aldrich inspects the inside.

Nickels Go Rapidly, Hess Says

"Those 10,000 nickels didn't last long enough for me to finish covering the town," stated Don Hess, executive manager of the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce.

Practically every place I went, they wanted all they could have," Hess continued in between munches on a sandwich as he paused briefly on his rounds.

Chamber of Commerce is blanketing the area with 10,000 of the nickels, with another 5,000 already ordered.

WOODEN NICKELS are redeemable in trade at over 100 stores in Arlington, as well as the two banks and savings and loan association.

Residents can use the nickels for purchases, turn them in with their deposits, or keep them for souvenirs. Five-cent value of the souvenirs will disappear after Oct. 11. (AF

Village Hall?

Arlington Heights village board will meet September 11 at 8 p.m. at the village hall.

Trustees are expected to take action on the controversial village hall sale at the meeting. (AF

Network Eyes Adoption Plan

Columbia Broadcasting System has indicated further interest in the proposed "adoption" by Arlington Heights of Pompa di Coman, Peru.

According to Wayne Brennan, local businessman directing the project, CBS is considering using Arlington Heights as a "model" should the village go through with the adoption.

If Arlington Heights is successful, Brennan said, CBS would encourage other communities in the United States to help poverty-stricken Latin American villages.

A recent CBS documentary narrated by Frank Reynolds prompted Brennan to Propose adopting Pompa di Coman.

The documentary featured the Peruvian community, which Reynolds calls "one of the ugliest-looking cities" he had ever seen.

Pompa di Coman, with a population of 50,000, is located on the outskirts of Lima.

ACCORDING TO Brennan, the adoption would involve Arlington Heights sharing friendships, technical experience, and possibly food and clothing with the Latin American community.

He, Reynolds, and Peruvian Consulate Oscar Benavidas, at a meeting last week, encouraged Arlington Heights organizations to support the project.

Brennan said he is also trying to find a recorder so he can, as an "ice-breaker," send a recorded message to the director of the community's lone school.

HE HOPES to reach the director, Senorita Olinda Maria Lezaneta Caceres by ham radio later. The school has 600 students and three instructors.

Brennan has already received support from the Chamber of Commerce, clergymen, and a number of organizations.

He asked that individuals or organizations interested in the project contact the Chamber of Commerce office at CL 3-1703. (AF

Fire Tax Unresolved

Hasbrook subdivision residents have another week to think about the double fire protection tax they have been paying for the past two weeks.

Village Manager L. A. Hanson Tuesday said he is still waiting for a report from village attorney Jack Siegel.

Hanson has been waiting for the report since late July.

HE SAID he believes Siegel has been awaiting the outcome of a bill pertaining to fire protection district de-annexation that the state legislature forwarded to Governor Kerner this current session.

Kerner, according to Hanson, signed the bill last month and only recently has had copies of it mailed to interested parties.

Hasbrook, which borders on Palatine, pays fire protection taxes to both the Palatine Rural Fire Protection district and the Arlington Heights village department. (AF

Contract Awarded For New Garage

Wheeling township auditors Tuesday awarded Norman Bullerman, 866 Wolf rd., Des Plaines, the contract for construction of a new township garage.

Bullerman's bid of $29,745 was the lowest of 11 submitted to the auditors.

ACCORDING to Supervisor Albert Peters, the contract carries a stipulation that the next low bidder, Zeman Construction of Chicago, will be awarded the job should Bullerman be unable to fulfill the contract.

Awarding of the bid to Bullerman soothed Auditor John McGivney's feelings.

McGivney, in a story in the Herald last week, cited "irregularities" involving the position of one of the bidders during negotiations for the garage.

THROUGH a mistake by road commissioner Oscar Everson, McGivney had charged, one company received a favorable position in the bidding.

Everson inadvertently solicited a bid from the company during early negotiations for the garage, when auditors had asked him to seek just estimates for building the garage.

Finish Pageant Script For Anniversary Here

Dick Dunlop Pens 5-Act Production

The script for Arlington Heights 125th Anniversary pageant to be held at the Arlington Heights Jockey club on October 1 and 2, has been completed.

That's the word from professional free lance writer Dick Dunlop, the man responsible for the pageant's script.

Also, television personality Win Stracke has just signed an agreement to perform in the giant open-air extravaganza.

Stracke is known to most Chicagoland children as "Uncle Win," star of "Animal Playtime" on WGN-TV. Stracke, a folk and ballad singer, is currently director of the Old Town school of Folk Music.

The pageant is in five acts with a concluding epilogue. It is titled the "Bountiful Prairie, the Village of Good Neighbors Past and Present" and will be narrated by Stracke.

THE MUSICAL pageant opens on a scene with the first Indians to occupy the Arlington Heights area, the Potawatomis. This name translated means the "canoe people." They were called this because they migrated here from Michigan via Lake Michigan.

The scene will depict how the Indian trails became the first post roads in the Arlington Heights area, and how Buffalo Grove and Elk Grove were connected by trails which duplicate Arlington Heights rd. today.

The act will conclude with a bit on how the Indians were made intoxicated at a five-day meeting at Ft. Dearborn and were cheated into selling all the acreage around here for 15 cents an acre.

THE SECOND act will show the arrival of William Dunton, his two sons Jim, 14, and Bill, 17, and other old-time pioneer families.

The most distinguished Arlington Heights family portrayed in the pageant will be the Burlingames. Anson Burlingame was the first U. S. ambassador to China. He was also ambassador to Russia and Austria.

The act will conclude with a stage coach scene and an old fashioned house raising typical of the early pioneers.

THE THIRD act will open on Arlington Heights, "the town of mud." Included in the act will be a demonstration of an old hand pumper, a look at an old one-room school house, a visit with old Charlie Meade, the local livery agent, and an old time church chorus.

The fourth act will be titled "A satire on Suburban Living in 1872." It will depict the coming of the railroad, efforts to sell real estate, and the changing of the name of the town from Dunton to Arlington Heights.

The local chapter of barbershop quarteters will conclude the fourth act with a humorous song about the competing realtors.

THE FIFTH act will depict the progress of the city, the filling of the railroad slough, the planting of elms and oak trees donated by the Klehm and Best families, and the opening of the first barber shop.

Also, the first newspaper will be depicted, the first uniformed policeman in 1906, the first high school, the first paved roads in 1915, and the first uniformed band in 1917.

The epilogue will consist of a rescue of a businessman shooting ducks in the Arlington race track pond out of season.

THE GRAND finale will be a mass demonstration with the entire cast done to the music of the "Villag of Good Neighbors March" presently being comp by Mrs. Davi. Bone.

Script writer Dunlop is currently putting the finishing touches on a book for Doubleday entitled "Frontier Doctors."

Investment Clubs Sprouting

Needed: Money, Time, Neighbors

Mom and dad used to salt extra cash away in an old sock.

Sometimes they'd choose a cooky jar or a spot under the mattress for their extra "pin money." But in the past few years a new place to salt away that extra cash has evolved — and mom and dad can have fun while they are doing it.

Neighborhood investment clubs have sprung up all over suburbia. Today, hundreds of individuals in the Northwest suburbs are participating in an exciting and educational activity which in many cases has brought them extra cash.

"All you need is a small number of interested neighbors, some time and a little money," stated James Dalton, 522 S. Dunton st., Arlington Heights. Dalton is a charter member in the Campers Group, an all-male neighborhood investment group.

Most investment groups start with from 10 to 20 members. Each member agrees to contribute from $10 to $50, or more, every month. Some clubs have an initial fee to get the club started.

MRS. EUGENE Oliver, treasurer of the S.O.S. investment club in Arlington Heights, said: "Our group meets once a month at the homes of members. At each meeting we have a report on some industry, and we all vote on what stocks we want to purchase and which ones we want to liquidate."

The S.O.S. club is composed of 14 Arlington Heights couples. Each couple contributes $10 each month for the purchase of stocks.

Marion Hogate of Arlington Heights is president of the Campers Group investment club. This club is composed of 10 men from various business and professional backgrounds.

"We have two medical doctors, a lawyer, a bank vice president, a purchasing agent, an airline pilot, and two college students in our organization, among others," he stated.

THE CAMPERS Group started out about a year ago with an initial subscription of $50 from each member. Thereafter, each member has contributed $10 a month.

As of August 12 the total value of investments was $2,348.05. This compares with the total cost at that date of $1,970.68. This means that each of the 10 members had a net gain of $29.80 each, or a 14.5 per cent increase in investment.

The S.O.S. club has an investment of $4,220, and a current net worth of $4,368.71. Although this gain is not spectacular, Mrs. Oliver pointed out that the club had a total net worth in April of this year of $5,000 for an investment of about $3,600.

"OUR PROFIT shifts from month to month, but we always seem to be ahead," she said. Members of both groups agree that the main purpose of their investment clubs is to have fun while learning about the stock market.

They realize that there is the possibility of losing money, but they feel it's worth the experience.

Expressway Hits C.&N.W. Hard

Chicago's billion-dollar expressway system has drained off passengers from Chicago and North Western Railway's new "Commuter Streamliner" service to the suburbs during the first six months of this year, a railway spokesman said this week.

In spite of C&NW's investment in all new air-conditioned trains, new hourly "off-peak" trains, and the road's promotional program by newspapers and radio to attract more riders, business is down.

Passenger volume on North Western's new trains to suburbs north, northwest and west of Chicago dropped 9.5 per cent during the first six months this year, compared with 1960.

NORTH WESTERN'S suburban operations were $1,091,000 in the red through June and will be a deficit "substantially in excess of $2 million" by the end of the year unless the road can attract more riders.

While C&NW suburban service was operated on a break-even basis in 1959 and 1960, to restore break-even operations will require a fare increase of from 25 to 30 per cent.

Larry S. Provo, vice president and comptroller of the North Western, pointed out today that massive public investments in expressway construction are responsible for C&NW's sharp reversal in financial results, and particularly the $292,000,000 Northwest-Edens expressway which opened last November.

PROVO TESTIFIED August 29 as a witness subpoenaed by the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee Railroad in its abandonment proceedings now under way before the Interstate Commerce Commission at Chicago.

He asserted at the hearing that North Western believes it would be in the public interest for the North Shore to discontinue operations because

(a) new expressways are now providing tremendous additional transportation facilities in the north shore area which have already created excess capacity on the North Western, and

(b) unless North Western's excess capacity can be used, increased fares are inevitable.

IF NORTH Shore were to discontinue operations, a substantial portion of this needed revenue would be derived from new passengers transferring from the electric line to C&NW's new Commuter Streamliners, Provo asserted.

Provo explained that C&NW now has sufficient excess capacity to handle the North Shore's passenger load. If C&NW's capacity is insufficient, he said, the road would be prepared to purchase the necessary additional equipment.

Until the opening of the Northwest-Edens Expressway last November, C&NW had shown a slight gain in riders last year.

If North Shore railways operations are shut down and approximately 50 per cent of present North Shore riders are attracted to C&NW's new Commuter Streamliner service, the need for a fare increase on the C&NW may well be eliminated, he said. (B8

BEST COSTS LEAST

by ED LANDWEHR

That old truism "you get only what you pay for" is very much the truth when it's about television tubes. Sometimes people will ask us about bait ads they see about cheap tubes, and occasionally we find some of these tubes in sets.

Like any commodity, some manufacturers will always make it cheaper for the trade that only considers price and forgets about quality. Actually, when you consider the length of time that good merchandise lasts, you're money ahead, convenience ahead and viewing is better, particularly in the case of a picture tube.

LANDWEHR TV, 218 N. Dunton, Arlington Heights, has always considered quality best for the lowest cost in the long run. We have proven this, time after time, and we're sure our customers agree because they continue to patronize us. In fact, they tell their friends about us. Hansen Appointed to Head Re-registration

Carl R. Hansen, a market research specialist, of 110 S. Edward, Mt. Prospect, has been appointed north suburban area chairman of the voter re-registration drive being conducted by the Republican Citizens League of Illinois.

His chairmanship was announced this week by Richard B. Ogilvie, state chairman.

Hansen's re-registration campaign territory covers the townships of New Trier, Evanston, Northfield, Niles, Maine, Wheeling, Elk Grove, Palatine, Schaumburg, Barrington and Hanover.

Hansen, holder of a master's degree from the University of Chicago and an Army Reserve Major, has been active in Republican circles since 1957, as chairman of the Cook County Young Republicans in 1957-'58, northwest suburban chairman of volunteers for Nixon-Lodge in 1960, and as campaign chairman of the Elk Grove Township election for the Regular Republican Organization this year.

He is vice-president of the Elk Grove Township Regular Republican Organization now, and a director of both the United Republican Fund of Illinois and the Republican Citizens League.

"OUR GOAL is maximum registration of voters, especially Republicans and Independents, in preparation for important 1962 elections," Hansen explained.

"An astonishing number of voters are not aware that their previous registrations are erased. It is imperative that voters re-register or they will lose their franchise and the opportunity to vote for re-establishment of the two-party system in Chicagoland and toward elimination of 'ghost' voting, which had such a demonstrably bad effect in last November's election.

"We shall be working hard," he continued, "through hundreds of volunteers, to inform voters of their rights and privileges and the danger to them of letting the re-registration period go by unobserved," he said.

CARL R. HANSEN

THIS WILL be a doorbell-ringing job, requiring the volunteer services of hundreds of conscientious voters who can devote hours, days, or weeks to the effort. "Homemakers are our first army," Hansen declared.

"We also believe that retired persons, with time and intelligence to give to this cause, can make an especially enviable contribution.

"There is also a third group — teenagers — who can learn lessons in 'grassroots', practical politics by giving after-school hours and weekends to doorbell-ringing and other volunteer tasks for the re-registration drive."

VOLUNTEERS may sign up directly with Hansen by writing to him or calling him at his home (CL 3-1033), or be assigned to his re-registration force by getting in touch with the Republican Citizens League of Illinois, 67 E. Madison st., Chicago 2, (RAndolph 6-1961).

Protect the Eyes Of School Kids

With the reopening of schools, the public safety committee of the Illinois State Medical Society emphasized the need for protecting the eyes of children in school and at play.

"Children who wear glasses should have lenses made of scatter proof material," the committee said. "Such lenses look no different than those made of ordinary optical glass, but provide greater protection against injuries to the eye."

NOTING THE increasing emphasis on science studies in grammar and high schools, the committee urged that safety spectacles be provided not only in school shops but in all laboratories where there is danger, however remote, of mechanical parts breaking or of chemical explosions.

Safety glasses also were recommended for those with poor vision in one eye irrespective of the need for lenses to correct the vision of the better eye.

The committee warned against the wearing of contact lenses in chemical laboratories where irritating chemicals could be captured behind the lens and not be rapidly washed out of the eyes by tears. They warned also of the danger of infection arising when contact lenses were worn after the eye became irritated or the vision cloudy.

THE STATE LAW insists on a physical examination every four years for children in primary and secondary schools. The eye portion of these examinations is designed principally to find children with defective vision and are incomplete.

The committee emphasized the value of a complete eye examination to rule out organic disease even though vision was normal.

SISTER MARY VICTORIA, chief technologist, Holy Family hospital, 100 N. River rd., Des Plaines, and Dr. Ralph C. Greene, 1280 Margaret st., Des Plaines, chief pathologist, examine laboratory slide for evidence of cancer. They are cooperating with the American Cancer Society, Northwest Suburban chapter, and the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, in a state-wide project to reduce deaths from uterine cancer, second greatest cancer killer in women. Approximately 100 clubs under leadership of state president, Mrs. George V. Malmgren, have pledged to conduct aggressive programs in their local areas as a special health project.

NU Doctor Claims 'Environment' Is Arthritis Factor

There may be a strong environmental factor - as well as a genetic factor - involved in the cause of rheumatoid arthritis, a Northwestern University Medical School doctor reported this week.

In studying over 450 persons, he found for the first time that husbands and wives of patients with rheumatoid arthritis often had clinical symptoms of the disease themselves or had blood changes typical of the disease - indicating that some common environmental factors in the close contact of family life might be involved.

HE ALSO FOUND that the patient's parents, brothers and sisters and children often had the disease or typical blood changes.

The report was presented Sept. 4 by Dr. Frank R. Schmid, assistant professor of medicine at Northwestern university, to scientists attending the 10th International Congress on Rheumatology this week in Rome, Italy.

Rheumatoid arthritis is the common, chronic, crippling joint disease marked by painful inflammatory changes in the joints, and usually resulting in deformity and inability to move the joints. Doctors don't know what causes it.

IF FURTHER research confirms the preliminary finding that the spouses do actually have an increased occurrence of the disease, said Dr. Schmid, "it would suggest that a strong environmental factor exists in a person's becoming ill with rheumatoid arthritis."

However, he emphasized that this would not exclude a genetic mechanism also operating in the disease. "Both genetic and environmental factors might occur," he said.

A high incidence of rheumatoid arthritis has long been recognized in "blood relatives" of patients with this disease, but had not been shown before in husbands and wives. Recently, the presence of an abnormal "rheumatoid factor" in the blood serum of patients also has been found in the blood of immediate relatives, suggesting a possible genetic mechanism.

THE NORTHWESTERN study, of carefully matched groups of control families and families with a patient having the disease, confirmed the high incidence of the disease in patients' blood relatives, showed the high incidence for the first time in spouses of patients, and also found further formerly undescribed changes in the blood serum of those concerned. First Day Friday For County Voter

The people of Wheeling township, through their service organizations, churches, and clubs, are mobilizing for the re-registration of all voters, beginning Friday, Sept. 15, with the help and guidance of the Re-Registration Coordinating Committee.

This immnse and unprecedented non-partisan political enterprise is necessi- Illinois General Assembly tated by a 1959 act of the which requires that all voters in Cook county sign new registration cards.

As of Sept. 15, 1961, all previous registrations are null and void. Every citizen in Wheeling township who meets Illinois voting requirements must re-register on or after Sept. 15 if he is to vote in future elections.

Some weeks past the Re-registration Coordinating Committee of Wheeling Township, under the chairmanship of Raymond H. Stevenson 413 N. Forest ave., Mt. Prospect, undertook to recruit as many service organizations, churches, and clubs as possible to apprise the citizens of the township of the necessity of re-registration.

THE COMMITTEE, made up of interested citizens representing every community within the township as well as all political persuasions, has already engaged the interest and cooperation of more than twenty organizations throughout the township to propagate the re-registration.

Many more organizations are expected to join forces before the first day of re-registration, Sept. 15.

The organizations which have now committed themselves to this vital political project are the following:

IN BUFFALO Grove, the Buffalo Grove Women's club, under the direction of Mrs. Olga Bluhm.

In Prospect Heights, the Prospect Heights Improvement association, under Roger Foehringer; the Prospect Heights Women's club, under Mrs. Lucian Vestal; and Our Redeemer Lutheran church, under the Rev. Herman C. Noll.

In Mount Prospect, the Riverhurst Civic association (Robert Bomquist), the Lou-Elm Home Owners association (Robert Bresemann), and the Fairview PTA (Mrs. Charles Nelson).

In Wheeling, the Wheeling Community Council (made up of 26 different organizations—under the direction of Elic Nekimken).

IN ARLINGTON Heights, the Greenview Estates Civic association (George Reuhl), the Hasbrook Community association (Vince Beuter), the Junior Chamber of Commerce (Don Sweeny), the American Association of University Women, the Junior Women's Club, the Oakton Street Improvement association (J. B. Stevens), Ridge Park Community association (Merideth Astley), and Sherwood Improvement association (Robert Chodera).

Bellwether among organizations promoting the re-registration is the Arlington Heights chapter of the Illinois League of Women Voters. The project chairman for the League is Mrs. Russell Gardner. She is assisted by Mrs. Fred Marks, Mrs. R. B. Yadon, and Mrs. Gerald Chapman.

Also lending full support to the re-registration effort are the Northwest Council of the PTA (Mrs. John Lindstrom) and the Randhurst Council of the PTA (Mrs. Charles Rezner).

THE MEMBERSHIP of the Coordinating Committee of Wheeling Township, in addition to Chairman Stevenson, is as follows:

Area Coordinators—(for Arlington Heights) Russell Conklin, Walter Dahl, Thomas J. Houser, Frank Kams, Mrs. Nathaniel Leighton, and Warren Petersen; (for Buffalo Grove) Gerald Moe); (for Mount Prospect) Mrs. Leonard Gore, John McHugh, and Mrs. Howard B. Todd; (for Prospect Heights) Harold Fichte; (for Wheeling) Roy Hammond.

The public relations sub-committee includes Charles Hayes, Norbert Hruby, Frank Kams, and Gary Nielsen. The League of Women Voters representative on the Committee is Mrs. Louis Nye Jr., and the PTA is represented by Mrs. John Lindstrom and Mrs. Charles Rezner.

THE COMMITTEE is holding its last planning session tonight (Thursday) in anticipation of the first day of re-registration.

The enthusiasm and sense of purpose with which Wheeling Township organizations have rallied make possible the goal of the Committee—100 per cent re-registration. Full details on re-registration procedure will be publicized next week. (ACM

War Over Berlin Not Likely: Ruth

Members of the Arlington Heights Rotary club last week heard some salient remarks from Friedrich Ruth, a diplomat attached to the German consulate in Chicago.

The occasion was the Thursday meeting of the club, at which time Ruth told members that "The Berlin crisis is not the West's making."

"KHRUSHCHEV didn't approve of a free city being located in Communist territory. He didn't like the East Berliners 'voting with their feet,' so he closed their escape route from the divided city," Ruth stated.

He also remarked that he felt Berlin was the result not the cause, of the world predicament. He asserted that after World War II, the Western powers were fooled by Stalin and the Russians.

Ruth assured members of the club that "there will be no war over Berlin. The Communists think that they can win the world without a major conflict," he said.

HE CONCLUDED his talk by asserting that "When barbed wire was erected on the East Berlin border, the Communists were openly admitting the tremendous failure of their idiology." (B8

Garbage Pickup Becomes 'Competitive'

MIDDLE MAN IN VERY important, but seldom heralded function of the community, is operator of garbage collection trucks. They are front line emissaries of operation that few people are aware of in all its complexities. Here, John Van Prooyen, of Barrington Trucking Co., dumps load into hopper of modern disposal truck. Two-man crews hoist an average of 9 tons of garbage into hopper daily, Barrington officials estimate.

FOUR AND A HALF TONS of garbage is dumped at final resting place where it will be compacted by tractor, background, and covered with foot of dirt before crews go home in the evening. Trucks of the Barrington company use a site near Algonquin and Barrington rds. that can accommodate all the garbage from the area for 20 years, according to officials. (B-8

HAZEL LORIMER, typical resident is concerned with garbage as something to be deposited in container as quickly as possible. To most residents, concern for household rubbish ends here unless garbage cans are not emptied with periodic regularity.

Understanding Needed: Firms

by JOHN REDDY

Garbage to the average person is regarded as a bag of debris that should be taken from the house before it begins to stink.

It is given little concern after removal from the home unless the outside cannisters begin to fill or are not emptied with precise regularity.

But to individuals engaged in the scavenging business, garbage and household refuse is a tenuous, competitive and often little understood business.

The Barrington Trucking Co. services Palatine, Mount Prospect and Prospect Heights, collecting garbage from an average of 500 homes a day.

Sixteen trucks make an average of two trips daily. The two man crews hoist some 17,000 pounds of garbage into the packmaster trucks during their two runs.

HENRY LASEKE, of Laseke Disposal Co., which services Arlington Heights, said his trucks haul an average of 75 loads a week to the land-fill dump on Route 53 east of Higgins rd. According to Laseke, that represents garbage deposited by some 34,000 people, including commercial wastes.

The Barrington firm's commercial hauling amounts to about a quarter of its local accounts.

Laseke says the greatest problem "generally is one of cooperation between people and the private contractor."

Citing what he feels is a lack of understanding about the operation, Laseke declared people "just don't seem to understand there has to be a limit to everything. The more you haul the more they want you to haul. We carry away every thing within reason."

JOHN VANDERVELD, of Barrington Trucking Co., states his firm provides everything agreed upon in the various contracts, adding that if communities desire additional service the contracts can be altered.

"Many individuals desire extra pickups and contract individually for the additional service," he said.

Barrington and Laseke crews begin their rounds at 6 a. m. and are through by 2:30 p.m.

BOTH FIRMS provide additional clean-up drives twice a year at which time they cart away large bulky items that otherwise would not be moved because of possible damage to the trucks. This service is free and is considered a public-relations gesture.

The packmaster trucks receive garbage in a rear hopper. A large hydraulic blade scoops it into the box-like body and pushes it forward under pressure of 11,000 pounds per square inch.

Firms using this type of truck decline to haul bulky material such as furniture, broken concrete and iron because of the possible damage that could result to the trucks.

BARRINGTON officials say they have four extra trucks to allow for the average two days a month that vehicles are pulled off regular runs for preventative maintenance and repairs.

Crews have the responsibility of seeing to it that nothing damaging is dumped into the vehicles. But there are times when hot ashes and buffing lint cause the truck operators some problems. Laseke and Vanderveld say hot ashes are a perennial problem .

"Crews stick their hands in ash cans to make sure they are not warm," Vanderveld said. "But some times the ashes on the bottom are hot and we get fires in the trucks." Peter Vanderveld said Barrington has about three such instances a year.

AS THE SUBURBAN communities grow and the volume of refuge is increased, the importance of what to do with garbage receives greater attention.

The Barrington firm, regarded as one of the leaders in land-fill and reclamation disposal operations, has facilities to accommodate all the garbage from the northwest suburban area for 20 years. At its site near Barrington and Algonquin rds. Barrington trucks use a large hollow that once was a marsh.

A dirt dike was constructed to prevent seepage from garbage and drain tile was laid so natural drainage would not be altered by the filling operation.

Trucks drop their cargoes of refuge, a tractor grinds and compacts it constantly until the end of the week when it is covered with at least a foot of dirt.

LASEKE trucks dump at the 80-acre site of the Vandermolen Developing Co., on Route 53 just east of Higgins rd. A number of scavenging firms use this site. Only company trucks use the Barrington site. When they eventually fill their existing site, the Barrington firm will put the land back to farm use.

Henry Laseke admits that finding a site for dumping will someday be a problem. But he cites the strides being taken in land-fill operations and does not see any serious situation arising in the near future. (B8

Announce Contest For Area Females

An Arlington or Prospect high school girl may soon be the proud recipient of a $100 U.S. Savings bond.

The Mt. Prospect Business and Professional Woman's club has announced a speaking contest open to girl students from either Arlington or Prospect high to take place on November 9.

THE CONTEST is being run in conjunction with National Business week, October 1 through October 7. Entrants have been asked to write Mrs. B. J. Quinnell, 903 E. Evergreen, Mt. Prospect, no later than October 15.

In each letter, Mrs. Quinnell has asked the girls to state their age, the school attended, the course majored in, and also their willingness to address the club for five minutes on "Why I would like to enter the particular career that I am interested in."

She noted that the five minute address should also be submitted in written form before the October 15 deadline.

SIX FINALISTS will be notified to appear before the club on November 9, 1961, at 6:30 p.m. The talks will be judged at that time, and the award presented.

Daughters or other immediate relatives of club members will not be allowed to compete in the contest. Other information can be obtained by calling Mrs. Quinnell at CL 3-9498. (B8

Moms Labor on Labor Day to Get Kids Ready for School

The Labor day holiday was mostly labor and not much holiday for the majority of local mothers with school-age kids. Since "school" means everything from pre-kindergarten nursery classes to the last year of college and kids are helpless at all ages, especially when it comes to getting ready for school, there were hardly any ladies of leisure Monday. Tuesday was lovely, though.

Adding entertaining to a busy pre-school weekend was Mrs. Charles Baker, 19 N. Pine, current "mother" of Florence Berger of Juranson, France. Miss Berger, a foreign exchange student, began her senior year at Arlington high school Tuesday and came here two weeks ago to live with the Bakers for the school year.

Saturday evening Mrs. Baker introduced her daughter pro tem to high school instructors, their wives and husbands at a buffet supper party for 14. Sunday evening Kathy held open house so that about 30 of her high school friends could meet Florence under easy-going, coke-and-snacks conditions.

MR. AND MRS. Howard Hansen, 730 S. Mitchell, returned Monday from the campus of William Penn university in Oskaloosa, Iowa where they enjoyed the luncheon for parents before beginning their son-less trip home. They left here Friday with their son, Bob, who begins a business course, after the fun and furor of rush week, of course.

The John Haydens, 1649 N. Vail, the Ray Schwartzes, Kensington rd. and the James Ladds, 19 S. Evergreen, celebrate wedding anniversaries and a birthday Saturday night with a dinner-out occasion at the Naka-noya in Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Hayden share a September 4 anniversary date with Mr. and Mrs. Schwartz and both couples selected as a wedding day the birthday of Mrs. Hayden's uncle, Mr. Ladd.

The M. R. Kephart family, 501 S. Evergreen, enjoyed the holiday weekend at Chain o'-Lakes aboard their favorite summertime "home," their craft, the "Jolly K." Last Wednesday ended a weeklong visit here of Mrs. Kephart's sisters, Mrs. Carl Powell with her daughter, Cindy of Huntsville, Ala., and Mrs. John Dalton with her son, Johnny of Nashville. Mrs. Powell had visited here earlier in the month, then came back again with Mrs. Dalton to make the 3-sister visit complete.

THE ROBERT Carstens family came back to 1014 N. Evergreen Monday after spending the summer in their cottage on the Indiana dunes. Mrs. Carstens and the children returned last Tuesday for a quick go at school preparations, then went back to Indiana for a final weekend of summer fun before bowing to September demands.

Bride-elect Miss Kay Witter, daughter of the Leonard Witters, 11 W. Hawthorn, was feted early last month at a surprise pre-nuptial party given by Miss Karen Berns of Palatine and Miss Nancy Connors of Wheeling. Eighteen close personal friends of Miss Witter met in the Berns home, then showered the guest of honor with miscellaneous gifts as soon as she had sufficiently recovered from her surprise.

Miss Witter will be married Saturday to Paul Syoen, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Syoen, 733 N. Evergreen.

AMONG THE August departures for college was that of John West, 837 S. Highland, who left here a week ago Wednesday for Dallas and the Southern Methodist university campus. Accompanying him on the drive to school was SMU coed, Miss Susy Knight of Glen Ellyn. West begins his junior year.

The James Dalton family, 522 S. Dunton, enjoyed a final weekend jaunt, returning early last week from a sightseeing tour of the state capitol and historic sites in the Springfield area.

Also returning early last week was the Vernon Pingel family, 422 S. Evergreen. They had 10 leisurely days of touring in Colorado and New Mexico, timing their visit to Sante Fe so that they could take in the annual Southwest Indian festival. On the return trip they stopped in Rolla, Mo. where Mr. and Mrs. Pingel enjoyed reunions with professors they had known at the Missouri School of Mines.

HOLIDAY WEEKEND guests of the J. R. Walshes, 509 W. Euclid, were Mrs. Walsh' sister and brother-in-law, the Frederick Hubriches of Milwaukee. Mr. and Mrs. Walsh hosted a holiday cookout for 12 in honor of the visitors, enabling Mr. and Mrs. Hubrich to see several of their Chicago area friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Peterson, 207 N. Douglas, beat the holiday traffic home, returning Saturday from a 2-week stay at Lake Delavan with their daughter and family, the Dr. Ernest Sotrops of Sandwich, Ill., in the Sotrops' summer cottage.

The Peter Eriksen family, 5 W. Orchard, returned early last week from a week in a Long Lake resort cottage near Hayward, Wis. Accompanying them and in adjacent cottages were Chicago friends, the William Wolke and Robert Wolke families. The week of happy-hectic fun was by way of celebrating the wedding anniversaries of Mr. and Mrs. Eriksen and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wolke who share an August 20 wedding date. It was the 20th anniversary for the Arlington Heighters and the 21st for their Chicago friends.

Their families, complete with pets, were included in the anniversary fling and Mrs. Eriksen reports, "We sort of took over the whole resort." The grand total of children was grand indeed and the three dog-members of the families nearly went out of their canine minds with the joy of unrestrained foraging in the woods and flopping in the water.

Enroute Ocean City, Md. where they visited a week with Mr. Bliss' brother, Eugene, they stopped in Marion, Ohio, Philadelphia and Washington, D. C. They visited Mt. Vernon and other historic points of interest in the area before reaching their Ocean City destination.

The second annual Labor Day celebration of Wilshire lane residents was a Saturday affair this year so that Monday would be free for the 24 mothers of the neighborhood to get their 68 children ready for school. Since it was of course an outdoor get-together, Saturday morning's overcast skies were matched by the faces of kids who were looking forward to races and contests at 2:45 p.m.

The sun came out in the afternoon as per chairman Claude Chinn's arrangements, the races were run and prizes won on schedule, and the 6 o'clock potluck barbecue session came just in time to stave off mass starvation. An early evening deadline had been set in honor of juvenile bedtimes and elderly muscles and this, too went according to plan. Everybody felt fine Sunday.

The Jack Guilfoil family, 801 S. Chestnut, returned Friday on Gail's eighth birthday from a 5-day camping trip at the White Pines state camp site near Mt. Morris, Ill. It was a delightful experience aside from one cold, rainy night, one night that gypsies arrived and another night that a small Guilfoil nibbled a leak in his mother's air mattress. Most of the "aside froms" were offset by the beautiful scenery and father taking over the cooking detail.

Donna brought back greetings to old friends from the former Arlington Heighters, who are building a new home and going well in Springfield.

MR. AND Mrs. Joseph Svoboda, 713 S. Walnut, and Mr. and Mrs. John Heintz, 888 S. Bristol, recently returned from an around-the-lake tour of Lake Superior that picturesquely filled a week with a little time left over for fishing.

After being home a week, the Svobodas left again for a last-week-of-summer vacation in Land o'Lakes, Wis. where trout streams abound and, at least for Mr. Svoboda, so did the trout. He reports excellent luck and reluctantly ending the fun last Friday.

A Message From George Harris

"Your Pharmacist"

MAIL-ORDER QUACKS HARVEST DEATH

A recent article in the American Medical Association's "TODAY'S HEALTH" told how people gamble, not just their money, but their very lives when they order medicines and medical devices by mail.

AVOID MAIL-ORDER QUACKERY.

Postal inspectors say, "Any therapy, device, remedy, or 'cure' sold by mail should be treated with suspicion, especially if it makes sweeping claims."

UNITED STATES POSTMASTER GENERAL SAID

"In an era when wonder drugs and great advances in surgery have produced medical miracles, it is puzzling why so many people pay money for frauds. Do not take or use any medicine or health device sold by mail without first consulting your physician."

ASK FOR OUR PROFESSIONAL OPINION.

As your pharmacist, it is our moral, willing and legal duty to give you an informed answer to any ethical question. We can tell you when it would be wiser to depend on a physician, rather than on advertising claims.

QUICK PROFITS DO NOT INTEREST PHARMACISTS.

We depend on your continuous patronage. That is why you are safer when you get all medicines and health needs from us.

Ridge Park–Sherwood

FROM RIDGE PARK

The Ridge Park bridge group is still mighty active and Vi Loechl is sending out an SOS for new members. Anyone interested should call Vi at CL 3-2838, as they are setting up dates for round robin bridge now.

The Dave Bones, 704 N. Salem, left Friday for an extended weekend visit in Ithaca, N. Y., with the senior Bones and other relatives. Accompanying them was Liberty Mhlanga of Southern Rhodesia who was their guest last weekend during a tour of the Chicago area. Mhlanga now begins post-graduate work in biology at Clark university in Worchester, Mass.

Lu and Ralph Hostler, 927 N. Kennicott, are the parents of a son, born August 29 in Norwegian American hospital, Chicago. Matthew Wayne, their fourth child, weighed 6 pounds 5 ounces. Linda, 8, Ricky, 6, and Paul, 5, had just returned with their Grandmother Small from a visit in Ft. Worth, Texas in time to welcome their new brother.

Mrs. Small plans to remain here for a few more weeks before returning home to Ft. Worth to give Mr. Small a full report of the new grandson. Paternal grandparents are the A. W. Hostlers of Chicago.

RELATIVES came from various points in Michigan and from as far away as Ontario, Canada to the family reunion at Ruth and Bill Griffith's, 625 N. Kaspar, August 19. It had been two years since the 24 had been together and even the rain didn't dampen their spirits. The following Tuesday Ruth and the children went to Burlington, Iowa, to visit the Fred Dufelmeiers for a week. Bill drove down at the end of the week to bring them home.

Another Ridge Park family attended a family reunion recently, only this one was held in Dycksville, Wis. The Howard Tollefsons. 1504 Brown, took their children to Green Bay for a family visit which included a reunion at the rectory of St. Louis church, where her brother, Rev. D. H. Hockers, is pastor. The family reunion last year was such a success that they decided on another one this year, which brought out 10 brothers and sisters and their families.

When the Richard Woods, 729 N. Fernandez, went to Milwaukee last week to visit relatives they also celebrated the fifth birthday of her godchild, Daniel, with a dinner party at the home of his parents, the Richard Elberts. Milwaukee was home to the Woods before they moved here, so they had many friends to see while there, including Brookfield city attorney George Schmus and his family who entertained them at an outdoor barbecue. They also enjoyed a dinner dance at Tuckaway country club where they were members when they lived in Milwaukee.

THE CHARLES Harringtons, 1212 W. Northwest hwy., are back from a 2-month vacation to Humbolt, Tenn., where they visited relatives.

Bill Read returned yesterday for a few days' visit with his parents, Ginnie and Bob 1019 N. Kennicott, before he goes back to Colorado State university at Ft. Collins, where he will be a junior. Bill has had an interesting summer working as a wrangler on a dude ranch in Colorado.

Dan Elenz has a lot to tell his friends about his 2½-week vacation in Sarasota, Fla., with his Grandparents Kauphusman. Besides swimming, they took many sightseeing tours in and around Sarasota. Dan is the son of June and Ed Elenz, 1008 N. Ridge.

August 9 Lil, George and Margie Lurtz, 909 N. Patton, took off for their cottage at Three Lakes, Wis., and didn't return until Sunday. Highlight of the vacation for Margie was skiing in the Three Lakes water ski show. When the show was over, Margie and 15 of the girls who belong to the ski club camped overnight on one of the islands there and life will never be the same for the animals, because their parents could hear the girls two lakes away. Lil entered the flower show up there and came off with several ribbons which she is proudly showing her friends.

Friends and neighbors were sorry to see the Bill Wallaces, 632 N. Salem, move rather suddenly to a suburb of Dallas, Texas. Bill had changed jobs recently which prompted the move.

FROM SHERWOOD

Come September and many Sherwood families are busy helping get their offspring ready for college. Among such families are the Herbert Conners, 1117 W. Burgoyne, whose son, Terry, will enter the University of Michigan September 13 as a freshman, majoring in mechanical engineering. Terry's friend and fellow graduate from St. John Military academy, Don House, is going southwest to the University of Oklahoma, where he will major in journalism. Don's family, the Don Houses, live at 1120 N. Harvard.

The Paul Fellinghams, 1145 N. Patton, took Wendy to Macomb the Sunday before Labor day, where she entered Western Illinois university as a freshman. Amy and Paul returned home the following day.

Although the W. W. Holloways, 1004 Oakton, are back home, their hearts are still in Wyoming where they recently spent 10 days on a dude ranch near Jackson Hole. They rode horses just about every day, but aside from the beautiful scenery — they were surrounded by the Tetons — the day they went swimming in the mountains stands out vividly in their memories. After a short drive up into the mountains, they came to a natural swimming pool fed by hot springs, and in order to swim comfortably, cold water has to be pumped in. Now that they are home, they are infecting all their friends with their enthusiasm of the west.

Doris and Herb Cornelius and their children, 1108 Watling, went west for their vacation, too. They were gone four weeks in all, taking one week to drive out so they could sightsee all the way. They spent four to five days in Los Angeles visiting friends and places of interest such as Disneyland, before driving on to San Francisco for another five days.

Eating at many of the exciting places in San Francisco appealed to the whole family, but the children especially enjoyed riding the cable cars. Coming home they stopped at Lake Tahoe before hitting Estes Park in Colorado a day ahead of the snowstorm. Reading about the storm in the paper afterward, they still marvel at their good timing. (A

Hasbrook Happenings

Hazel Peck CLearbrook 9-0688

Wondering about that ringing in your ears? It's just that old school bell, but it's changed the whole look of Hasbrook. It's a little quieter now, and many a mother will tell you it's a lot lonelier.

Just about everyone seems to be back from vacation. Walter and Marge Draxler, 1616 N. Kennicott, and their four children recently returned from a week in Cleveland.

The Harold Trieschmanns are back home, 1633 N. Chestnut ave., after three weeks spent with relatives in Iowa. Their itinerary included North English, where son, Marlin, and his wife, Rosemary, live, and Wellman, where they visited Harold's mother, Mrs. Mary Trieschmann.

They also managed to squeeze in visits with Mrs. Trieschmann's sisters from Mt. Pleasant and Fairfield, Iowa. Company on the return trip was another son, Tom, who had been a summer guest at his brother's home.

Al and Bertha Barbaro, 1543 N. Kennicott ave., wound up the summer holidays with a festive weekend at the Wagon Wheel.

DEAN AND Karyl Jacobsen, 1538 N. Kaspar, welcomed back 7-year old Scott, who visited his aunt and uncle, Verna and Bill Olson in Wauwatosa, Wis. August 20 to 26.

Dolores Cox, 1539 N. Kaspar, arrived home August 31, after a 3-week trip to Fairbury, Neb. where she, daughter, Patty, and son, Doug, enjoyed seeing her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Bernhardt.

If Tom Pniewski, 303 Maude ave., and Billy Kohn, 1703 N. Chestnut, appear to be a little tanner and a little more "prepared" for anything and everything, it's probably because of that 2-week vacation they had at Camp Napowan, Wild Rose, Wis.

THE W. F. Petersons, 1605 N. Chestnut, are still a little breathless following all the celebrating at their house. Son Dick of Wheaton had a birthday August 26, son Bob just came back from a 10-day vacation in Kansas City, and August 27 Ford and Nell had further cause for celebration when they observed their 28th wedding anniversary. Bob and Edie had dinner at the Kungsholm the past weekend. The occasion was a seventh wedding anniversary, August 28.

Charles and Pat Jimison, 1611 N. Chestnut, were nine years married August 29. It was a pretty special day for the Tom Caulfields, too, since it marked eight years of marriage for them.

Eight was also the magic number for George and Mary Grant, 801 Lynwood ave., who were married eight years ago September 5. Because good things come in pairs in Mary's family, her twin sister observed her wedding anniversary September 1, and the two couples enjoyed an evening on the town together last weekend.

VISITORS to this neck of the woods were Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Schnider and their son, Michael, of Prairie du Sac, Wis. They were the guests for several days of longtime friends, Jack and Betty Vail, 1513 Fernandez pl.

Mrs. Jeanne Dan spent some time with son Merwyn, and his wife, Dolly, 1539 N. Kennicott ave., but returned to her Peoria home Sunday.

Another visiting mother has been Mrs. Gustave Moller, who left August 31 for home in Long Island after a week's visit with her son and daughter-in-law, Rolf and Lynn Moller, 902 W. Thomas. A well-traveled lady, she had just previously been in Denver, keeping a grandmotherly eye on the new baby in Rolf's brother's house.

Lynn and Judy Simpson held a surprise baby shower for neighbor Melissa Voss last Wednesday. Guests Joanne Ruggeri, Lee Monroe, Barb Quinn, Pat Ryan, Denny Melroy, Sylvia Nolan, Marian Shea and Celeste Kelly lunched on the patio and relaxed during a delightful afternoon that included presents for Melissa and pleasant conversation all around.

It was a double "Happy Birthday" when those look-alike tykes, Victor and Valerie, twin youngsters of Caroline and Dick Walker, 1542 N. Kaspar ave., turned one-year-old Aug-

Notes from Arlington Acres

This was followed by a picnic supper and later dancing for the adults.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Pulling and children, Lori, Ricky and Keith, 429 S. Phelps, have returned from a 4-week vacation trip, one week of which they spent at a cottage at Higgins lake in northern Michigan with friends, Mr. and Mrs. Pat Waldon of Detroit. Weather was ideal for swimming and all did a lot of sightseeing, taking an interesting trip to the Bear Archery Equipment company at Grayling, Mich., the largest of its kind in the world.

After leaving the lake resort, the Pullings drove to Erie Pa., to visit Mr. Pullings parents, the Clarence Pullings, and then to Trenton, N. J., to see Mr. and Mrs. William Coutier, the parents of Mrs. Pulling.

MRS. RON ROLD, 433 S. Gibbons, and Jeffrey and Roni Jo have been away for three weeks, visiting Mr. Rold's mother, Mrs. June Rold, at her lakeside home at Wild Rose, Wis. Jeff will remember the 8-inch bass he caught because he got so excited he fell off the pier. Mr. Rold was able to drive up to spend weekends with his family, and enjoyed a visit from his brother, Doug, and daughter, Jody, who flew from their home in Miami for a few days

Mrs. Mark Roos, 2124 E. Park, has returned from a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Crede in Baltimore. Mr. Roos was unable to take the trip, but Mrs. Roos was accompanied by their children, Kathy, Mark and Eric. Mrs. Roos visited friends and took the children swimming and to Fort McHenry to see the ships docked nearby.

The John Lynches, 433 S. Forrest, have returned home from a 3-week vacation. Two weeks were spent at a cottage on Cape Cod, where they and their sons, Mark and Frank, went clamming and surf bathing, with a side trip to Plymouth and a visit to the oceanographic aquarium at Woods Hole. The third week was spent visiting Mrs. Lynch's parents, the Frank Menetreys in Watertown, Conn.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pipkin and children, Polly and Frank, 508 S. Prindle, spent their vacation fishing at Timber Edge camp outside Sioux Lookout Ontario, Canada. One of the high spots of the trip was Charles' catch — a 16-pound lake trout on a fly rod. Frank was poud of his 6-pound northern while Polly enjoyed water skiing. (A

VIRGINIA TERRACE

Mary Ann and John Geer, 1515 Clarendon, and daughters, Nancy, Barbie and Laura, spent their 4-week vacation stay at Gregory beach, near Dowagic, Mich. In addition to the usual water sports, Mary Ann's diligent efforts paid off, and she can now water ski, with no hands, and adds that she has bruises to prove it.

A motor trip from Kansas to Ohio and back to Illinois was recently enjoyed by the Gunnison family, 1407 Clarendon. After spending a few days with Cathy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Lackland in Sabetha, Kan., Cathy and Bill, with their sons, Bobby, Scott and Mark, drove to Lexington, Ky., to see Oak and Jim Kuhnheim, formerly of Sherwood, and then through Ohio, with a brief stopover at Cincinnati, and on to Dayton, where they visited former Terrace residents, Betty and Kelly Forsberg.

Friends and neighbors of Jean and Richard Larson, 1245 N. Illinois, are happy to note their recent move takes them only as far as Stonegate in Arlington Heights.

AS A REWARD for being Northwest Arlington Little League champions, the Gophers were presented with tickets to the Cubs-L. A. Dodgers game last Wednesday at Wrigley field, courtesy of the Cubs management. Seventeen Gophers attended the game, accompanied by team manager George Lilly and coaches Fred Maybee and Bob Buechener.

Earlier in the week Gopher parents honored their sons with trophies at a team and family picnic held at Deer Grove. Terrace families present included the John Norenbergs, Bob Gumzes, Fred Maybees, Bill Cardinells, Ed Lussiers, Ed Neilsens, Andrew Reeds, Bill Rosses, Bob Hults and the George Lillys.

Michael, son of George and Marianne Lindholm, 1338 N. Chicago, celebrated his sixth birthday with a supper party recently. Joining in the festivities were sister Judy, and playmates Richard Sorensen, Allan Cech, Jimmy Kohler and Kevin Corley.

Last Thursday night's meeting of the Babysitting club was held at the home of Shirley Landes, 1251 N. Chicago. Exchanging neighborhood news and enjoying refreshments were Adele Yore, Marcy Micek, Jo Rovaldovsky, Dorothy Catlin and Betty Gumz.

A FAMILY DINNER was held this weekend for the first birthday celebration of Jill Ann, daughter of Robert and Shirley Vogtritter, 1208 N. Race.

Enjoying a 5-week vacation at Southampton, L. I., were the Noons, 1221 N. Chicago. John and Margaret, with their children, John, James, Jonathan and Margaret, stayed with Margaret's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John O'Connell, at their summer cottage, and fully utilized the beaches for swimming and fishing. While there, daughter Margaret's first birthday was celebrated with her family and grandparents.

A backyard party was held Saturday for Michael, son of Adele and Michael Yore, 1260 N. Illinois. Helping to extinguish the seven birthday candles was brother Danny and guests David Zare, Bobby Blomquist, Jim and Jeff Almdale, Scott Neilsen, Craig Gardner and Gerry Crouisier.

Following two weeks spent in graduate study at school for men in the Savings and Loan field, held at the University of Indiana, Bloomington, Lee Duss, 1322 N. Race, returned home to enjoy a week's visit with his mother, Mrs. Lee Duss Sr. of Jefferson City, Mo., who had been enjoying a stay with grandson, Doug, and daughter-in-law, Lena.

JOHN AND PAULINE Noerenberg, 1235 N. Race, entertained Pauline's brother and sister-in-law, the Harry Andrews and baby, Chris, of Milwaukee this past week. While John and Harry golfed and attended the races, the girls stayed home and caught up on family news.

Fred and Mary Maybee, 1251 N. Wilke, enjoyed a "home-based" vacation this year. While taking the children on picnics, swimming and to places like Brookfield zoo took up most of their week, they took time out for a Maybee family reunion, held at the Swedish Glee club in Waukegan. Approximately 40 people gathered there to enjoy cocktails, smorgasbord and dancing.

Fred and Anne Miller, who moved this week from 1256 N. Illinois, will be missed by their friends and neighbors. However, everyone wishes them well on their move to Dayton, Ohio, where Fred's new job is based.

The eighth birthday of Adele, daughter of Ed and Natalie Thompson, 1266 N. Chicago, was celebrated last Wednesday with a party at home, followed by a trip to the Arlington theatre to view "The Parent Trap". Guests included Sherry Clarkson, Susie and Virginia Catlin and Cindy Ross.

The birthday club recently held a farewell luncheon in honor of Marilou Crouch, 1228 N. Chicago, who will be leaving the Terrace shortly for their new home in Westgate. The party was held at the home of Isabel Nottoli, 1227 N. Race, and attended by Dorothy Ballard, Maisie Sikorske, Pauline Noerenberg and Margay Wilmot.

DANNY BEAL, 1440 N. Race, recently celebrated his seventh birthday with a family dinner party. In addition to parents, Maynard and Jean, and brother, Chris, and sister, Nancy, guests included maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Moses, aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Tapp with cousins, Karen and Gayle, all of Park Ridge, and his paternal grandparents, Rev. and Mrs. Ellery Beal of De Kalb.

Recently William Heise, 1222 N. Yale, spent two weeks on graduate work, under the auspices of the First National bank, at the University of Virginia in Charlottsville. Regina and the boys, Gordon and Wayne, flew down to join Bill at the conclusion of his studies. Together they spent their 3-week vacation touring such places as the naval base at Norfolk, Jefferson's Monticello and historic Gettysburg.

The Parks family, 1259 N. Wilke, spent their vacation at Wolf Lake, Wis., this year. Ray and Jean, with the children, Bob, Nancy, Susan and Judith, enjoyed the usual swimming and fishing in addition to touring the Dells, Storybook Gardens, Frntier land and viewing Tommy Bartlett's water show. Their 2-hour trip on an amphibious "duck" boat, which made its way through lakes and over wooded areas was especially interesting.

Lady Barbershoppers On Local FM Sunday

UNCLAIMED FOUR, Joy Hukill, Bette Hennessy, Helen Keefer and Lori Tomkins, will be guaranteed an audience of 10 children and four husbands Sunday when they sing over local FM station WNWC.

Sunday, Sept. 10 the "Unclaimed Four," local lady barbershop quartet, will entertain with barbershop harmony from 12:30 p.m. until 1 p.m. on the FM station WNWC, sponsored by Barney Erickson, owner of Tower Cleaning establishment in Mt. Prospect. The group was officially registered with Sweet Adelines, Inc. in December of 1959.

The quartet is comprised of four housewives who sing together for fun. Joy Hukill, tenor, of Prospect Heights, Bette Hennessy, lead, of Palatine, Helen Keefer, baritone, and Lori Tomkins, bass, both from Mt. Prospect, are members of the Country Chords chapter of Sweet Adelines, Inc. of Mt. Prospect under the direction of Miss Phyllis Haeger.

January 20, 1961 the "Unclaimed Four" placed first in the novice quartet contest in region 3 held in LaGrange with 16 quartets competing. Since then they have filled many and varied singing dates including the National Restaurant convention at the Palmer House, the spring dinner for the North Shore Drug club at the Morton House in Morton Grove, the Mt. Prospect Lions club, a strawberry festival in Oak Park, a DAR luncheon at the Spinning Wheel in LaGrange, a Boy Scout pancake supper and Elgin State hospital as well as churches of all denominations and other charitable organizations.

September 23 they will appear on Showcase '61 presented by the Country Chords. Miss Haeger will direct the 65-voice chorus in a night of barbershop harmony beginning at 8:15 p.m. at Maine Township high School West, Des Plaines. Also featured on the show will be the Half Steps" from the Country Chords chapter, the Keytonics" a mens quartet from Palos Park, quarter-finalists in the SPEBSQSA international contest in Philadelphia in June 1961, and the "Quartern otes"

DURING A QUIET moment at the Lutheran General hospital "coffee break" in honor of Dr. Fredric M. Norstad, (left), the guest register is signed by T. L. Jacobsen, the hospital's executive director. Dr. Norstad is leaving this week to resume his position as professor of practical theology at Luther Theological Seminary in St. Paul, Minn. He has served the hospital for the past two years, first as head of the department of pastoral care and during the past year as president of the foundation for human ecolgy.

past international champion girls comedy quartet from Racine. Tickets are available at Keefers pharmacy and Carters music shop in Mt. Prospect. Bob Atcher, well-known radio and TV star, heard the "Unclaimed Four" while they were singing for the Arlingtones, local mens barbershop chapter, and asked them to sing on FM station WNWC. (AMP

Labor Day Weekend

Northwest Area Road Score: 4 Fatalities

Four were killed and 10 others injured in accidents on northwest suburban highways as the Labor Day holiday began.

Killed in one accident was an Arlington Heights man and a 23-year-old Morton Grove woman.

THE ACCIDENT occurred on Illinois 58 a mile east of U. S. 45 at 9:25 p.m. Aug. 31.

George W. Kraft, 45, of 20 N. Prindle, Arlington Heights, was driving west on Illinois 58. Driving west was Thomas L. Hughes, 24, of 5945 Madison, Morton Grove.

Kraft apparently lost control of his car, crossing over into the eastbound lane, his vehicle slammed broadside into the Hughes' car, state police reported.

Killed were Kraft and Harriet Sandra Hughes, 23, a passenger in the second car. Injured were Hughes and David Earl Hughes, 2½. They were taken to Holy Family hospital.

DAMAGE TO the first car was listed as $1700; damage to the second was $1000.

In a second fatal accident, at 3:15 p.m. Aug. 29 on U.S. 45 at Illinois 58, George J. Seiter, 20, of Steger, Ill. was heading south when he apparently lost control of his car.

The vehicle swerved across the road, striking a traffic control signal and then rolling over.

He was taken to Holy Family hospital where he was pronounced dead on arrival. Damage to the car was listed as $1000.

In still another fatality, one septuagenarian was killed and another critically injured.

Jack C. Miller, 32, of Box 174, Des Plaines, was driving down U.S. 12 at Wilke road, 2½ miles south of Illinois 68 at 1:25 p.m. Aug. 30, when it happened.

According to police, he failed to yield the right of way to a second car driven by Anton Vaneso, 70, of 985 McKinley rd., Lake Forest, and his car struck Vaneso's.

A PASSENGER in the Vaneso car, Frank Barkar, 72, of 993 Maplewood, Lake Forest, was killed. Vaneso was seriously injured. Miller was hurt. All were taken to Northwest Community hospital.

On Aug. 29, Ivan Jenkins, 28, of Glenview, was eastbound on Euclid-Lake, four miles north of Illinois 58, about a mile east of Illinois 21.

The accident occurred at 11:35 p.m. Jenkins later told police he went on the shoulder of the road to avoid collision with an unknown car, lost control and turned over. The injured man was taken to Holy Family hospital. Damage to his car was $500.

THE FOLLOWING day, there was a three-car accident on River road, a mile east of U. S. 45 at Touhy, a mile south of Illinois 62.

The accident occurred at 5:35 p.m. Aug. 30. A car driven by Johnny Gray, 35, of 917 Mohawk, Chicago, turned into the path of a car driven by LeRoy H. Alt, 52, of 1869 Sycamore, Des Plaines.

Alt's car pushed Gray's car into a third car driven by Theodore Shumon, 37, of 2336 Scott, Des Plaines. Gray was injured and taken to Resurrection hospital. Damage to the Shumon car was $200; to the Alt car, $400, and to the Gray car $1000.

A two-car collision occurred at 6:10 p.m. on Sept. 2 on U.S. 12 at Illinois 68, when Ruby Anderson, 65, of Rockford, attempted to make a left turn in front of another vehicle.

The second car was driven by Donald Miller, 35, of 323 Beverly, Mt. Prospect, who was driving straight ahead. Miller and Joan Miller, 33, and Gene Miller, 6, two passengers in his car were injured. Uninjured was Gregg, sitting in the woman's lap. The injured were taken to Northwest Community hospital.

RM Sidewalk Bazaar Is Sept. 14, 15, 16

Three days packed with entertainment, exhibits, contests, prizes and surprises.

That's the plan for Rolling Meadows sidewalk bazaar to be held in the city's downtown shopping district on Kirchoff rd. September 14, 15 and 16.

MERCHANDISE will be moved out on the sidewalks, salespeople will be in costume, windows will hold exhibits of antiques.

A continuous series of events has been scheduled, climaxed Saturday with a chicken dinner and street dance in the parking lot sponsored by the fire department.

Apparel shops will stage fashion shows. The Nanah Buzh Indian village will be set up in the parkways, and authentic Indian dances will be performed. There will be a replica of a Wells Fargo stage coach offering thrilling rides to youngsters.

VISITORS WILL be able to ride from one parking area to another on an old-fashioned hay wagon.

Marking the centennial of the Civil War, confederate and union flags and costumes will be used to decorate the shopping area. To emphasize the unity of the downtown section, the north and south decorations will be mingled on both sides of Kirchoff rd.

One of the major events will be a pie eating contest for boys and girls between the ages of 8 and 12.

ENTRY BLANKS can be picked up in Rolling Meadows stores starting today, September 7, and must be turned in at Meadows Restaurant by September 13 to be eligible to compete for the two-wheelers being offered by the merchants as prizes.

Individual stores are planning special events, and a full schedule of activities will be published next week in a special section of Paddock Publications.

Engineers Can Get Refresher Course

High School District 214's evening adult education program Tuesday initiated a refresher course for engineers who wish to prepare for the state examinations for the professional engineer license.

Night school director Tom Shirley pointed out, however, that late registrants will still be accepted. Interested engineers should phone Shirley's office at Arlington high school.

The staff of the University of Illinois college of engineering will conduct the course which meets Tuesday from 7 to 10 p.m. in Room 220 at Arlington high.

Tuition for the class, which runs until November 13, is $30, plus $1 registration fee.

Q. When a man and woman are walking together in the rain, and both have umbrellas, does each one use his own umbrella?

A. This usually proves too awkward. It is much better if both walk under the man's larger umbrella.

Q. When making a call of condolence at someone's home, how long should one stay?

A. This type of call should be especially brief — usually not longer than about 15 minutes. Unless, of course, the bereaved friend asks you to stay longer.

DANCING UNDER the stars during July and August helped members of Swingin' Squares to keep up their dancing skills between seasons, have fun and also learn a few new maneuvers. Weather permitting, the group will dance outdoors Tuesday, evening, Sept. 12, on the patio at Pioneer Park.

Square Dance Club News

Dorothy Meyer — CLearbrook 3-2298

BUCKS AND DOES

From the Elk Grove club comes a flyer announcing "Pre-Season Specials" and they sound like the best September bargains we've seen in a long time. Both specials are free. Tomorrow night at 8 o'clock there's a free street dance in Franklin Park where the Bucks and Does caller, Bob Lewis, will stop traffic, squarin 'em up at 3225 N. Edgington. After his best endeavors the following Tuesday night, Sept. 12, nobody at the free get-acquainted dance will be strangers any more. The getting-to-know-you fun will be under Bob's direction as of 8 o'clock in Higgins school, Higgins and Touhy in Elk Grove.

The one catch to these superbargain specials is that they're for people only; there's fine print to watch out for, too. It says, "Everybody come."

THE CLUB'S regularly scheduled dancing begins Saturday night at 8 o'clock in Higgins school with Busy Bob at the controls. After the street dance, the season's first regular dance and the get-acquainted dance, Lewis will be wound up pretty good for the next September dance, Saturday, Sept. 23. He'll be at Higgins school for all Bucks and Does regular dances and everybody's welcome to attend the club's second and fourth Saturday night dancing every month.

Between times, Bob Lewis will be at the head of instruction classes that begin Tuesday, Sept. 19 at 8 p.m. in Higgins school.

SWINGIN' SQUARES

A report from the Swingin' Squares of Arlington Heights reveals that dancing this past summer was an under-the-stars pure delight. Dancing in the present, next Tuesday, Sept. 12, will be a free, everybody-come affair and dancing in the future, October 6 through May 18, will be full of fun and surprises.

The summer starlight dances were held July 8 and 22, August 12 and 26 in the Fairmont Foods parking lot in Rolling Meadows Industrial Park. Lots of enthusiastic guests joined the club membership, thus keeping up their dancing skills between seasons, learning a few new maneuvers and just plain having fun. Club caller Don Finfrock was at the mike for the first three dances and Bob Kim did a fine job of subbing August 26 for Don to climax the starlight sessions.

NEXT TUESDAY night's opening dance will also be an outdoor affair, weather permitting. A "fair and warm" prediction will mean dancing on the patio at Pioneer Park, 500 S. Fernandez, Arlington Heights; a not-so-fair night will turn the dancing indoors in the park's fieldhouse.

Club caller Don Finfrock is doing what he can about the weather, but will face the music and call it, too, whether the dance turns out to be a Patio Promenade or a Fieldhouse Fling.

Club officers urge all members to bring at least one guest couple; they extend the invitation to all those who have danced in the past and would like a little refresher and invite all experienced dancers to bring along new-to-the-dance couples who may be interested in learning to square dance.

It's a "the more, the merrier" invitation and, as added enticement, a free one. Dancing will start at 8 and last until 11:30, when a refreshment and social session winds up the fun.

THE REGULAR season will begin Friday, Oct. 6 and continue on the first and third Fridays of each month through May, with the half-way mark at January's last session. All dances will be in Recreation Park field house, 500 E. Miner, Arlington Heights and Don Finfrock is again booked as the club's regular caller. This season the Swingin' Squares will also feature round dance instruction from 8 p.m. to 8:30 at all regular sessions with square dancing following until 11 o'clock. Guests are welcome at all dances.

Two separate square dance classes will be sponsored by the Swingin' Squares during the coming season. One will be for beginners and the other will be a refresher course for those who have danced in the past, but feel they need "brushing up" on some of the old dances and want to learn some of the newer figures. Details will be available at the September 12 dance. Anyone unable to attend this dance who would like to take lessons may call club presidents, Bob and Nadine Luebbe, CL 5-9338 for full details.

Although "Warm-up" was an unnecessary description of the Palatine club's pre-season dance August 26, it was a real whoop-de-doo despite the weather. Art mathews and Don Finfrock gave the dancers a real challenge with their calls and all of the 16 squares met it well, the dancers pausing only long enough to refresh themselves at the punch bowl and cookie tray.

The heat did not deter the enthusiasm of the round dancers either as petticoats peeked from under skirts whirling to the inspired leadership of Jerry and Dot Daniels. One still-warm dancer says, "The humidity was high, but not nay higher than the spirit of the crowd."

The official season begins Saturday night with Art Mathews squarin' 'em up at 8:30 in the Paddock school Palatine. September 23 will be party night again when, in keeping with the football homecoming season, the club is having a homecoming dance and will select a homecoming queen of square dancing.

THE "QUEEN" committee says, "Our queen will be judged on her friendliness and charm, so, all you old grads, if your better half is the ole personality kid, bring her to Paddock school September 23. Contestants must be present at the dance to qualify."

The club's coming-events calendar is brightly marked for Friday, Nov. 10, when Max Forsythe of Indianapolis will call for the Palatine squares and their guests. The general opinion is, "If you have danced to Max's calling, you'll be there without a doubt; if you haven't, you'll want to come out and see what you've been missing." It will be a ticket dance and the sale will be limited, so don't procrastinate.

To anyone who picked up the year's schedule at the August 26 dance, club officers announced there's been a change in the date of the annual Jamboree from April 29 to April 8, 1962. (A-13

Subdivision Fate Decided Sept. 14

The Arlington Heights board of local improvements will decide the fate of Park Manor subdivision Thursday, Sept. 14.

On that date the board's two-man committee will submit its recommendations on financing the Park Manor improvement program.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. at the village hall.

PARK MANOR subdivision, located in southeastern Arlington Heights, has been seeking improved water, sewer, and street facilities for close to a year.

The $1 million improvement program is now being considered under special assessment. However, residents complain that the assessment would financially ruin them.

One of the alternatives under consideration calls for, in essence, an urban renewal project. The builder chosen for the project would work through land clearance agencies, including the Land Clearance Commission of Cook County.

VILLAGE President John G. Woods Tuesday said an urban renewal project would mean the entire area could be handled as a planned development.

"A partial program will not be in the best interests of the village," Woods said.

BOLI will forward its recommendations to the village trustees, who have to approve any program BOLI suggests.

Postpone Opening Of Parking Lots

Village Manager L. A. Hanson Tuesday said the opening of two north side railroad commuter-shopper parking lots has been postponed for a number of weeks.

Originally, the parking lots were scheduled to open the first week in September.

ACCORDING to Hanson, the lots still have to be paved and guy wires have to be moved before the lots will be ready for use.

Hanson said he could not set a definite opening date for the lots.

The lots are located next to the railroad between Dunton and Evergreen and Dunton and Vail sts.

Some 21 stalls across from the railroad depot will be available for shopper parking in the lot between Dunton and Evergreen.

THE REST of this lot, and all of the second lot, will be available for commuter parking.

After the first two lots are completed, two more will be built in the railroad parks, which the village purchased from Chicago and North Western railroad for $182,000 last year.

In all, Hanson said, the four parks will provide the village with close to 200 additional parking spaces.

The village is spending $26,000 to improve the four lots.

Okay Plans For School Additions

Elementary school district 25 school board has approved contract drawings for two new seven-room schools to be built in Arlington Heights.

One school will go up on the north side of the village at State and Olive st. The other will be built on the northwest side at Patton and Maude sts.

COST OF the two elementary schools, kindergarten through fifth grade, is $285,000 each.

Requests for bids were sent out August 28. Bids will be opened at the regular school board meeting, September 19. Construction is scheduled to begin October 1.

Voters approved funds for both schools in the March 4 bond issue. According to the school board, both schools should be ready for occupancy in September, 1962. (AF

Lutherans Set Workshop Here

Fifteen Lutheran congregations in the Chicago area affiliated with the Illinois Lutheran Welfare association are planning a workshop at Our Saviour's Lutheran church, Arlington Heights, October 12 from 9:30 to 3 p.m.

Prominent speakers will discuss problems of children, parents and the role of public and private agencies in helping to find solutions to these problems.

ANOTHER feature of the program will be the presentation of a play by a local cast depicting the worries of an overly conscientious mother. The director of the local Thespians is Mr. Phillip G. Wray.

The meeting, which is one of nine throughout Illinois, is open to the general public. Luncheon reservations should be made with Our Saviour's Lutheran Church.

Illinois Lutheran Welfare provides child care services, adoption, counselling, a children's treatment center and unmarried mother care for almost 400 Illinois congregations.

THE PROGRAM COMMITTEE for the work shop being held October 12 at Our Saviour's Lutheran church in Arlington Heights has invited 15 Lutheran congregations to the meeting. Standing are Phillip G. Wray, 708 Rockwell, Arlington Heights, program committee chairman; and Walter Landsberg, 60 E. Briarwood lane, Palatine. Sitting, from left to right, are Mrs. James Garrison, 716 Kaspar, Arlington Heights, hospitality committee; Mrs. James Burton, 424 Clearmont dr., Elk Grove Village, and Mrs. Walter Landsberg. (A

5400 Students Pack 2 Area High Schools

Arlington and Prospect high schools Tuesday crowded some 5400 students in classrooms, as the 1961-62 school year began.

Prospect had the larger enrollment, practically 2900 pupils, while Arlington listed some 2550 students. Both buildings are designed for a capacity of 2500.

SUPERINTENDENT H. L. Slichenmyer was not discouraged, however. "We've done some switching around, and we'll utilize every inch of space every minute."

The administrators indicated that, although the schools' cafeterias would be used for classrooms, the enrollment will necessitate larger classes.

A faculty of 248 teachers has been geared to operate efficiently under crowded conditions, conditions which will be alleviated next fall with the opening of the new Forest View high school in Elk Grove township.

Forty-three of the 248 "certificated personnel" are new to the district. Three replacements are for teachers on leaves of absence.

AMONG THE new high school personnel is Assistant Superintendent Edward Gilbert, who will assume duties at the newly created post in October.

Larry Jenness, former assistant principal at Prospect, is devoting full time attention of Forest View's development. He was named principal of the school last spring.

Donald Thomas is now assistant principal at Prospect.

OTHER CHANGES include Roderick McLennan's appointment as assistant curriculum director. James Ulrich, who returned from a John Hay fellowship at Yale, takes over McLennan's job as head of Arlington's mathematics department.

Mrs. Helen Graves will serve as Prospect's business education department head, and Clarence Feiereisel chairmans Prospect's guidance department.

Tuesday was a full day of school for Arlington and Prospect students. (A Later that day Mr. and Mrs. George Uhrin, friends of the Kochs, stopped to visit. The Uhrins are "old" parishioners of Rev. Koch from Cleveland, and were in the area visiting their son and his family who live in Chicago.

A new family in Arlington is that of Marge and John Stipp, 1317 W. Grove. They and their four children, Jack, 14, Bob, 12, Julie, 11, and Jimmy, 9, moved here from Des Plaines. John is with the Chicago Motor club.

MEG AND DON Galyon, 110 S. Yale, and their children, Jeff, Judy, Greg and Linda, returned Friday from their 3-week vacation in Colorado. They divided their time between Denver and Estes Park. TOMMY BARRETT, 1302 W. Grove, celebrated his ninth birthday last week by spending a day with his father, Bill. They went bowling, golfing, to the amusement park and had dinner. Tommy is the son of Ann and Bill Barrett.

Christopher McCall, 1406 W. Grove, celebrated his sixth birthday Sunday with an afternoon party at the home of his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. McCall. The Sunday celebration also honored Chris' friend, Gerard Leon of Chicago, who was eight. Besides Chris' parents, Beverly and Jack McCall, on hand to help celebrate were his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. McCall, brothers, Jeffrey, Kevin and Bobby, and sister, Mary Margaret. Also attending were cousins Mike, Mary Beth, Ellen and Eileen, and Mrs. John Leon and her son, John, and daughter, Mary Jo.

MARY AND BOB Richard, 228 S. Illinois dr., and their children, Jimmy, Robin, Paul and Kelly, have moved to their new home in Little Silver, N. J., a suburb of Newark, where Bob has been transferred.

Marian and Joe Reinhardt, 1517 W. Grove, and their children, Glenn, Allison, and Vanissa, have returned from a trip to the summer home of Marian's parents, near Ann Arbor, Mich. Eastwood Events

Yvonne Hartwig will be four days late for her sophomore classes at Arlington high school. At the present time she is in Lincoln, Neb. where she is a member of a dancing group appearing at the state fair. In the 10-act program Yvonne dances in four numbers, one of which commemorates the civil war and another is a George M. Cohan tribute. Last week Mrs. Hartwig traveled to Des Moines to see her daughter dance at the state fair there. She was particularly impressed with the magnificent fireworks display that concluded each night's performance.

The Ken Andersons and their five children, Lynn, Jill, Craig, Wayne and Mark of N. Beverley ave., vacationed at Timberlane resort, Woodruff, Wis. for two weeks. Besides fishing, swimming and loafing, they took several side trips to Presque Isle and to Aqualand, an outdoor zoo, which features tame deer that eat out of visitors' hands and huge muskies enviously eyed by the fishermen as the fish they didn't catch. Mrs. Anderson's sister, Inez Riley of East Lansing, Mich. accompanied the Andersons on their Wisconsin holiday.

Besides school days, September also heralds the resumption of the Eastwood bridge tournament. Virginia and Dick Vlach, last year's winners, have the schedules all made out and hosts for first meetings of the new season will be the Jack Andersons, Ken Andersons, Matt Cockrells, Dick Vlaches and Norman Esthuses.

MR. AND MRS. William Kasper and Karen and Billy spent two scenic weeks of vacationing in Colorado. While the Holiday Inn in Boulder, with its own swimming pool, was their headquarters, they took several trips to other points of interest, including Central City and Denver. A chuckwagon dinner in the mountains and several cookouts were highpoints of their stay. The university at Boulder also interested them as Billy, now a high school junior, is tentatively considering enrolling there.

A tradition that has been established over the years was continued Monday when the Carl Carlmans entertained there Lincoln lane neighbors, the Bill Kaspers and the George Brinkes, at an outdoor party. On each important summer holiday - Memorial day, the Fourth and Labor day, these neighbors gather for a celebration.

CLASSMATES AT Arlington high and University of Illinois, Judy Fruehling and Tom Wade will now start their sophomore year as Mr. and Mrs. Before their marriage Saturday at St. Peter church, Judy was honored at several showers. Her bridesmaids, Judy Greenacre, Susan Marshall. Melanie Reckwerdt and Rosemary Barry feted her with a miscellaneous shower, as did an aunt, Bernice Dahlstrom.

Another aunt, Violet Fruehling, gave a novel towel and tool shower - towels for the bride and tools for the groom. Lucille Reckwerdt hosted all of Judy's fellow employees from Daneggers bakery, and Melba Powell and Nita Barnes honored Judy at a party for her Lincoln lane neighbors. After a wedding trip, Judy and Tom will be at home in Champaign as soon as they can move their many lovely gifts to their new apartment.

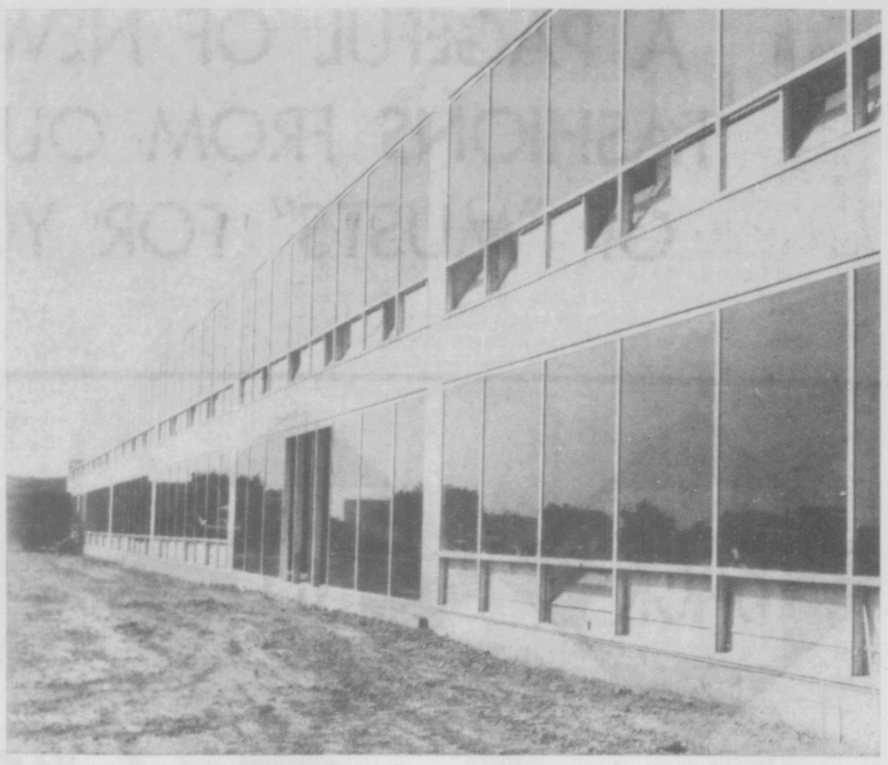
Huge United Airlines Plant Open Soon

WORKMEN ON THE UNITED AIRLINES executive offices located near the intersection of Algonquin rd. and route 83 are pouring concrete for the unique bomb shelter slated for the west wing of the multi-million dollar building. The bomb shelter will have a capacity for 1700 employees.



EXTERIOR VIEW of the new stewardess training center for United Airlines being constructed in conjunction with a giant executive offices project. The two projects, when completed, will cost $16 million. The stewardess training center is slated for an October 15 opening. Executive offices, with the exception of the west wing, will be ready for an early December occupancy.

Stewardesses Go Swimming

by WILLIAM HOGATE

Come October, wives in the Northwest suburbs should note how long it takes their husbands to get home from work if they regularly travel Algonquin rd.

Why?

It's this simple. Part of a $16 million training center and executive offices project for United Airlines will be a unique plastic-covered swimming pool for the stewardess trainees — within easy view of Algonquin rd!

The new dome-topped pool will be in operation year-round when the stewardess training center opens October 15, near the intersection of Algonquin rd. and route 83.

The new United training center, presently located in Denver, Colo., will have 120 stewardesses in training in October. The entire training capacity for the center is 176 women.

Officials for United stated that the stewardesses will be trained, housed, and fed in the giant training center now nearing completion.

MEANWHILE, construction is pushing ahead on the new executive offices 400 feet to the west of the training center. The giant two story structure, designed by Skidmore, Owings, and Merrill, will have more office space than the Inland Steel building in Chicago's loop, 550,000 square feet in all.

Contractor Gust Newberg, biulder of McCormick Place on Chicago's waterfront, has promised a December 1 completion date on the executive offices.

A unique feature of the 750' x 300' executive offices is a fallout shelter being constructed in an added west wing slated for June of 1962 completion. The bomb shelter will have a capacity for 1700 employees.

THE ROOF OF the United shelter will be 17 inches of concrete and the walls will be 14 inches thick. Employees will be 500 times safer than those on the outside if a 1 megaton bomb is dropped within a five-mile range.

The executive offices have another engineering first by being the largest structure in the world using post-stressed concrete cross-beams, some up to 66 feet long.

This engineering inovation will do away with permanent partitions and posts and allow a smooth flowing unobstructed interior.

ARMSTRONG'S fashion beige rubber tile will be used throughout the entire executive offices, except for some of the offices of higher officials where carpeting will be employed.

The floors of the executive dining room will be done in teak. The executive offices will have floor to ceiling windows with six to nine foot overhangs outside to mask the light and heat.

The entire building will be decorated in an "off-white," and will be lighted throughout with close to 8,000 fluorescent fixtures. It will be served with the largest telephone trunk line manufactured, a 1500 pair cable.

ANOTHER FEATURE of the office building will be elevators and an escalator. Beneath the structure will be a private parking lot for executives with a capacity for 17 automobiles.

The air conditioning system for the new offices will have a capacity for 2000 tons of refrigeration, and the heating plant is designed to be fired by gas or oil.

Heating will be handled by a dual high and low pressure forced air system. The high pressure system will provide individual controlled temperatures around the perimeter of the structure, while the latter system will provide a slow even heat throughout the building.

AT THE PRESENT time tradesmen are putting the finishing touches on the executive offices. At the height of the construction period, over 500 men were working at the Algonquin rd. site.

Lee Holland, project engineer for United, stated that Busse rd. and Dempster st. near the project will be widened to four lanes and a fifth lane for left turns.

Senator Douglas Introduces Revised Bill to Save Dunes

Senator Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.) this week introduced in the Senate, for himself and six co-sponsoring Senators, a revised version of his bill to save the Indiana Dunes from destruction

Douglas' new bill — which will retain the number of the bill he introduced May 3, of this year, S. 1797 — would establish about 9,000 acres in five units as a National Lakeshore, in keeping with the Department of the Interior's program to establish a series of national shoreline and seashore parks.

REVISIONS TO the plan proposed by the earlier bill include the extension of one unit to take in nearly all of the proposed Burns Ditch Harbor site, and exclusion from the park area of most of the Town of Porter beach, which was originally proposed to be included in the park.

Provisions affecting the rights of owners of improved property located within the lakeshore are also revised and liberalized.

In his Senate speech on the introduction of the substitute version of S. 1797, Senator Douglas explained the major changes proposed by himself and Senators Gruening, McCarthy, Neuberger, Metcalf and Humphrey.

FIVE BOUNDARY changes are particularly notable. In the original bill, about 8000 acres in Porter County, Indiana, of representative portions of the Indiana Dunes and other areas of scientific interest and of public recreational value were to be preserved as a national scientific landmark. Of the 8,000 about 4,000 were in four defined units bordering Lake Michigan, and another 4,000 acres were to be selected as supporting land from the area south of U. S. Highway 12 and north of U. S. Highway 20.

In the new version of the bill, the boundaries of three of the units bordering the Lake are changed and the area of supporting land south of Highway 12 is defined, for a net addition of about 1,000 acres to the lakeshore.

Douglas described the boundary changes as follows:

1. The western boundary of the area designated Unit 2 (east of the National Steel company property and west of the Northern Indiana Public Service company property;) is moved about three-fourths of a mile west to add - including a fish-shaped area between the Chicago, South Shore and South Bend Railroad and the New York Cenrtal Railroad — about 400 acres of the best unspoiled dunes to the park. This extension takes in most of the site of the proposed Burns Ditch Harbor, Douglas said, and "puts the beach to a preferable use."

2. In the area south of and surrounding Dune acres and Porter beach (designated Unit 1), the Porter Beach area, formerly included within the proposed boundaries, is now excluded except for approximately 1000 feet of lakefront at Johnson's Beach (adjoining the State Park) and a passageway providing access to this beach approximately 600 feet wide along the western border of the state park. This change, Douglas said, excludes from the lakeshore about 100 of the 150 houses in the Porter Beach area formerly designated as within the park.

3. Also in Unit 1, a small section to the east of Dune Acres, previously excluded from the park, is now included within the boundaries, and an area of equivalent size in the western part of Dune acres is now excluded from the park. This exchange brings an outstanding "blowout" dune into the park. The area in the western part of Dune acres which is excluded from the park is 200 feet south of the shoreline and involves about one-half dozen houses.

4. IN THE AREA east of the State Park (Unit 4), the southern boundary of the unit is extended to the Chicago, South Shore and South Bend Railroad right-of-way, to bring an additional 200 acres into the lakeshore.

5. The area of supporting lands, running south of the C., S.S., & S B. railroad and from the Porter-Lake county line to a line extending south from the east end of the state park, is defined and designated as Unit 5.

Senator Douglas said the new version of the bill also substantially liberalized the alternatives available to owners of improved property in the proposed lakeshore units. Owners would have three alternatives, he said. First, an owner may choose to retain ownership permanently, providing he abides by zoning regulations established by Porter county and approved by the Secretary of the Interior. Second, an owner may choose to sell his property to the Department of the Interior for fair market value and retain the right of use and occupancy, transferable, for 25 years. Or third, an owner may sell his property outright to the Department of the Interior.

ANOTHER NEW section of the bill, Douglas said, provides for the establishment of an Indiana Dunes National Lakeshore Advisory commission. The commission would advise the Secretary of the Interior about lakeshore matters. The commission would be composed of seven members, appointed for two-year terms by the Secretary of the Interior, two from recommendations made by Porter county, two from recommendations made by Lake county, two from recommendations made by the governor of Indiana, and one designated by the secretary.

Other new provisions in the bill provide for law enforcement within the lakeshore, in accord with National Park service recommendations. (A-14

District 25 Budget Okayed

Elementary school district 25, Arlington Heights, adopted a $2,323,206 budget for the 1961-62 school year Tuesday, Aug. 29.

The budget, nearly a $200,000 increase over last year's, was adopted at the public hearing held that date.

THE DISTRICT expects little change from last year's school tax rate, approximately 75 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

At the hearing Mrs. R. B. Yadon, representing the League of Women Voters, received assurance from board members that teaching salaries in the district were keeping pace with those of other district's in the area.

The board this year has increased the teachers' salary schedule.

The schedule now ranges from $4800 for a teacher with a bachelor's degree and no experience to $7700 for the holder of a master's degree with 15 year's experience. Last year's schedule ranged from $4600 to $7400.

BROKEN INTO four categories, the budget reads:

Education fund, $1,979,060; building fund, $268,896,000; transportation fund, $52,000, and Illinois Municipal Retirement fund, $23,250. (AF

Nike Base Losing The Ajax Missile

Arlington Heights will soon lose some Ajax missiles, but the village will retain a defense base.

That was the word Tuesday from 45th Artillery Brigade headquarters, located at the missile base south of Central rd. in Arlington Heights.

ACCORDING TO headquarters, the Ajax missiles at Arlington Heights and eight other bases in the Chicago area are being deactivated because they are now practically obsolete.

The Ajax carries a conventional warhead.

The Arlington Heights location is being retained as a defense base, according to the information office, because it houses the more-modern Missile Masters and Hercules missiles as well as 45th Artillery Brigade headquarters for defense operations in the Chicago-Gary area.

CALLED PHASE One, the move was initiated because the Army believes the Hercules missiles' capacility for carrying a nuclear warhead and their longer range will provide better defense, than the Ajax, the office said.

The army now maintains nine bases in the Chicago-Gary area, all of which hold Hercules missiles.

National Guard mans eight bases in the area, all with Ajax missiles.

The Ajax missiles are being deactivated now, and will be removed "as soon as possible," according to the office.

OPEN HOUSE visits to the former Nike-Ajax site have been discontinued, the office adds.

Formerly the army conducted open houses on various Sundays of each month at missile sites in the Chicago-Gary area. (AF

The use of SUCCESS to mean the person or thing that is successful is colloquial; as, "He is a success," and, "Her book is a success." Avoid this.

Do not say, "Page thirty is all the farther I have read." Say, "Page thirty is AS FAR AS I have read."

Do not say, "The house was surrounded on all side by water." Since "surround" means to enclose on all sides, you should eliminate "on all sides" from the sentence.

General area: Announcement was made Wednesday that the Marketing Company had accepted $1.50 per hundred as the price of milk for September, a drop of 80c from the August price. Over-production and over-stock of condensed milk is the reason for this price which is less than the cost of production. The Marketing Co. has over $500,000,000 worth of condensed milk on hand with no market to dispose of it. The farmers are expecting the wholesalers to reduce the retail price, which is expected to bring greater consumption. The farmers now receive the pre-war price at which time the wholesalers charged only 8c a quart. They now receive 14c a quart.

Palatine: A remonstrance: "I have no criticism to make in the strict enforcement of the law, but I think it an injustice, when it is not enforced alike to all. A few of our farmer boys, who were thought "easy" recently paid $12.50 for not having the tail lights of autos lighted. I am ready to supply the names of other autoists, who, after being stopped for the same reason, were told to "step on it" and allowed to go free. No effort has been made to apprehend speeders or to stop horse drawn vehicles without lights. Until the police department is ready to enforce the law impartially, it should not start. Conrad Schroeder."

Arlington Heights: Albert Milbratz and Miss Alma Huber were quietly married in Chicago Aug. 2. The witnesses were Mr. and Mrs. Carl P. Hertel. Wednesday morning, Albert Milbratz and bride, accompanied by Mrs. Carl P. Hertel and children, also Mrs. John Thompson, a cousin, left for Dixon, Iowa. They all had a good time. Saturday morning, Carl P. Hertel left Arlington Heights at five o'clock, arriving at Dixon at 12:30, making 198 miles, which is some speed . . . After a vacation of more than two months, the school bell will again call on Tuesday, Sept. 6, the children to the respective studies. The faculty will be the same as the past year with one exception—Mrs. H. G. Lorenzen will teach 4th grade, and Mrs. Clark will be in charge of 7th. The school rooms have been renovated and cleaned by the faithful janitor, Mr. Herman Tesch.

Wheeling: About 7:15 Friday, during the big electric storm, the barn of Frank Bartman south of Wheeling was struck and burned to the ground. The Wheeling fire department responded and with the help of neighbors everything was removed but the hay and a few articles. Loss $1,400.

Bensenville News: The storm Friday evening did considerable damage. A cold stroke hit Sam Fishcer's store. It blew down trees in Wood Dale across the main line. They had to get the wrecker to remove them . . . The town was quite stirred up Thursday. The bank received a warning that a hold-up was planned for the 18th it being railroad pay day. Some gentlemen heard the plot in a down town saloon and notified the bank. A force of fourteen secret service men was on hand, all the outleading roads were guarded, and the rest of the men around the bank, keeping watch. It is too bad the bandits didn't show up. Now, we hope they never will.

Arlington Heights: Members of the Parent-Teacher Assn. have this week completed a sufficiently adequate survey of the number of children who might attend a free and public kindergarten. It was found that the number eligible seemed to warrant the presenting of a petition to the Board of Education of District 25 for their consideration. This has been done . . . The bookies in our town officially closed their operations Wednesday night. Following a visit to Arlington Heights of a representative of the states attorney's office, which promised full cooperation, Chief Skoog notified the operators they must move. "If they do not do so voluntarily, I will take other measures," said Skoog. Mayor Flente has taken the stand that so far as he is concerned no bookie will ever open up again in Arlington Heights. If they do, it will be at a time when J. D. Flentie is not mayor. Unless the bookies resort to "bootlegging" the placing of bets on horses in Arlington Heights is at an end . . . One local bookie may have thought that police orders didn't mean anything. Anyway he accepted a bet at five o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Ten minutes later he was raided by Chief Skoog.

Mt. Prospect: A back yard lake has not gone unnoticed, the beautiful pool in the rear of the Walter Scharringhausen residence on Lewis street, is one of the most beautiful and fully stocked pools in this community, and one certainly worth the viewing as all work as to layout and construction of same was completed by Walter himself . . . For the champion horse shoe pitching, all honors go to Emery Wolf, who was successful in beating all comers at the V. F. W. picnic, and who now stands ready to defend the title against all comers . . . A million dollars would not look any better than the Walter Pohlmans' new sedan and the family is sure taking advantage of the fine cool weather and new car; riding and more riding is the pastime of a new car . . . Jim Walsh has been seen riding around in a new sedan and Mr. Walsh has stated that when better cars than Oldsmobile are made he will have one, this being his third Olds he has had and is thoroughly sold on them for service and performance. His new car came from Busse Motor Sales of Mt. Prospect . . . On Saturday afternoon, Aug. 29, the V. F. W. Prospect Post No. 1337 will present to the village of Mt. Prospect, a captured German Minne Werfer (trench mortar). This relic was captured in the Meuse-Argonne drive in France Oct. 12, 1918 by the U. S. World War forces and is to be dedicated to the men of Mount Prospect who saw service in the U. S. Army, Navy and Marine Corps.

The Arlington swimming pool closed Monday when the board ordered the draining of the pool, giving as the reason lack of swimming interest on the part of the general public. It is reported that the pool has never paid expenses in the four years it has been in operation. A big effort was made this year to put the pool on a self supporting basis. Their efforts met with success during July. In August, the weather and rumors of alleged infections spread by the pool, blasted all hopes for a "break-even" year. Similar conditions prevailed at Barrington and their pool was closed last Wednesday. It now appears that Arlington Heights pool which cost over $50,000 will become a bursted bubble. The only thing that can save it is approval by the voters of an additional park board tax . . . Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Watson, former residents of Arlington Heights, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Aug. 16.

Wheeling: The parents of Sailor Arthur Miller received a censored letter from their son who of course could tell them nothing of his whereabouts or the ship's mission. He says however that it is an exciting experience and he never expected to be doing such thrilling and interesting work when he joined the Navy. However, the Millers read a newspaper report a short time ago that the "Salt Lake City" on which ship Bud had been stationed at Hawaii, was one of two warships cruising to Australia, and they decided he was on the high seas.

Palatine: John Meyer has let the contract for a house by Walter Rennack on No. Sherman st. south of Colfax. This will be the fourth house erected by Mr. Rennack in Palatine this summer . . . Miss Cora Schrader, who resided in Palatine nearly all her life, died Friday morning. She was the daughter of the late Louis and Louise Schrader, and was born July 25, 1888, in Palatine.

Bensenville: The Village Board voted to buy a new fire truck and fire equipment at a meeting Thursday evening of last week, and signed a contract with the Peter Pirsch Co. for delivery next June. The cost is expected to be more than $5,000. The local firemen are contributing substantially toward the purchase of the new equipment it is stated. It has been in constant use since its purchase, 18 years ago.

Arlington Heights: The total enrollment for all schools has soared to an all time high, with 3,320 pupils entering Arlington schools this fall. Last year the total was 2,975. The break down of enrollment at the six schools in the village is: St. Peter Lutheran, 340; St. James Catholic, 500; North public, 460; South public, 535;; Junior High 334; and Arlington High 1,150 . . . More than 600 people who applied for telephone service prior to July 1 are now having telephones installed. Commercial records have been moved to Barrington to make way for three switchboards in the Arlington Heights office. When the switchboards go into operation the new phones will automatically be in service.

Roselle: School patrons of Bloomingdale township, of which Roselle is the largest community, will vote Sept. 8 on the formation of a high school district to replace the "token" district that recent state legislation had dissolved. Vernon Nickell, superintendent of public instruction of the state, has given an opinion that the assessed valuation of the township is ample to support a high school. At present the majority of the 160 high school pupils attend Glenbard High School . . . Wm. Rosenwinkel observes his 93rd birthday this Sunday. A pioneer resident and one of the oldest citizens of DuPage County, he is well known throughout the north county coming to these parts from Germany in 1879 at the age of 21.

Schaumburg: Unit School district 250, comprising Schaumburg township and the greater part of Hanover township will vote the latter part of September on the erection of two elementary school buildings and a $190,000 bond issue to purchase the sites and complete the buildings.

Simon Says Contest Should Be Decided on the Issues

State Rep. Paul Simon (D., Troy), who is running for his party's nomination to oppose U. S. Senator Everett Dirksen in 1962, said this week that the campaign should be "issue-oriented."

"In a state known for the Lincoln-Douglas debates, which were a frank discussion of the issues of that day," he remarked, "there should be a vigorous exchange of ideas in a world which is once again tragically 'half-slave and half-free.'"

He added: "I realize that discussing the issues with the junior senator will not be easy since he has taken a firm stand on al lsides of the issues."

THE 32-YEAR-OLD state legislator also said: "I cannot claim the ability to produce the oratorical syrup for which our junior senator is famed. But I would hope that substance is a substitute for syrup.

"And I would like to believe that my heart and spiri have shaped in me an attitude of concern toward mankind which has been reflected in my record in Springfield and would be reflected in my record in Washington."

Simon says he has become convinced in his travels to five of the world's continents that the greatest problem facing the United States is that of preserving freedom and maintaining peace.

THE PUBLISHER of seven downstate newspapers, Simon predicted that the campaign against Senator Dirksen will be the "number one contest in the nation."

He said he has discussed the race "briefly" with Gov. Kerner, Mayor Daley, Democratic State Chairman James Ronan, National Committeeman Jacob Arvey, and other leaders. "I have made known my willingness to enter such a contest. I shall keep them fully informed of my activities."

Simon pledged a vigorous contest if he gains the Democratic party nod. "There will be no ward in Chicago, no township in the county, no county in the state that will not know my views and his record," he promised. (A-14

Jews Will Celebrate High Holydays Here

Jews throughout the world will welcome their High Holydays beginning at sunset, Sunday, Sept. 10.

The High Holydays services will usher in the Jewish New Year of 5722.

The Beth Tikvah congregation, 1304 W. Northwest hwy., Arlington Heights, serves persons of the Jewish faith in the northwest suburbs.

THE CONGREGATION, which usually meets at the Twinbrook school in Hoffman Estates, will meet for the High Holydays at the Arlington Park Chapel near the Arlington Jockey Club.

Rabbi Hillel Gamoran is the congregation's rabbi.

According to Jewish legend, this is the 5,722 year since the world was created by God. It is at this time that devotion to religious self-examination takes place by the world's Jews.

THE LITURGY of the New Year, or Rosh Hoshana (the Hebrew term) includes special prayers of penitence, unison readings stressing the theme of man's ability to improve, and hymns of aspiration and thanksgiving.

During the service on the morning of the New Year, the "shofar," or Ram's Horn, is sonded as a call to conscience. In many Jewish homes, honey is served at the dinner meal in token of the hope for a year of sweetness.

The High Holydays reach their climax with Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, Wednesday, September 20, when those of the Jewish faith spend most of the day in synagogues offering prayers which ask for divine forgiveness for faults and weaknesses.

MANY PEOPLE fast on this day.

Traditionalist Jews observe Rosh Hoshana for two days, Reform Jews for one day.

High Holydays services of the Beth Tikvah Congregation are open to all members with tickets. If anyone has any questions or wishes information on how to obtain tickets, they may call Jack Cappels, membership chairman at TW 4-3664, or Hy DeWoskin, ritual chairman at LA 9-6154.

THE HIGH Holydays services at the Arlington Park Chapel are as follows: Rosh Hoshana evening, Sunday, September 10 at 9 p.m. Rosh Hoshana morning, Monday, September 11 at 10 a.m., and children's services at 3 p.m.

RABBI GAMORAN

There will be Yom Kippur evening services, September 19, at 9 p.m., morning services September 20 at 10 a.m., and children's services at 1:30 p.m.

The Yom Kippur afternoon services which will include the High Holydays will be at 3 p.m. (A-14

Plan New Series For TV Courses

The Chicago board of education's TV College on WTTW-Channel 11 in the upcoming Fall semester will initiate a special new series of courses designed to meet the critical shortage of classroom teachers.

Three courses will be offered jointly with Chicago Teachers College North for advance students. Those students who have 66 or more hours of college credit may register at Chicago Teachers College North, for human relations, literature, and music. The human relations course may be taken for graduate or undergraduate credit.

OVER 1,000, or 40 per cent of currently enrolled TV College students, indicate an intention to enter the teaching profession.

Illionis residents of communities outside of Chicago may take these courses tuition free by registering in the Chicago Teachers College North. Write to Chicago Teachers College North, 5500 N. St. Louis ave., or call JU 3-4050, for information on how to secure a permit to register.

Carpentier Notes License Deadline

Secretary of State Charles F. Carpentier this week reminded motorists of the November 1 deadline for applying for reassignment of motor vehicle license numbers.

No individual notices of the approach of the deadline will be made this year, as the practice of sending letters to the holders of the first 50,000 numbers has been discontinued, Carpentier said.

PERSONAL notification would serve no further useful purpose, Secretary Carpentier said, because the adoption of the letter-digit numbering system for all numbers in excess of 999,999 has resulted in the creation of many thousands of combinations having special significance to certain individuals, but which are not readily recognizable as such.

Application blanks for 1962 registrations will be available prior to October 1 through the usual outlets: currency exchanges, automobile dealers, notaries public, police magistrates, justices of the peace, banks and newspaper offices.

Under the law, motorists currently holding license numbers they wish to retain are entitled to reassignment at no extra fee provided they submit their applications before November 1 and request reassignment.

A PROPOSAL to establish an additional $3 fee for this service was submitted to the 1961 session of the General Assembly, but was not enacted into law, Carpentier said.

OUR TWO NEW BONUS SAVINGS PLANS OFFER

Plus Current Dividend 4%

Each week more and more of our savers are taking advantage of our "Fixed-Balance" and "Monthly Bonus" ideas.

The "Fixed-Balance" account plan provides for a bonus of one-half per cent (½%) per annum on accounts which meet the following requirements:

—Accounts must be established and maintained continuously in the amount of $1,000 or a multiple of $1,000.

—The account must remain with the Association for a minimum period of 36 months.

At the same time the base savings rate (currently 4%) is accredited to your account on each June 30 and December 31.

The "Monthly Bonus" plan enables the saver to fix the amount which will be placed in the account regularly each month for the specified period. This earns an extra ¼% for the first three years and ½% per annum thereafter.

In addition, of course, we have the regular savings accounts, earning the current 4% which are available to those who want to save for education of children, vacation trips, taxes and emergencies.

Q. When there is to be a supper for the bridal party after the wedding rehearsal at the church, is it necessary to invite the clergyman—and, if so, his wife?

A. If you know the clergyman well (in which case you would probably know his wife well too), they would both be invited. Otherwise, no.

Q. How should the prongs of one's fork be pointed while one is taking food into the mouth—up or down?

A. While cutting the food, the prongs are pointed down—but when lifting the food to the mouth, the prongs are pointed upward.

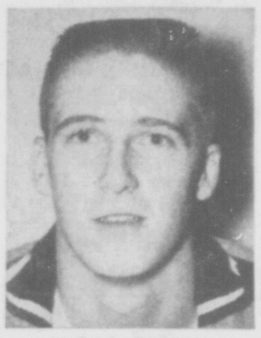
KICKIN' IT AROUND

by BOB FRISK

THE BIG TEN DID A FIRST-CLASS JOB in luring some of the area's outstanding athletes into its institutions of higher learning for the 1961-62 school year.

A recent check of college choices among the June grads at Arlington and Prospect indicated that six boys who enjoyed successful prep athletic careers will be furthering their educations at Western Conference schools.

Included in that list are the two boys who earned Athlete of the Year honors at District 214 schools and one of the two local All-Staters. The University of Michigan in Ann Arbor enjoyed the most success by landing Arlington's Gary Erwin and Prospect's George Pomey and Dave Price.



GEORGE POMEY

Erwin was Athlete of the Year at Arlington, two-time state Trampoline champion, and third place finisher on the Tramp in the National AAU competition. Barring any unforeseen developments, Gary is headed for a brilliant collegiate career in gymnastics.

Pomey was an All-Stater in basketball, the highest scorer in Prospect's brief hardwood history, and author of four school standards overall. George pumped in 797 points in two varsity seasons at Prospect after transferring from Grant high school.

Price will give Michigan another outstanding gymnast as Dave was an all-league performer who was ninth on the high bar and tenth in the all-around in the state meet.

Other new additions to the Big Ten include Prospect's Fred Lussow at Indiana, Arlington's Skip Witt at Illinois, and Arlington's Bill Sayre at Iowa.

Lussow was Athlete of The Year at Prospect and a three-sport standout throughout his prep career. He earned six varsity letters, was named to five all-conference teams, and paced the varsity basketball squad in scoring as a junior.

Witt was a two-year standout in baseball who also picked up a major letter in basketball, and Sayre was the state tumbling champ for two seasons in gymnastics.

Outside the Big Ten, Southern Illinois University in Carbondale and Bradley combined to land at least eight of the area athletes with Southern picking up five.

Headed for Southern are Larry Brousseau of Arlington and Jim Minikel, Darryl Phillips, Mel Aukamp, and Jim Oldham of Prospect. Brousseau and Oldham are the gymnasts in that group with Minikel, Phillips, and Aukamp all standout gridiron performers at Prospect. In addition, Phillips was an all-league wrestler.

Bradley in Peoria has claimed Tim O'Gorman of Arlington and Mark Thorne and Dick Palmer of Prospect. O'Gorman lettered in three sports at Arlington and Thorne was one of the Chicago area's finest pitchers in baseball in addition to his duties on the Knights' football and basketball units. Palmer is co-author with Pomey of the single game scoring record in Prospect's basketball annals.

Northern Illinois University in DeKalb, always a big attraction for the area standouts, picked up Arlington's Gary Gullett and Greg Beckway this year, and Beloit landed Arlington high's Bob Jacobsen, 6-5 basketball letterman. Headed for Miami in Ohio are crack tennis player Bill Thompson and track and wrestling letterman Tim Smith of Arlington high.

Bill Zadel, three-sport standout at Prospect is at the United States Military Academy at West Point, and the Knights' All-State football guard Jeff Rogers will be playing for Nebraska's Cornhuskers.

The Ivy League will have two Arlington high school grads with Craig Quackenbush, baseball letterman, at Princeton and Gar Simmons, most valuable football player, at Yale. Arlington's Dick Wetzel, state side horse champ for two years running in gymnastics, will attend Chicago University and the Art Institute.

Jim Clabaugh, who set a school scoring mark of 38 points in Arlington's first basketball game of the 1960-61 campaign, will attend Coe College in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and wrestling standout Rich Edelblute will continue his studies at Idaho.

Arlington's Grant Wallhoff, a letterman in three sports, will attend Wheaton College, and baseball letterman Bob Hutchinson will be at Denver University.

Prospect's Keith Voigt, all-league football halfback, is headed for Occidental College in Los Angeles, Calif., and two other Knights, Tom Petrosino and Keith Grams, expressed interest in Adams State in Colorado although Grams was still considering Oklahoma at last report.

Rounding out some of the college selections are Prospect's three-sport star Fred Empkie at Washington in St. Louis, Tom Polzin at North Central, Bob Glaser at Evansville, and Dan Malloy at Illinois State Normal.

The list is far from complete with the aforementioned athletes, but it does help to give some idea on the college preferences among the 1961 graduates. Some will continue in sports while some will by-pass any collegiate athletics.

In any respect, we hope they experience continued success in any future endeavors.

Thompson, Mrs. Foley Claim Title

Yvonne Foley of Mt. Prospect and Bill Thompson of Arlington Heights combined talents to sweep past four opponents and pick off the top prize in Paddock Publications' first Mixed Doubles tennis tournament.

The combo disposed of Larry Brown and Ruth Rees, both of Arlington Heights, 6-4, 6-2 in the championship tussle Monday morning at the Arlington high school courts.

Open to all tennis players living within the area served by the newspapers, the first Paddock tourney attracted 19 duos with competition held both Saturday and Monday.

ALTHOUGH a majority of the entries were from Arlington Heights, there were also competitors from Mt. Prospect, Rolling Meadows, Elk Grove and Palatine. The tournament is slated to become an annual affair with the Arlington Tennis Club organizing the first venture.

Mrs. Foley, of 720 W. Busse ave., Mt. Prospect and Thompson, of 609 N. Dunton, Arlington, had little trouble reaching the semi-finals Saturday with convincing victories over the teams of Brian Burke and Mary Mockenhaupt and Bob and Sherrie Sir.

However, the eventual champs were extended in the semi-final match by Bob and Marg Fink of Palatine before finally winning 9-7. That set the stage for the championship encounter that had to be held Monday morning.

BROWN and Mrs. Rees opened their competition with a 6-0, 6-1 victory over Greg Inman and Kathy Baker, then whipped Fred and Patty Leydig 6-3, 6-2,. This combo reached the final test with a 6-4, 6-2 win over Jim Erickson and Carol Misner.

Among the finalists Thompson will be heading for Miami in Ohio this fall. Bill was No. 1 on the Arlington high school team this past spring. Brown is a former tennis standout at the University of Michigan.

Mrs. Foley, who moved to Prospect this year, was the Danish Women's Jr. champion.

Trophies were presented to the titlists by Stuart Paddock, Jr., vice-president of Paddock Publications, Inc.

The Paddock Classic Traveling league kicked off its campaign two weeks ago with an eight-team field set up for the fifth year of operation.

Sponsors in the high-flying women's league are Morton Pontiac, River-Rand, Moyle Construction, Steve's Restaurant, Northfield Bowl, and Ridge Motors.

VERNON HILLS Restaurant captured the 1960-61 title in the first year of competition and also boasted the individual standout in Bonnie Kuhn of Mundelein.

Averaging 182 for 90 games, Bonnie captured high average honors in the Classic league. She held a three-pin advantage over runnerup Pat Proebstle of Arlington Heights. Pat carried a 179 average for 96 games.

Excluding the playoffs, Alice Ulrich of Chicago boasted the top series with a 638. Bonnie Kuhn had a 635 in league competition but hit a big 677 in the playoff victory over Steve's Restaurant.

ALICE ALTEN of Mt. Prospect and Steve's Restaurant was author of the high game with a 258. Ruth Beyer of Palatine and Arlington's Joan Lindahl both had 254s.

Eleven of the gals in the Paddock loop averaged 170 or better and 12 had series better than 600. Bigger things are expected this year.

Classic League To Resume Play

Action will resume Saturday evening in the Paddock Classic Traveling league following a brief layoff due to the Labor Day weekend.

The eight squads will convene at Gunnell's Lanes in Mt. Prospect at 6:30 p.m. with first place Jeffery Lanes testing second place Nelson Realty in the headliner.

Jeffery Lanes holds a one point lead over Nelson Realty after one night of competiton.

Although defending champ Vernon Hills Restaurant won't be back in name, it will be back insofar as the gals who made up the titlists. Those same bowlers will be operating for Moyle Construction in the 1961-62 campaign.

OFFICIALS OF THE women's league include Edith Wayne of Des Plaines and Ridge Motors, president; Joan Lindahl of Arlington Heights and Morton Pontiac, vice-president; Alice Nichols of Arlington and Moyle Construction, secretary; Bonnie Kuhn of Mundelein and Moyle Construction, treasurer; and Alice Alten of Mt. Prospect and Morton Pontiac, sergeant-at-arms.

Backfield Impresses

Juniors to Play Key Roles at Arlington

by BOB FRISK

Juniors will play key roles on the 1961 edition of the Arlington high school football varsity.

That was evident this week following an examination of the leading candidates in the Cardinals' camp.

In listing the top performers in the initial week of workouts Head Coach "Bus" Ormsbee included several third year gridders and indicated they would be seeing extensive action throughout the campaign.

The varsity had been engaged in two-a-day workouts prior to the opening of school but is now settling down to single workouts daily in preparation for the Sept. 16 opener at East Leyden.

THIRTY-FIVE cnadidates have been working out regularly and Ormsbee has been satisfied with the general progress of the squad, particularly the backfield. And juniors definitely will play major roles in the Cards' backfield for '61.

Halfbacks Ken Layden, Jerry Totzke, and Joe Wertheimer and fullbacks Ros Lindstrom and Hal Selleck all are making strong bids for starting assignments and all are juniors.

Layden and Lindstrom were work - horses on Arlington's frosh-soph unit last fall, and Totzke was the varsity's top ground gainer as a soph. However, this will be Jerry's final full year of eligibility.

SELLECK, who made a trip downstate in wrestling as a soph, was switched from the line to the backfield at the outset of drills. However, the continued improved showing of senior Roy Woodruff may necessitate sending Selleck back to the forward wall.

Ormsbee admits that Woodruff has been "quite a surprise over last year and has been showing well in the practice sessions."

Another senior backfield candidate is Ray Miller, one of eleven returning monogram winners. Miller carried 15 times for 36 yards as a junior.

THE IMPORTANT quarterback berth appears to be in the hands of two seniors, Ross Retterer and Bob Bohac. Bohac is mainly a defensive performer so Retterer should be handling most of the signal-calling duties this fall.

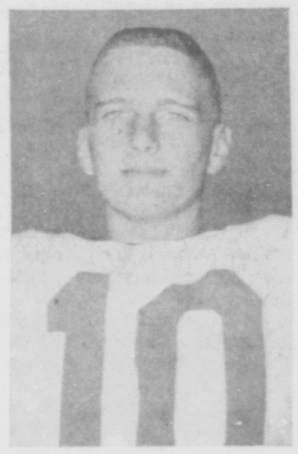
Ormsbee has been pleased with the work of the 6-1 Retterer who tossed for 476 yards on 49 completions in 1960. Ross is a sharp passer who came on strong in the latter part of last fall's campaign.

Chuck Close, the No. 1 signal-caller on the frosh-soph squad in '60 who had been expected to see plenty of action in his varsity debut, didn't report this year.

THREE seniors and a junior currently head the end candidates with senior Bob Laughlin and junior Phil O'Connell turning in the top performances thus far in the workouts. Laughlin was a back as a sophomore who was switched to end last fall, and O'Connell has been one of the major surprises in camp. Standing 6-5 Phil gives the quarterbacks an impressive target.

Rounding out the top flanks are seniors Don Kolstad and Rog Freise, both returning letterwinners.

Dan Jennings, a 190-pound senior, heads the tackle candidates and appears to be a definite starter. Backing Jennings are junior Ken Wessling, senior Mike McDonald, and junior transfer Bill Altire. McDonald, a letterman, and Altire, a transfer from St. Mel, are the heaviest men on the squad, going at 215 each.



ROSS RETTERER

THE GUARD slot is posing a real problem for Ormsbee and his staff with 1 letterman, Denny Buren, and three other candidates making the strongest bids for the two starting berths. Backing Buren are senior Dale Coventry and juniors Paul Conti and Bill Hoban.

Senior Vince Furlong, a letterman at tackle last fall, should take over as No. 1 center when he gets back at full strength. The 180-pounder is currently hampered with a pulled muscle.

Other candidates for center are senior John Lane and juniors Ron Linn and Larry Wright. Lane was switched from end and has been working hard in his new environment.

The Cardinals will engage in a possible inter-squad game Saturday evening to bring to a close the second week of drills.

85 Candidates On St. Viator Football Unit

Eighty-five candidates, from an original list of 150, currently are working out at the new St. Viator High school in Arlington Heights as the Lions prep for their opening game Monday, Oct. 2, against Immaculate Conception.

Head Coach Frank Mariani, starting his first year at St. Viator after serving four with Notre Dame high school in Niles, indicated Tuesday evening that current plans call for a squad of 50 this fall.

At the outset of the week 76 freshmen and nine sophomores made up the St. Viator aggregation with the squad settling down to single workouts daily after a week of two-a-day sessions.

IN ADDITION to the opening game with Immaculate Conception, Mariana tentatively has set up contests with West Leyden, St. Francis of Wheaton, Maryville Academy, Taft of Chicago, and Marian Central.

The Lions engaged in their first scrimmage Tuesday and Mariani and assistant Ron Feiereisel have both expressed satisfaction with the squad's progress.

"If I had known I would have had this calibre of boys to work with," Mariani admitted, "I'd have set up a junior-varsity schedule this fall. They're enthusiastic and hard workers. If this freshman class is any indication, the future looks promising."

ST. VIATOR will play strictly a frosh-soph schedule this fall but will move into a light varsity setup next year. There will be no frosh slate in 1961.

Mariani, the head grid coach and athletic director, came to St. Viator from Notre Dame where he served for four years. He has also coached at St. Rita and Joliet Catholic high schools.

St. Viator recently added another new coach to its staff in Larry Nomellini, 27. Nomellini also comes by way of Notre Dame in Niles and will assist Feiereisel in basketball and Mariani in baseball. Larry, a 6-6, 240-pounder, earned three varsity basketball letters at DePaul university.

THURS., SEPT. 7, 1961

Positions Wide-Open On Prospect Varsity

A stiff battle for positions is shaping up in the Prospect high school football camp as the squad prepares for the season opener at North Chicago.

With just two lettermen back Coach Bill Beckman and his staff have been trying to mold a capable varsity aggregation from an inexperienced but enthusiastic roster of candidates.

Seventy - three boys checked out equipment at the opening session but that number was expected to decrease prior to the lid-lifter Sept. 16.

OVERALL, THE progress at Prospect has been about as expected with a lot of work still to be done before the journey to Nrth Chicago and battle with the always powerful Warhawks.

The two returning monogram winners at Prospect are fullback Bruce Andrise and quarterback and halfback Tommy Thomas. Thomas worked mainly on defense as a junior but did carry five times for 11 yards and complete two of 11 passes for 3 yards.

Andrise, a two-time letterman already for the Knights, is considered by Beckman "one of the finest all-around backs in the state." A capable offensive and defensive performer.

Mac Says

G. A. McELROY

THERE ARE ONLY A FEW MINOR CHANGES in the football rules as the season opens for high school teams next week, Friday and Saturday. This is good. Fans have a hard enough time understanding the game sufficiently to enjoy it anyway. Baseball is the most popular game on the pro level and is called our national game. The main reason is that the game has remained essentially the same in rules and the way it is played since the start of the present century. People the country over know enough about baseball to understand and enjoy it. This is not true of football, which in addition to changing almost every year, is played in such close formation and so far from the spectator that he has trouble understanding what is happening. This is why the pro game has turned into a passing game to such an extent. Fans have to see and understand the action to enjoy the game. Fewer rules changes in football and basketball for a few years will result in greater interest and attendance.

WE SHOULD BE WRITING about football and cross country but over the weeker we looked at the handicap chart at the Inverness golf club and noticed that John Seehausen had a 2 handicap. Seehausen will be a senior at Palatine High this year. He has worked hard on his golf game all summer after posting an average of 76.6 per round in 17 school matches last spring. As the summer season nears completion Seehausen has been shooting rather consistently between 70 and 73 at the tough, tricky, Inverness course. During the summer he took second in the Chicago District Junior Tournament. Seehausen may lead the strongest golf team ever to represent Palatine come springtime. Way Thompson, who will be a junior, is shooting consistently in the seventies and Jim Arendt, son of the Inverness pro, will be a sophomore and has started to break 80 occasionally. Betts, a senior who shoots in the upper seventies, and was ineligible last spring, could give Palatine a real boost next season. A real comer is Scott Young, a lanky 6' 5" junior, who has been shooting in the low eighties and was the best of last season's frosh-sophs. The 1962 season could be a great one for Gary Clendenny's linksmen and most of them will be practicing all fall to improve their game.

THE RESIGNATION OF A driver training teacher a day before he was to come on the new job at Palatine has changed coaching assignments. A University of Wisconsin regular golf team member for two years is lost to Palatine as an assistant to Clendenny but in his place the school has hired a graduate of Kirksville Teachers College in Missouri named Cletus Koehler who was a 4-letter man in track and pole vaulted 13 feet. Koehler will coach pole vault and high jump in the track setup where Stenzil handles sprints, hurdles, and broad jump; Laulunen directs distance and middle distance runners; Miller tutors the weight men; and Head Coach Ron Helberg directs the whole program and drills the relay teams. This is the youngest track coaching setup and one of the best in the northwestern suburban area.

Palatine's baseball coaching plan will also get a decided boost this coming spring with the veteran Claude Bailey again handling the varsity but with Jim Bragiel coaching the sophs and Curry and Berman handling the frosh. Bragiel was a baseball standout in high school at Morton of Cicero and a regular in both baseball and basketball three years at Northwestern. He has 4 years' coaching experience. Curry did well in his first year at Palatine and will be aided with the frosh by Allen Berman, a catcher from Lawrence College.

Tennis was started at Palatine last spring by Dick Gavigan and the team won two matches and had a number of close ones. A veteran team is back and Duane McCartney, a three letter at Elmhurst College and Colorado State, is on hand to help keep the tennis program going. Helping also is Jim Brown the gymnastics coach who hails from University of Michigan and has tennis coaching experience. Spring sports are going to be in very capable hands at Palatine where the big turnouts of athletes call for more and more men to coach and supervise them. The increase in quality of spring sports coaching is equalled by improved material and the outlook for last two months of the 1961-62 school year is really an optimistic one.

We think that the fall and winter sports teams will be of a quality this year which will not cause fans or sports writers to look ahead to the spring season. That is why we are mentioning the outlook now.

REVEREND BOB RICHARDS, the "Vaulting Vicar," will be the guest speaker of the Illinois High School Association at the annual meeting of principals on Wednesday, October 4 at the University of Illinois. Richards is Director of the Wheaties Sports Foundation and a minister at large for the Church of the Brethren. Twice Olympic champion and record breaker in the pole vault, Richards was born in Champaign, attended high school there, and was a track star of the University of Illinois where he secured a masters degree while serving as pastor of several churches. Richards vaulted over 15 ft. more than 100 times in actual competition. He broke the Olympic record in Helsinki in 1952 and at Melbourne in 1956. He was U. S. decathlon champion in 1951, 1954, and 1955. Richards is dedicated to the cause of improving the physical fitness of American young people.

ANNUALLY THE CHAMPAIGN NEWS GAZETTE selects with the aid of the coaches of the state, an all state football team and holds an honor dinner in Champaign for the selected athletes and their coaches. This might be looked upon as a recruiting deal for the University of Illinois but neighboring state universities seem still to get more than their share of grid and cage talent from Illinois. A suggestion reached our office, as it did the offices of other principals over the state, sent by the sports editor of the Gazette. He suggests that in the selection of all-state teams players be selected who rank high enough in their class in scholarship to be assured of college entrance and scholastic success in college. All-State selections get many offers of scholarships to colleges and universities and the Gazette proposes to select only those outstanding athletes who meet college requirements. This seems to us to be an excellent trend in which scholarship becomes a companion attribute with athletic excellence. The News Gazette is to be complimented on the view they have taken of the all-star situation. It would be well for high school conferences and the metropolitan press to consider this angle of the situation.

CONCENTRATED WORKOUTS continued at the various area football camps last week with the two-a-day sessions terminated with the opening of school. In this backfield drill at Arlington high, senior letterman Ray Miller carries the ball with Jerry Totzke (44) and an unidentified teammate holding the dummies. Arlington opens its 1961 season at East Leyden Saturday, Sept. 16.

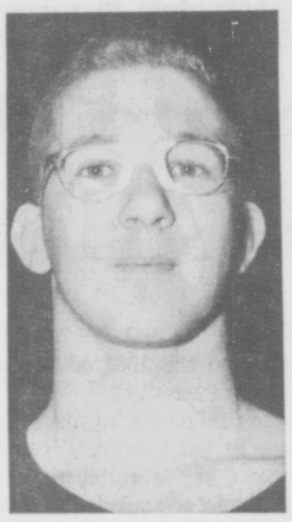
Prep Days Behind

Palatine High Grads Begin Campus Trek

During the past week, thousands of area teenagers once again filed through the hallowed portals of their respective high schools for the opening of the 1961-62 school year.

Several others, however, said their final farewells to their alma maters last June and will embark upon their college careers sometime during the month of September.

Among the list of Palatine high graduates are 27 boys who earned varsity athletic awards last year.



DENNIS CHRISTENSEN

BRAD McCREERY

DENNY Christensen, a standout member of Palatine's football and basketball squads or two seasons, has enrolled at Coe College in Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

An iron-man in football, Christensen earned all-North Suburban Conference recognition as a junior.

"Chris" was an equally valuable asset to the Pirate cage crew. He was named to all-NSC teams during both his junior and senior campaigns and was additionally chosen as Palatine's Most Valuable Player last winter.

MISSING from the Palatine high scene will be Norm Schuettner, a three-sports performer during his prep days.

A rugged performer on both offense and defense, Schuettner earned all-conference recognition at guard last fall. He was also a key member of Palatine's North Suburban Conference championship wrestling squad and Pirate track squad.

Schuettner will attend the University of Dubuque as will Bill Phillips and Bill Smith.

PHILLIPS was a varsity regular in both baseball and football; he was all-conference in baseball. Smith was a standout in football, wrestling and track.

Sorely missed will be Brad McCreery, 1961 Lions Club award winner. McCreery, who will enroll at Mankato (Minn.) State Teachers college, earned a fourth place at 120 pounds at the IHSA wrestling finals and tied for third in state pole vault competition.

McCreery also was a defensive regular in football.

LENNY Rose, all-conference baseball player and quarterback of last fall's grid unit, will attend Bowling Green university in Bowling Green, Ohio.

Wayland Campbell, an all-conference football end for two consecutive seasons, is headed for the University of Colorado at Boulder. Campbell was also a standout cinder competitor.

Joining Campbell at Colorado will be Don Hicks, who lettered in football and baseball.

ANOTHER OF those three-sports athletes who has graduated is Jon Fabri. Fabri, a regular in football and basketball and number one broad jumper in track during his senior year at PTHS, has enrolled at Dartmouth.

Jim Mellin, captain of last spring's golf team and a football starter, will attend Tulane university in New Orleans, La., while another gridder, Marty Bodelson, is headed for the University of Oklahoma in Norman.

Gridders Kelley Goodwillie and Don O'Neal will attend De-Pauw of Greencastle, Ind., and Northern Illinois in DeKalb respectively.

ANDY OLTYAN, who also gained a fourth place medal in state mat competition, will further his education at Florida State university.

Curt Marker, a starter on both the basketball and tennis squads, will eroll at Purdue while wrestler Karl Knowles is headed for Cornell College in Mt. Vernon, Ia.

Fred Barr of the baseball team is slated to attend Bradley while Con Bergo, Most Valuable member of last fall's cross country squad, will enroll at St. Olaf college in Northfield, Minn.

Al Helms will enter Eureka college in Eureka, Ill., while Brian Knutson, who has moved to Minnesota since graduation, is headed for Millikin college of Decatur, Ill.

Prospect's Frosh Open Sept. 16

The frosh "A" and "B" football teams at Prospect high school will play identical schedules in the 1961 season with the opener set for Saturday, Sept. 16, against North Chicago.

Eight games are on the '61 schedule with seven against Interim league competition.

The Knights' plebles, coached by Hal Henson, Rusty Dowell, and Dick Mudge, will play five home games this fall or two more than any other Prospect gridiron unit.

The 1961 schedule:

Sat., Sept. 16,	North Chicago	9:30 H
Sat., Sept. 23,	Glenbrook	9:30 T
Sat., Sept. 30,	Wilowbrook	9:30 H

Andrise is also a devastating blocker and one of the hardest workers on the squad. The 185-pound senior is definite All-State material.

Backing Andrise at the fullback position are senior Bill Bard and junior Jon Davis.

IN ADDITION to Thomas, the leading halfbacks include senior Dan Prekel and juniors Dan Johnson and Wayne Zaehler.

Juniors Ken Groh and Bob Gerrard and senior Mike Francek are engaged in a three-cornered battle for the starting quarterback position with Thomas also working out at the important slot.

Heading the candidates at end are juniors Jim Hogarty, Mike Dawson, and Dennis Mitchell and senior Jim Anderson with seniors Dennis Hogy and Jim Peters and juniors Ron Koepke and Bob Munson topping the tackles. Peters, a 190-pounder, is the heaviest man on a squad that was loaded with size last fall.

THREE SENIORS and a junior are battling for the starting guard berths with Bill Wright, Steve Fossler, Dick Zell, and Al Bloomquist. Juniors Ron Aukamp and Dennis Reindel and senior Ed Topolski head the center candidates.

Beckma doesn't plan to bring any sophomores up this fall as the Knights seek to successfully defend their Interim league championship.

In two years of varsity competition Prospect has collected a 13-2 record. The powerful local entry closed out the 1960 campaign with smashing 24-0 and 46-0 victories over Wheaton and Glenbrook, the latter display their most awesome exhibition of offensive power during the season.

Although inexperience darkens the current Prospect picture, Beckman does have some promising candidates working in the varsity alignment and the Knights could surprise this fall. The non-conference opener will give the coaches a good chance to see what these "rookies" can do under pressure.

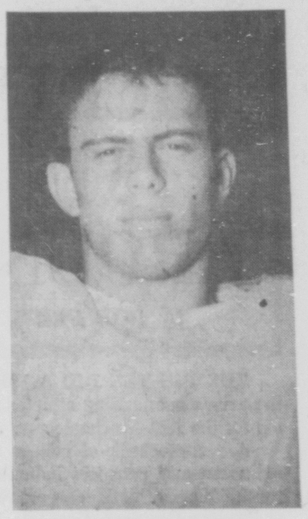
Opener Approaches

Experience Limited On '61 PTHS Eleven

by DICK GOTTSEGEN

Palatine Head Coach Chuck Feutz is singing the blues this fall and with good reason!

With 13 regulars among the 15 lettermen of last fall that graduated in June and a relatively poor numerical turnout this season, Feutz is faced with a mammoth rebuilding job this fall.



BILL MIGLEY

At last count, 32 lads were listed on the PTHS varsity roster including but six lettermen. These figures tend to reveal a definite lack of experience in addition to a dangerous lack of depth.

PALATINE will launch the 1961 season Friday, Sept. 15, at home against an improved Grayslake squad. Palatine routed the Rams, 40-7, at Grayslake last fall.

One of Feutz' chief problems will be to fill the gap at quarterback created by the graduation of Lenny Rose. Senior monogrammer Dick Sundling is around as is Junior Bob McWilliams.

McWilliams held down the number one sophomore signal-calling job last season.

THE DEPARTURE of '60 regulars Jon Fabri and Bill Phillips opens two additional vacancies in the backfield.

Eyeing one of those spots is senior letterman John Roberts. Roberts, a rugged competitor, was used mainly as a kicking specialist last fall.

Jim Smith, a senior who was eligible last year, is also shooting for a starting berth as are George McCreery, Rich Bogan, Mel Helms and Rich Schenck. ference Andy Merutka is one

ALL-NORTH Suburban Conference Andy Merutka is one of the most explosive backs in the state and will be a fixture at fullback this fall. McCreery will relieve the 188 pound senior.

Denny Christensen will be sorely missed both at center and on defense. Battling for the pivot position are Terry Reardon (160), number two behind Christensen last fall, Larry Lorenz (190) and Lee Fabri (160).

Both 1960 starting guards, Norm Schuettner and Jim Mellin, have graduated but this position appears to be well fortified what with the return of one letterman and three holdover squad members.

BILL SCHUH (185) is the letterman while Pete Schmalcs (165), John Gaza (175) and Wayne Lewin (155) all saw limited varsity action as juniors last fall. Add to this group juniors Jim Seagraves (165) and George Bedell (180).

Anchoring Palatine's forward wall this fall will be Bill Migley (200), a senior who appears destined to attain stardom during the course of the season. Migley started several games and lettered as a junior last year.

Two other beefy seniors who are seeking starting assignments are Dennis Thune (180) and Jim Leskinovitch (220). Juniors Bruce Andrews (200) and Larry Hough (230) also figure prominently in Feutz' plans.

WAYLAND Campbell was a highly talented end and will be sorely missed but holdover regular Don Skinner is capable of taking up a good deal of the slack.

Ken Petke and Gary Nagl are two senior end prospects that saw limited varsity action last fall while Bob Wittenberg is a senior that wasn't out as a junior. Junior hopefuls at the flanks are Rol Chidley, Jim Oehlberg and Kent Wilson.

Cards' Harriers To Open at Home

Arlington's varsity and frosh-soph cross country teams will launch their 1961 schedules Tuesday afternoon, Sept. 19, when they host Notre Dame's Dons.

The lidlifter will touch off a slate of nine dual meets for the Cardinals with conference and district competition set for the last two Saturdays in October.

Arlington will move into West Suburban competition Friday, Sept. 22, at Maine East and will run against all seven other WSC schools. Non-conference foe outside of Notre Dame includes Palatine's powerful Pirates, a definite state threat this season.

The conference meet will be held on the Prospect high school course with Arlington as host Saturday, Oct. 21.

Russ Attis is handling the varsity aggregation again this fall with Frank Bohac working with the frosh-sophs. A complete rundown on personnel and outlook will be included in next week's sports section.

Notre Dame Dons Prepare For Opener

Notre Dame High's football Dons will kick-off the 1961 season intent on becoming the school's fourth straight grid squad to experience a winning season.

The graduation of 15 lettermen last June certainly didn't help the team but Coach Joe Yonto has eight returning monogram winners around which to form another winning ball club. In addition, a raft of juniors from last year's frosh-soph group will be around to assist in the rebuilding process.

Notre Dame opens its season this year against the Taft Eagles, 1960's public league champs, on Friday, September 15. The Dons will carry an unwanted tradition into that game. In the history of the school, no varsity football squad has ever won its opening game.

THE ATTEMPT to better last year's record of 5 wins 3 losses and 2 ties will be headed by backs Bob Buonincontro, Hank Gibbons, Al Loboy, Neil Morris, and Jim Prasch and linemen Jim Starshak of Mount Prospect, Dennis Bielinski, and George Risher. These letterwinners will be hard-pressed for regular jobs by juniors who last year as sophs held their opponents to a paltry total of 25 points while posting a perfect 9-0 record.

The 1960 varsity played a number of exciting games. By far, their finest hour came when they beat highly-regarded Immaculate Conception 20-14. However, the Dons 0-0 deadlock with last place St. Edward allowed IC to tie Notre Dame for the Suburban Catholic Conference championship. ND finished league play with a 3-0-2 record while Immaculate Conception came in with a 4-1 slate.

Faced with the usual challenging schedule this year, Yonto and his squad will have to fight to uphold the school's winning standards but as in past seasons, all the ingredients for success are present.

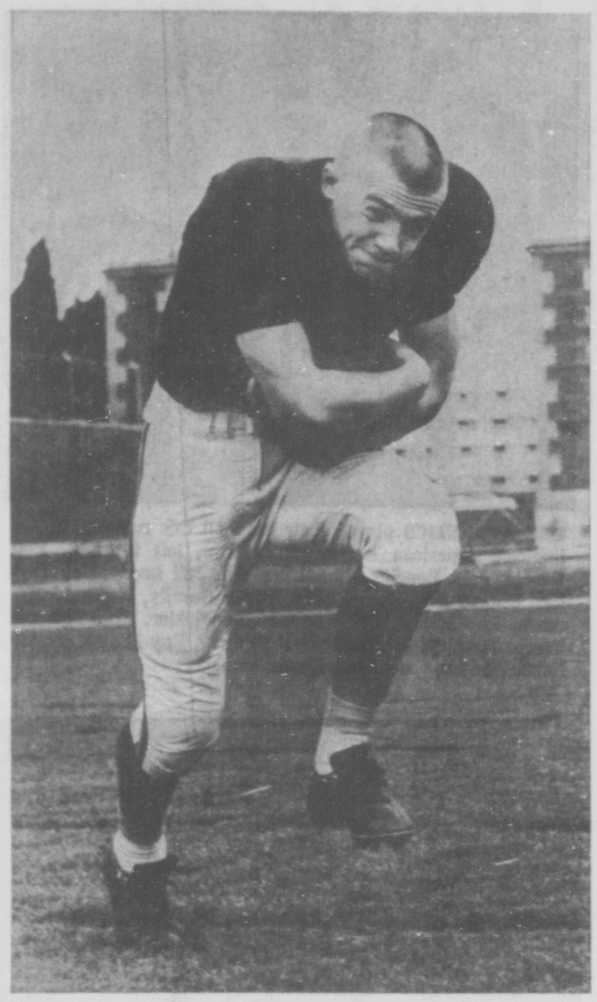
THURS., SEPT. 7, 1961



ARLINGTON HIGH GRADUATE Mike Dundy proved in spring training drills to be one of the fastest men on the University of Illinois football squad. Possessing good power for a halfback, Mike is expected to help at a position that is considered thin. A fine student in commerce and business administration, Dundy was a high school All-Stater in both football and track.

AHS Grads On Illini's Varsity Unit

CHAMPAIGN, ILL.—Two former Arlington high school football stars, Bob Creviston and Mike Dundy, are expected to be key men on Coach Pete Elliott's 1961 University of Illinois football team.

Creviston was switched from tackle to guard when practice opened, and the move should prove beneficial to Creviston, as well as Elliott's Illini.

Lanky Bob, 6-4, 212-pound senior, has spent two season on the bench during a time when Illinois had an unusually talented group of tackles. The tackle corps still is strong this year, but the Illini have been hurt badly by graduation and losses at guard, hence the shift of Creviston, as well as two other tackles.

BOB CREVISTON

Bob captained Arlington Heights' 1958 football team for Coach "Bus" Ormsbee. He has done construction work this summer and was in top condition when he reported to Elliott for fall practice.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Creviston, 717 Pine, Arlington Heights.

DUNDY also is competing at a position hit hard by graduation. Illini have only one letterman halfback, Dick McDade, and he is recovering from a severe ankle injury he received in a freak accident this summer.

Dundy was impressive in spring practice and once held the first team left half assignment. However, he probably will begin fall workouts behind Aurora junior Ken Zimmerman.

Mike has sufficient speed — he was second in the 440-yard dash in 1960 state high school track meet — and he has demonstrated to Illini coaches that he is a willing worker. He won freshman numerals at Illinois in track as well as football.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dundy, 101 Elm st., Prospect Heights.

Ohl Guides Arlington's JV Outfit

Arlington's Junior Varsity football team will open its 1961 schedule Monday afternoon, Sept. 18, against Notre Dame's Dons.

The Cardinals of Dick Ohl will play a seven game schedule this fall, including six against West Suburban opponents. Only WSC school not on the slate is Hinsdale.

Dalmatian Match—

Of general interest to owners of Dalmatians will be the Sanctioned Fun match to be held by the Chicagoland Dalmatian club this coming Sunday, Sept. 10, at the American Legion grounds, Golf and East River rd.

This is the sort of match which gives the owner a chance to have that young dog gone over by an expert judge of the breed or perhaps giving an older dog a chance to have a little more ring work prior to going into a regular AKC point show. All in all, it is a good thing, for it enables a handler to get to know a new dog that he may be going to handle in the big shows. It even gives the owner of a dog who has never been in the show ring with his dog a good chance for a little practice on how to handle the dog under show conditions.

Judging at the match this Sunday will be done by Alfred Treen and entries will be accepted from 10 a.m. until noon, with the judging starting shortly thereafter. The entry fee will be $1.50 for each dog and there will be a gate admission of 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children.

The general public is, of course, invited to attend and there will be refreshments available for those who wish to plan on a sort of a day off for Mother from her cooking chores. More information may be had by contacting Frank Wiedl at FLanders 8-1239.

German Shepherd Training Club—

Speaking about breed clubs brings to mind that folks who are owners of German Shepherds and live over in the Wheeling and Highland Park areas, or for that matter anywhere in the north suburban area, might be interested to know that the Shoreline German Shepherd Dog club has started Wednesday evening training classes again for the school year at the Highland Park high school.

This starts the sixth consecutive year that the club has offered the classes under the direction of Edward Pakan of Wheeling as training director. There are classes in both obedience and confirmation, all conducted by a group of trainers who know and understand German Shepherds.

Folks who are interested in training their German Shepherds in this specialty club may contact Mrs. Lesley Kodner at ID 2-6115.

Fall Cleaning—

You may not think the time has arrived, but it will be sooner than you realize. Plan to get at that cleaning job around the dog's living quarters in the next few weeks. When the cold winds start to blow and frost takes over is not the time to try to wash down a kennel run or scrub out a dog house.

It should also be the time to go over the dog house to make sure that the roof is in good shape and that no cracks have shown up in the sides because of the hot summer sun. A piece of burlap tacked over the opening will act as a good windbreak and the dog will soon learn how to push it aside to get into his house.

In an unusual schedule arrangement the squads will be at home for their first five meets and will travel for their last two.

A complete rundown of personell and outlook at Prospect will be included in next week's sports section.

At Chain o' Lakes

To Determine State Titlist, Qualifier

A 9-day tournament to determine Illinois' 1961 sports angler and pick a qualifier, with all expenses paid, for the World Series Fresh Water Sports Fishing contest, will be held Sept. 10 - 17 at Channel Lake and Lake Catherine in the Chain o'Lakes near Antioch in the northeastern part of Illinois.

The Chain o'Lakes region is 55 miles northwest of Chicago.

Barney Shunneson, operator of the Channel Lake Boat House and veteran Chain o'Lakes resorter, is in charge of the Illinois contest, according to Hy Peskin, producer of the World Series of Fishing.

The World Series of Fishing contest is scheduled for the Grand Lake O'The Cherokees at Grove, Okla., about 675 miles from Chicago. The World Series dates are Oct. 23 thru Oct. 28. The city of Grove and the Grand Lake Association are cosponsoring the big event.

ALL ILLINOIS' resident anglers, 16 years or older, who possess valid Illinois fishing licenses, are eligible for the 8-day state eliminations, according to Shunneson.

Two winners each day of the eliminations will make up a field of 16 finalists. They will return to engage in the Illinois' "fish-off" on Sunday, Sept. 24, to pick the state titleholder and name the World Series Fishing qualifier.

There are no entry fees, according to Shunneson. Contestants can fish thruout the eight days of eliminations, if they so desire, but become ineligible for further angling once they qualify for the finals.

ALL FISHING must be done from boats and with artificial baits, or lures. Because Illinois permits trolling with a motor, this method also will be allowed during the contest. Others may cast or "jig."

Contestants must register each day during the eliminations at Channel Lake Boat House with Shunneson prior to their going out on the contest waters. Registrations will be accepted each day from 6 a.m. on, and anglers can come out anytime during the day to try their luck. Fishing during the eliminations will end each day at 6:30 p.m., to permit all participants sufficient time to return to Channel Lake Boat House to register and weigh their catch. No fish will be registered after 7 p.m.

Only northern pike and black bass caught with hook and line will be counted for contest points. Illinois fishing rules will apply during the competition. This means northerns, to be counted, must be at least 20 inches (minimum legal size) in length, and only five, the daily limit, may be taken. Any size black bass is legal, but only 10, the daily limit, will be counted.

EACH FISH, according to Shunneson, will be worth 10 points, while 5 points will be awarded for each pound of fish.

The two anglers with the most points at the end of each elimination day will be declared winners and finalists for Sept. 24.

Fishing tackle will be offered as prizes to the daily winners and to those finishing high up in the finals.

In addition, the Illinois champion will receive a handsome trophy donated by Mr. Shunneson. Transportation expenses to and from Grove, Okla., also will be provided for the state's qualifier by Mr. Shunneson. The qualifier also will receive a "wallet of green" and a plaque from Tom Durant, producer of the Chicago Sportsmen's and Vacation Show to be held next Feb. 9-18 in the Chicago International Amphitheater.

THE TRANSPORTATION money, plaque and "wallet of green" has been earmarked for the qualifier only, providing he attends the World Series of Fishing.

If the champion can't make the trip to Grove, then the tournament committee has reserved the right to select a "qualifier" from the other 15 finalists in their order of finish.

Sophomores To Play Key Roles at NU

Sophomores figure prominently in Coach Ara Parseghian's plans for rebuilding Northwestern University's football team this fall following the graduation of 22 lettermen, including nine starters, from the 1960 team that compiled a 5-4 record.

Thirty-six sophomores, more than half of the 65-man squad, were on hand for the opening of practice Sept. 1 and at least a dozen of these newcomers were sprinkled among the first three teams that lined up for signal practice.

"We're short on experience at several positions, particularly end and fullback," Parseghian said. "It now appears that we will be playing more sophomores than at any time since 1958."

LOSS BY graduation of last year's three regular ends, Elbert Kimbrough, Irv Cross, and Paul Yanke, leaves the flanks wide open. The only experienced ends are Dave Cox and Dick Machalski who saw limited action as sophomores last year.

Two sophomores, Chuck Logan, an all-stater from Lane Tech, Chicago, and Tom Ziemke, 6-3, 210 pounder from Sandusky, Ohio, are currently tabbed as the starting offensive ends. Other sophomore ends of promise are Pat Riley, 6-2, 192 pounds, Cincinnati, and Tom Titus, 6-0, 202, Piqua, Ohio.

Sophomores will be in the thick of the battle for the fullback job left open by the graduation of Mike Stock, last year's leading ground gainer and scorer. Paul Flatley, junior letterman, has the edge at the moment, but he is being pushed by Bill Swingle, 193 pounder from Grand Haven, Mich. Another promising sophomore fullback prospect is Dick Uhlir, 195 pounder from Chicago's Fenger high school.

PERHAPS THE biggest replacement job is at quarterback where a successor must be developed for the talented Dick Thornton. A three-way fight is in prospect between lettermen Bob Eickoff and Fred Quinn and sophomore Tom O'Grady, a lanky 6-3, 197 pounder from Brother Rice high school, Chicago.

Two sophomore halfbacks served notice in spring practice that they merit serious consideration. They are Merlin Norenberg, chunky 190 pounder from Beaver Dam, Wis., and Willie Stinson, 170 pound speedster from Danville.

Knights' Sophs Open September 16

Prospect's frosh-soph football squad, headed by Ted Wissen and Chuck Aldrich, will play seven games this fall with the opener set for Saturday, Sept. 16, at North Chicago.

The opener against the Tri-County conference Warhawks will mark the only time in the 1961 season that the frosh-sophs play the contest preceding the varsity battle.

The young Knights have three home games on the docket East Leyden, Glenbard, Maine East, and Maine West. All the Saturday morning clashes will begin at 9:30.

The 1961 schedule:

Offers Free Telephone Service

Free telephone service is now available for Prospect High School athletics through the courtesy of the Prospect Knights Boosters Club.

A telephone has been installed in the coaches office for use by athletes in calling home after games and practice sessions.

The installation cost and monthly charges will be paid for by the Boosters Club as another way in which this organization supports the Prospect athletic program.

Other Booster projects are planned, including a continuance of student bus service for out-of-town events. Membership is open to all parents, alumni and friends of Prospect. Application forms are available from Walter Strobel, CL 5-4518 or Earl Thompson, CL 3-7380.

Lorenzen Captures 25-Lap Championship

Only one of the two scheduled programs for the big Labor Day Holiday weekend of racing at the Waukegan Speedway was able to get under way as the regular Sunday evening program of modified stock racing was washed out by rain. The modified rainout marked the first of the year after 16 consecutive runs.

Milwaukeean Earl Lorenzen captured top honors in winning the 25-lap championship for the strictly stock cars. Lorenzen outlasted the field of 16 starters to come home the winner at an average speed 41.76 m.p.h. Only five of the starters were still running at the finish, the rest the victims of the countless number of smashups witnessed by the turnout of over 1800 fans in all events.

Lorenzen took the lead on the 20th lap from South Milwaukee's Fred Pliszka, after chasing him from the 12th lap on. Pliszka dropped back and tossed a wheel two laps later but was able to continue on and place fourth, behind Billy Dean of Zion and Earl Rumppe of Kenosha. Dennis Burgon, Zion, finished fifth.

A FIRST LAP accident stopped the event when Ralph Reeves of Fox River Grove spun out on the backstretch causing an entanglement of cars. In a feature event, all cars must complete the first turn before the race is officially under way.

Glen Eichmann, Lake Zurich, averaged 37.12 m.p.h. in copping the 12 lap semi-feature which saw 13 of the 24 starters finish. Ray Fouceult, Milwaukee, was second and Bill Baumgarten, another Milwaukeean placed third.

Heat winners included Butch Anderson, Waukegan in the first, (37.39 m.p.h.) Cliff Evans, Waukegan, in the second (38.07 m.p.h.) Sonny Miller, Gurnee (41.40 m.p.h.) the third and Earl Rumppe, Kenosha, (42.49 m.p.h.) the fourth. The heats were contested at eight laps. Fast qualifier for the night was West Allis ace, Roger Regeth, who turned a speed of 43.84 m.p.m. Regeth was involved in one of the accidents in the feature which sent him into the concrete and wiped the front end of the machine out.

A SPECIAL attraction for the fans was the appearance of six of the fast modified cars that put on an eight lap heat. Bay Darnell of Deerfield took the top honors in that division, overshadowing Waukegan's Ed Irving for the win. Darnell's average speed was 49.93 m.p.h.

The track was quite slippery due to all the rain in the Waukegan area Saturday and Sunday night, and spinning cars, with the resulting crashes added to an evening of fun-filled excitement for the thrill seekers, although there were no roll-overs. Several of the field of nearly 50 cars were scratched for the season with all but demolished cars, but no drivers were injured.

NEXT SUNDAY, September 10, the Speedway will attempt to stage its seventeenth program of the season for the modified and amateur, sportsmen type stock cars. Heading the field will be West Allis drivers Bill Strom and Ted Rozinski who rank one-two in the season point standings. Strom now has a 10 point edge on Rozinski in the race for the track championship with totals of 2270 and 2260 points each. Other top contendors include Jack Frost, Zion, John Reimer Caledonia, and Greg Krieger, Milwaukee.

In addition, fans can expect to see some real hot competition as other top Milwaukee pilots, Miles Melius, Billy Johnson, Billy Schwister, Fuzzy Fassbender and Etchie Biertzer are expected to be on hand. These and several others that usually compete at a northern Wisconsin track will be free to compete now that the season at that track has officially ended.

Track manager Mike Kaishian also announced that another Powder Puff Derby will be staged, with women drivers again taking the wheels of the stock jalopies for another race all their own.

Time trials will begin at 7:15 with racing getting under way at 8:30 p.m. The speedway is located on W. Washington st., just west of Waukegan between U. S. 41 and Ill. 131.

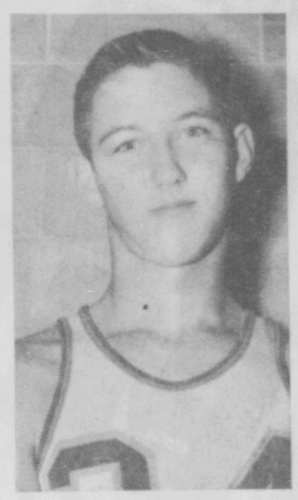
Area Grads Embark Upon College Careers

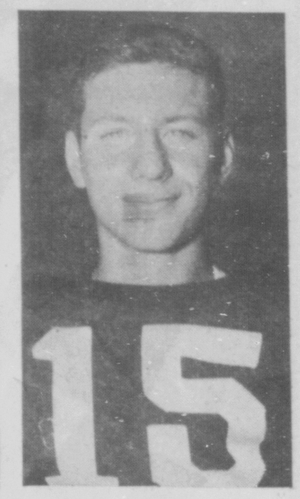
During the past week, thousands of area teenagers once again filed through the hallowed portals of their respective high schools for the opening of the 1961-62 school year.

Many others, however, said their final farewells to their alma maters last June and will embark upon their college careers sometime during the month of September.

Among the list of area graduates are several former members of Fenton, Lake Park and Willowbrook athletic teams.



TOM SEMPER



JOHN STEVENSON

JOHN HENNIG of Fenton, who earned all-conference recognition in basketball last winter, has enrolled at Eastern Illinois University at Charleston. Hennig placed second in Tri-County individual scoring.

Two Bisons, Dan Summers and Tom Semper, received athletic scholarships in football at the University of Illinois.

Semper was named to all-conference teams in football, basketball and baseball during his senior season while Summers was all-conference in football and baseball.

ALSO HEADED for the University of Illinois is Bill Kehoe, a track standout at Fenton last spring.

Bisons Pete Melonas, Fred Kosar and Howie Waldvogel will enroll at Northern Illinois, Eastern Illinois and Brigham Young respectively.

Southern Illinois university in Carbondale bagged two of Lake Park's best all-around athletes in the persons of Dick Raney and Larry Wheelwright. Both were three-sport standouts at Lake Park.

JOE GORSKI, 1960-61 Tri-County individual cage scoring champ, will enroll at Drake university in Des Moines, Iowa. Gorski also starred in football and baseball at the Medinah school.

Headed for Dartmouth is Norm Pfortmiller, who earned all-conference football recognition as a junior but was sidelined with a broken leg last year.

Tri-County Conference golf medalist John Stevenson will attend the University of Illinois. Stevenson was also a football and basketball regular.

KEN HARDWICKE, Ken Kummer and Russ Stott have enrolled at Bradley university in Peoria, Ill.

Willowbrook's Larry Fontaine and Bill Offill are headed for Illinois Wesleyan and Beloit college. Fontaine was a standout performer in football and wrestling while Offill was named to Interim Association all-star squads in football, basketball and baseball last year.

Four Outfits Battle for Rob Roy Golf Crown

With only one more night of play remaining, position night, the Rob Roy Tuesday Night league again has one of its hair-raising photo finishes which will most likely be decided on the last hole and the last putt.

Webber Paint after having led the league by as much as eight points in midseason now finds itself leading by the very slim margin of one and one-half points.

The Webber team took their worst drubbing of the year at the hands of fourth place Rusty's Marathon Service, 7-0.

BOB COOK, subbing for Raleigh Westfall, shot a two-over-par 38-3-35 on the back nine to hand Len Arnold one of the few setbacks he has encountered this season and gave the Marathon team two of their seven points.

L-Nor Cleaners, the team that has gathered the most momentum in the last few weeks and now is lodged in second place, scored another overwhelming victory over Golf Rand Golf Center, 6-1. Dick Craig scored a par 35-1-34 to lead the Cleaners to a vital victory in this important match.

Prospect Heights Variety was victim of a fired-up Kelter Insurance co. team and slipped to third place, three points off the pace. Tony Schenk, playing in the number four spot, shot one of his best rounds of the season, 43-7-36, to spark the insurance boys to their 5-2 upset victory.

RUSTY'S Marathon is still in contention, 5½ points back of the leaders and could be a surprise winner if the first three teams falter.

Don Bailey with 37-3-34 on the front nine and Clare Peterson with par 36-2-34 on back nine were in the same class as Dick Craig for the low net honors for the evening.

Pharmacists Cop Tuesday League Title

Keefer Pharmacy's skein of successive victories was broken last week in the final night of play but the Druggists had accumulated enough points to absorb the loss without trouble and they were officially declared the winners of the Tuesday night division of the Mt. Prospect twlight league.

The Pharmacist's defeat, their first in seven starts, came at the hands of Wille Lumber and Fuel, the same team that had beaten them on June 27 before they began their unbroken string. The Lumbermen had been lurking slightly back in the pack waiting their chance to make a move for an unprecedented third consecutive league championship, but it was a case of too little and too late as they could only come up with a 6-4 victory. It would have taken a 10-point clean sweep to dislodge the druggists from their first place notch. Wille's had to be content with second place.

In the individual matches Clarke Robinson of the druggists took 2 from Jim Driscoll, and Ben Kopriva took 2 from Bob Robertshaw. For the lumbermen, Dick Rubner took 2 points from Marv Peters and Roy Hawkinson took 2 from Pete Petersen plus gaining another point for low individual net. Wille's won their point by taking low team net.

THIRD PLACE in the league went to the erratic Kersting's Garden Center team who came to life again after their shellacking of the week before and knocked off Mt. Prospect Electric Constr. Co. 6-4. The electricians wound up in fourth place.

Best team effort of the evening was the Kirchoff Insurance 9-1 victory over Vern's Pure Oil. This moved Kirchoff's into fifth place and dropped Vern's to a second division berth.

In other final night matches Mt. Prospect State Bank licked Carl's Food Shop 8-2, Golden's Food Shop tied Mt. Prospect Bowling Lanes 4-4 and Geo. O'Day Realtor administered the coup de grace to Morton's Pontiac, 6½-2.

Lowest scores for the night were a flock of 40's posted by H. Baylis, R. Hawkinson, L. Johnson, A. Montgomery, and C. Robinson. Birdies were scored by R. Hawkinson on No. 3, L. Johnson on No. 6, H. Dod on No. 7, L. Sbarbaro on No. 17, and E. Hendricks on No. 18.

Final team standings:

Keefer's Pharmacy	92 1/2
Wille Lumber & Fuel	86

St. Raymond's Leagues End Ninth Season

The St. Raymond's golf league ended its ninth regular season of play last Thursday with the top two teams in each league stubbornly holding on to their positions and thereby earning berths in the 18 hole playoffs beginning this Saturday, Sept. 9.

Spooner Engineering, probably the most consistant point winning squad the league has seen in many years, took first place in League No. 1 with room to spare. Strass Ladies Apparel, team that rode in 3rd & 4th place for most of the campaign, came on strong in the last few weeks to claim the number 2 position.

In league No. 2 the race was close from beginning to end with just about every team taking turns at the top of the heap. McMahons took their turn at the top three weeks ago and held on thru the stretch drive to nail down first place and a bid to the playoffs. By WALLY SCHWALLER

It was in 1897 that the first "Ladies' Day" in baseball was held. The Washington Senators issued a free invitation to the ladies, hoping it would bring out a few hundred shy but curious women. When the gates were opened, there were thousands there to cheer the handsome pitcher "Winnie" Mercer.

Mercer got into an argument with the umpire in the fifth inning and was tossed out of the game. At the end of the game, the furious females attacked the umpire and he had a hard time reaching the club house alive. It was many years before the Senators issued another free invitation to the ladies.

OFTEN MISUSED

It is better to use UNDERHAND, instead of UNDERHANDED, often heard. "He is an underhand baseball pitcher," and, "He is accused of underhand dealings with the enemy."

Do not say, "I am not going to buy anything at all." Omit the final two words; they are superfluous.

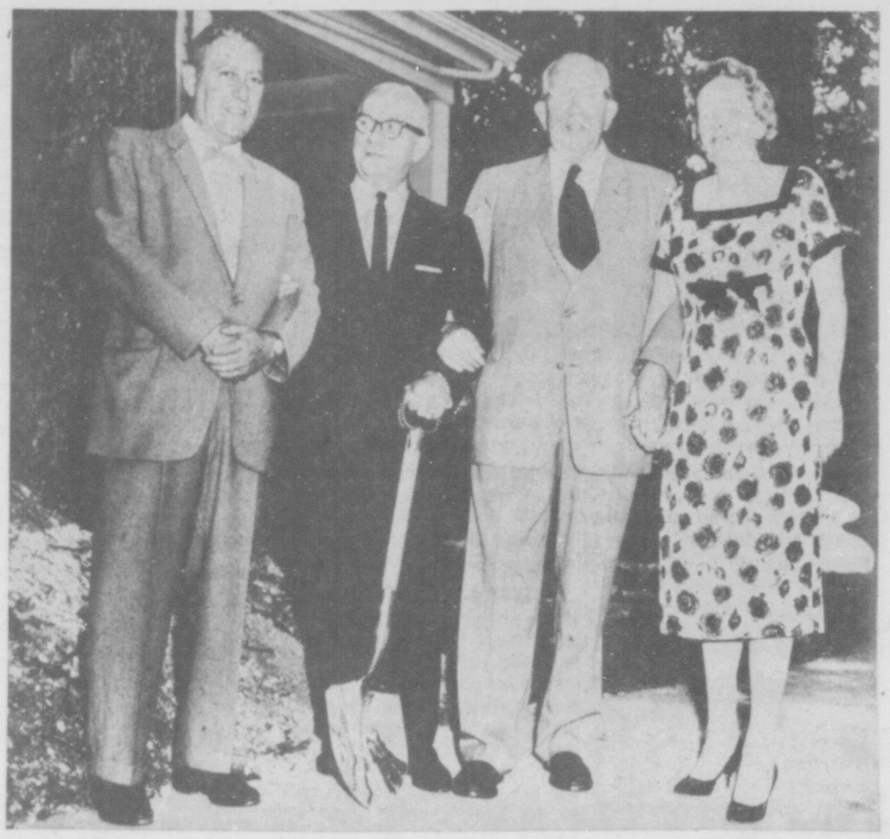
New Restaurant to Feature Decor of Seven Countries



CIVIC LEADERS dedicate The Seven Countries restaurant soon to open in Wheeling. Pictured are A. R. McIntyre, village president of Wheeling; Judge Thomas E. Kluczynski of Wilmette; Ernst Hagerstrom, owner of Hagerstrom's Metal Craft Studios in Wheeling; and Mildred Haugh, consultant to the new restaurant.

A "golden shovel" groundbreaking recently announced a new restaurant called The Seven Countries, located on Milwaukee ave., near Dundee rd. in Wheeling.

Described by its management as completely different than any other in the midwest, it will have distinctive dining areas in Scandinavian, French, Italian, Old English (Rum House), Bavarian, Spanish and American Period decor.

According to Mildred Haugh, consultant for the restaurant, dining will be in the continental manner with "due consideration given to the man to whom the great American steak is the only choice."

A FEATURE of The Seven Countries will be a complete wine cellar specializing in vintage wines "from the great wine growing regions of Europe," she said.

An additional attraction for diners can be a visit to Hagerstrom's Metal Craft Studios and Gift Shop at the same location. Ernst Hagerstrom is a noted Swedish metal craftsman, and his works have long been a well-known attraction in the Midwest area.

HAGERSTROM SAID that visitors to the new restaurant will not only be welcome "just to look around" his metal craft studios but also see the workrooms where designers and craftsmen are at work on custom pieces.

"The Seven Countries will seat '200 guests graciously' and be open for luncheon, afternoon tea, and cocktails as well as for the evening dining hours," said Miss Haugh. (BB

Randhurst, Oakbrook Centers

New Rothschild Stores Set

TO OPEN IN MID-1962, as part of the Randhurst shopping center now under development in Mt. Prospect, is this 24,000 square foot Maurice L. Rothschild men's, women's and children's apparel store. Fully air conditioned and featuring special customer services, the Rothschild store is one of two new units planned for 1962 as part of a major expansion program. Other store will be in Oakbrook Shopping Center, Oak Brook, Ill. Arthur Rubloff & Co. was cooperating broker on both the Oakbrook and Randhurst leases. John B. Hollister, Jr., is leasing director of Randhurst corp.

Maurice L. Rothschild & co. this week announced plans to open two large men's, women's and children's apparel stores in the Chicago area during 1962 as part of a major expansion program scheduled over the next three years.

The plans were unveiled by Robert Mayer, Rothschild president, and ArthurRubloff, board chairman of Arthur Rubloff & co.

Mayer said long-term leases have been signed for stores in the Chicago area's newest and largest shopping centers, Oakbrook Center, now under construction in Oak Brook and Randhurst shopping center, being built in Mt. Prospect. Both centers are scheduled for opening in mid-1962.

Arthur Rubloff & co., represented by vice presidents Willard Brown, Sr., and Gene Beak, were cooperating brokers in both leases. Draper & Kramer, Inc., represented Oakbrook Center. John B. Hollister, Jr., is leasing director of Randhurst corp.

"CONSTANT upward growth of the consumer market in the burgeoning Chicago metropolitan area points to a continued favorable climate for retail merchandising during the foreseeable future," Meyer stated. He said he was optimistic that improving economic conditions will have a beneficial effect upon the retail clothing business, "which already is experiencing an upswing in sales."

In addition to announcing two new stores, Mayer revealed plans to double Rothschild's retail sales space in Evergreen Plaza shopping center, a move which will give shoppers access to both the upper and lower malls. And he noted that a new 30,000 square-foot Rothschild store in Minneapolis will open in October as part of the large Apache Shopping Center there.

"We plan to demonstrate our faith in a strong Chicagoland and midwestern market by the establishment of these and other stores which will offer a wide range of quality apparel for all the family," Mayer stated.

ROTHSCHILD'S store in Oakbrook Center will cover 24,000 square feet on a single level. Shoppers will have direct access from the parking lot to the store, and to the rest of the shopping center. An unusual feature will be display windows on three sides of the store. Other major tenants in Oakbrook Center include Marshall Field & co. and Sears, Roebuck.

In Randhurst shopping center, the Rothschild store will occupy 24,000 square feet on two levels. The upper level will be devoted to women's and girls' apparel, with men's and boys' furnishings on the lower level.

Both stores will be fully air-conditioned and will provide special fitting and alteration services designed to give customers maximum service in the shortest time. Unusually wide aisles and "daylight" lighting are being planned for added customer comfort.

GERALD GRIFFITH, executive vice president, said this new store will have the latest in fixtures and displays. There will be a service garage in the rear of the store.

The main lines of Western Tire include national brand merchandise, such as Zenith, Motorola, Admiral, and Majestic-Grundig TV and Stereo; Sunbeam, Norge, and Admiral appliances; Odin hot water heaters, and Mathes air conditioners. This new store will sell over 7,600 items. Other departments include tires, automotive, sporting goods, lawn and garden, toys, hardware, wheel goods, and paint.

This store will be completely air conditioned. The tentative grand opening date is scheduled for October 15. (BB

EAGER SHOPPERS burst through the doors when Big Save Discount Department Store at 4900 N. River Road, Schiller Park, began its grand opening August 24. The grand opening was considered the most successful of any department store opening in the midwest, said Jack Eckerling, president of Big Save. All departments reported huge sales. Opening day dollar volume went considerably over $60,000.00, according to officials of the company. Big Save Stores were considerably complimented by the fantastic crowds that came to Schiller Park and Des Plaines. Unusual values attracted many mothers anxious to clothe Johnny and Sally in their back to school best. The toy department enjoyed much activity with thoughts of Christmas just a few months away. Another new Big Save Discount Department store will open on North Avenue, two blocks west of Route 83 in Villa Park early in September. This new addition to the Big Save chain will contain 60,000 feet of shopping area.

Chrysanthemums have long been the favorite fall flower. With scientific advances in the growing of these flowers, the season has been lengthened until now these useful blooms are available fresh, every day of the year.

Chrysanthemums origin a l l y grew wild in Asia and were quite similar to our common daisy. The Japanese, through their skillful breeding, developed the flower to the point where it was many times as large as its wild ancestor, and it is now the national flower of Japan.

EUROPEAN visitors to Japan were fascinated by the large, showy flowers and carried plants back to Europe from whence they finally were imported to the U.S.

The Chrysanthemum has been bred extensively in this country, and most of the important commercial varieties are results of the work of the breeders.

Our own University of Illinois is one of the foremost developers of Chrysanthemums in the United States. Many varieties are introduced by the Floriculture Division of the College of Agriculture each year, each bearing the trademark, Illini somewhere in the name. Illini Snowdrift* is a delicate little variety known all over the United States as well as abroad.

THERE ARE many types of Chrysanthemums on the market, and at least one is suited for almost any use. The large "Football Mums" called "standards" in the trade are used extensively in arrangements. Closely allied to the Football Mums are other large disbuds with decorative, informal shapes and the exotic spider-like Fuji Mums.

The small, spray type Chrysanthemum are called pompoms. These work well in small arrangements and are extensively used in corsages. It is the pompom which because of its long cut-flower life is used on New Years Day to cover the beautiful floats in the many parades throughout the country.

CHRYSANTHEMUMS are one of our best flower buys. The flowers are adapted to almost any use, and in addition, Chyrsanthemums are the longest-lived of all our cut flowers. With proper care, a Chrysanthemum arrangement will last several weeks in the home.

Chrysanthemums are in good supply now at your neighborhood florist. Use flowers, they are the sign of a friendly, hospitable home. (BB

Sanding: Don't Make It A 'Hurry' Task

by BOB WILKIN

Our first four articles got your table stripped, the cracks filled and knots shellacked. Now we're ready for sanding. Don't fall into the let's-get-this-part-over-with-in-a-hurry trap. No amount of varnish or paint can cover up an off-the-cuff sanding job.

Stock up on plenty of fine, medium fine, and very fine sandpapers. (If you'd like to set yourself apart from the common herd, call them "coated abrasives" rather than sandpapers. There is no sand in today's sandpapers.)

Q. Any shortcuts?

A. Most hardware stores carry a hand sander for flat surfaces that utilizes a strip of roll sandpaper. A workable substitute is a home-made job consisting of a block of wood with sandpaper wrapped around it.

And for curved surfaces too concave to be worked with a rubbing block, a piece of sandpaper wrapped around a broom handle or other dowel-like piece does the job. Rungs of chairs, slats, etc., can be sanded by using a long strip of sandpaper in the same manner that you use a shoe-shine cloth.

If you are as punctilious as we all should be, you may wish to finish off the sanding operation by rubbing with oil and one of the papers specifically manufactured for that purpose — or with oil and polishing-grade steel wool.

Q. I'd like to make this old table look as really antique as possible. Is there anything I can do?

A. Yes. In the later articles on finishing we'll get into one part of the antiquing technique. The other part you can do right now. With your course, medium and fine sandpapers, round off the corners and edges in an irregular pattern. String some keys loosely together and give the surface a few whacks to produce dents. And with the edge of a screwdriver produce uneven, short scratches. Then go over the entire area with fine sandpaper and oil again.

Animal Production Is Much Greater Today

By JACK SAMPIER

Modern beef cows, sows and ewes—aided by better breeding, feeding and management practices—are setting a pace of production that would put their ancestors to shame.

Today, the average beef cow is producing 539 pounds of live weight beef—148 pounds or 38 per cent more than the beef cow of 30 years ago. Live weight includes the weight of calves born plus weight gains added in feedlots.

Thirty years ago, cattlemen were producing six billion pounds of beef valued at $1.2 billion. Daily gains on beef cattle averaged 1.75 pounds per head and it required 10.9 pounds of feed to produce one pound of gain.

NOW, CATTLEMEN are producing 13 billion pounds of beef valued at $5.1 billion. Daily gains are averaging in excess of 2 pound per head and the feed required per pound of gain has been reduced by 14 per cent to 9.5 pounds.

The average beef carcass now weighs 511 pounds against the 474-pound carcass of three decades ago.

Thus, beef productivity per cow has been increasing at the rate of about five pounds per year.

HOG RAISERS, too, have broken the pound barrier in the production of pork chops and other succulent cuts of pork.

Three decades ago, hog raisers were getting 1,119 pounds of live weight per sow. These days, 1,450 pounds live weight of hogs are being produced for each sow farrowing during the year—a 30 per cent increase.

Most of the added efficiency in producing hogs arises from remarkable increases in litter sizes—from 5.48 spring pigs and 5.64 fall pigs saved per sow 30 years ago—to 6.91 spring and 6.80 fall pigs saved now.

AVERAGE slaughter weights for hogs, however, are heavier now than in the mid-twenties but more pork and less lard is being obtained from each carcass. Pork output per head slaughtered is up from 123 to 135 pounds.

The real index of progress is indicated by the fact that 27 per cent more pork is being produced today from fewer sows as compared with 30 years ago.

Then, a hog producer needed 500 or more pounds of feed to produce 100 pounds of pork. Today, he needs less than 450 pounds of feed, or 11 per cent less, and many efficient hog raisers are doing an even better job.

AN EIGHT-WEEK-OLD pig now weighs in at 40 pounds instead of 25 pounds.

Live weight production of sheep and lambs per ewe has gone up from 58.8 pounds to 75 pounds or a 28 per cent increase during the past 30 years.

Lambing percentages have increased, too. They were around 85 per cent (85 lambs born per 100 ewes) in the twenties, but now average around 95 per cent. With twin and triplet births, many sheepmen are reporting 150 per cent lambing percentages in their herds and flocks.

Dressed carcasses of lambs are now about eight pounds heavier reflecting improved types of lambs being raised and marketed.

BACK OF THESE records of more and better meat production, of course, stand years of progress in scientific research at local, state and national levels. Modern production of meat animals is based upon better methods of breeding, feeding, disease and parasite control, management and marketing.

It all adds up to the fact that the nation's live stock raisers are doing a really outstanding job of producing meat — beef steaks, ham, and lamb chops—for 183 million meat-hungry Americans. (Fm

4-H Peace Corps To Latin America

A special 4-H Peace Corps project which will send qualified 4-H'ers on 2-year assignments to Latin American countries is fast becoming a reality.

Under the program, 50 high school graduates with strong backgrounds in 4-H Club work will receive Peace Corps assignments starting about December 1.

THESE YOUNG people will work as two-person teams and help to develop 4-H-type rural youth programs in the project countries. They will be accompanied to their assignments and guided in their work by a project director and three regional supervisors representing the National 4-H Foundation.

Basically the Peace Corps teams will be responsible for recruiting and training local 4-H Club leaders, helping to establish and carry out club and "county"-level 4-H project exhibits and visiting members' projects to provide technical assistance with their project work.

Selected candidates will receive two months of training at the National 4-H Club Center in Washington, D.C., all expenses paid. From these trainees, volunteers will be selected for further training and assignment to the 4-H Peace Corps project.

TRAINEES not selected will return home with no further obligations, but will be classified as "Standby Reserves" in case they are needed for this or other Peace Corps projects. (Fm

Local Guernsey Cited by Club

The registered Guernsey cow, Henslee Farms G. Nona, has been named a Gold Star Guernsey Dam by the American Guernsey Cattle Club here.

"Nona" was bred by Estate E. B. Henslee, Henslee Farms, Arlington Heights, and is now owned by W. H. Odlum, Rosewood Farms, Roselle.

THE GOLD Star Guernsey Dam award is one of three awards given under a new program designed to recognize superior achievement in the breeding of registered Guernsey dairy cattle. The other two awards are for sires and breeders.

The summary of Nona's progeny shows three daughters qualifying her for the award. They have five official production records averaging 11,852 pounds of milk and 560 pounds of fat, 305-2X M.E.

They also have an average classification rating of 88.3, called Very Good, the breed's second highest rating.

Highest producer of the three daughters is Henslee Farms Ro-Nona, with one record averaging 12,827 pounds of milk and 533 pounds of fat, 305-2X M.E. The other two qualifying daughters are Henslee Farms O'Nona and Henslee Farms K. Naomi.

NONA WAS a good producer herself. She has five records including one for 15,652 pounds of milk and 682 pounds of fat and was classified Excellent twice and once Very Good. Her sire was Langwater Sir Galahad and her dam was Guernsey Grove Nora.

As applicant for the award Odlum will receive a special certificate in recognition of Nona's superior performance, according to R. D. Stewart, AGCC secretary. (FM

Poultry Day Planned for This Monday

Reports on nutrition, management and disease control headline the University of Illinois All-Industry Poultry Day Monday, Sept. 11.

Reports scheduled for the morning program include (1) quality of fishmeal in relation to its value as a supplement to corn-soybean diets, (2) the present status of respiratory diseases, (3) dead bird disposal, (4) calcium needs of the laying hen and (5) the U. of I. poultry program in the next decade.

A REPORT on the "threat of epidemic tremors in Illinois" kick off the afternoon program. Then a panel of speakers will discuss the processing and disposing of poultry manure.

After a question-and-answer session, the program will adjourn at 3:30 p.m.

Any interested person is invited to attend Poultry Day. The sessions will be held in the Law Building auditorium.

During the noon hour a broiler barbecue will be held in the Stock Pavilion.

Tractor on Highway Is Dangerous

Driving a tractor on a public highway is one of the most dangerous situations a farmer can get into, according to O. L. Hogsett, University of Illinois farm safety specialist.

The farm tractor spends only four per cent of its working time on the road. Yet that's when more than one-third of all tractor accidents occur.

HOGSETT says farmers often drive too fast to handle a tractor well in a highway emergency. However, even at top speed the tractor is barely moving in comparison with high-speed autos. This speed difference is the cause of most highway tractor accidents.

Hogsett says the best way for a farmer to protect himself on the highway is to obey the law and attach a red flag to the rear of trailing implements. And for further protection he can equip his tractor and equipment with flashing red lights.

Flashing lights get the attention of even the most careless motorist. And their expense is low compared with the cost of a tragic collision.

Farmers might also remember that courtesy makes friends and prevents accidents. It takes only minutes to pull off the highway and let faster moving traffic pass if a number of cars are trailing the tractor.

THE BEST DATES for seeding wheat in Cook county to obtain the highest yields are September 19 - 22. If wheat is seeded before this date, there is a possibility that there may be damage due to Hessian flies. One good practice to follow is to destroy all volunteer wheat by mid-September. By doing this, the fly population can be kept low, because there will be no place for the flies to lay their eggs. Even though the fly population has been low in the past, it is still advisable to delay planting until this time.

Of course, unless a considerable amount of rainfall is received soon, the seeding will have to be delayed because there will not be enough moisture to get the ground into condition to plant.

Many Cook county farmers now have an opportunity to establish grass waterways on their farms. Land that has been entered in government grain programs can be improved without damaging growing crops. Late summer is an ideal time for starting grass waterways. Here are a few pointers to keep in mind if you plan to develop some new waterways on your farm this year.

First, make your waterways good and wide. They may have to carry off a lot of water. Make them deep enough to do the job, but shallow enough to allow farm machinery to cross them. Second, when seeding, work the soil into a moist, fine, compact seedbed. A corrugated roller does an excellent job of firming the seedbed and reducing the danger of washing. Three, apply the necessary fertilizers so that you can get a vigorous growth in a short period of time.

Pure grass stands provide a better sod than grass-legume mixtures. Smooth brome grass does a good job in Cook county. Timothy and redtop can be used for quick growth. Waterways are usually wet spots and not the easiest place to establish new seedings. Your first try may fail, but do not be discouraged. The reduction in soil losses from your fields will repay the extra effort.

If you are in an incorporated area and depend on a septic system, it is necessary that you give some thought and consideration as to whether the system will carry the amount of material that may be necessary. If you bought an automatic washer or a garbage disposal system this year, it may pay you to lay another leach line from the septic tank to take care of the extra water these machines use. That will prevent overloading the system next winter and spring, which is the usual time when most systems give trouble.

Gutters and downspouts are an expense on barns or implement sheds, but in wet weather, they help to keep the yard from becoming a lake of mud. By letting the downspouts discharge onto splash boards in small ditches, you can keep your yard and roads open in any weather. Besides you can save on wheel-bearing replacements for your farm equipment.

Cook county would like to put at least ten more herds on beef performance testing. Records are now being processed by the University of Illinois IBM machines, so the number of herds that can be handled in Illinois is practically unlimited. The top 15 to 20 per cent of the cows on performance testing are producing calves that weigh at least 100 pounds more at weaning time than calves from the bottom 15 per cent. Why not put your herd on beef performance testing and find out. Contact my office for additional information, if you are interested in becoming a cooperator.

Have you stopped at any of our roadside stands to purchase fresh vegetables? If not, you should do so, because most of the stands have an ample supply of fresh vegetables, which have been produced and harvested within a minimum of time.

The quality of most of the vegetables is excellent. Most of the vegetables are on the bargain counter. You will find that vegetables will not only give you a variety in diet, but also will be easy on the budget. We have many of these roadside stands throughout the county. Why not stop and patronize some of them.

Store Vegetables For Winter Use

Many tasty vegetables growing in Illinois home gardens this summer can be stored and used as a special treat next winter, suggests Joe Vandemark, University of Illinois vegetable crops specialist.

Here are several vegetables that store well: beets, carrots, cabbage, onions, pumpkins, squash, sweet potatoes and turnips.

SINCE STORAGE does not improve quality, store vegetables that are in good condition and have good eating quality. Make sure they are mature but not over-ripe, and free from disease and injuries.

Vandemark says that keeping vegetables as close to 32 degrees F. as possible is the key to successfully storing most vegetables. Humidity is also important. Keep it at the highest level possible before condensation occurs on the vegetables. There are, however, some notable exceptions to these two rules:

Keep Irish potatoes at 40 to 50 degrees F., green tomatoes at 65 to 70 degrees, ripe tomatoes at 50 degrees and cucumbers and eggplant at 45 to 50 degrees. All require a high humidity.

THE FOLLOWING vegetables require a low relative humidity and higher temperatures: sweet potatoes, 55 to 60 degrees; squash or pumpkin, 50 to 55 degrees; and onions, 32 degrees.

Vandemark adds that basements, garages and attics make good storage places. Many home owners also use outdoor pits, sunken barrels and similar facilities. They find these places are superior for vegetables requiring a higher humidity with lower temperature.

Illinois Farm Outlook

Soybean Production Jumps, Support Up

By L. H. SIMERL

There are two outstanding features in the soybean outlook this year. The first is the big jump in production. The second is the big boost in the price-support level.

This combination will have two results: (1) income from soybeans will go up sharply, and (2) there will be a substantial carryover of old beans a year from now.

PRODUCTION of soybeans was estimated in August at 683 million bushels. This is 103 million more than the previous record crop harvested three years ago and 124 million more than was produced last year. The increase is the largest on record, but not by a big margin. The 1958 crop was 96 million bushels larger than the previous one.

The price-support level for the 1960 crop was $1.85 a bushel, but the average price received by farmers has been about $2.21. This is only 9 cents below the $2.30 support level for the 1961 crop.

Where farmers received about $1,125 million for their 1960 crop of soybeans, they may get about $1,450 million for this year's crop. But the increase in receipts from soybeans will be offset in part by reductions in sales of other crops.

DOMESTIC USE (crushings) of soybeans has held around 400 million bushels annually for the past three marketing years. But in the five years before that, crushings increased about 40 million bushels a year. They should increase a similar amount in the year ahead. Farmers can use more soybean meal.

They are expected to be feeding more broilers, more hens, more hogs and more beef cattle. Numbers of dairy cows will be down a little, but this decrease will probably be offset by the feeding of more protein concentrate to each cow.

The supply of cottonseed meal will be no larger than it was last year, while the supply of linseed meal will be considerably smaller. Supplies of tankage and other protein feeds of animal origin may be up a bit.

DISPOSING OF soybean oil will be more of a problem. But Uncle Sam will continue to push special export programs for soybean oil and could put some of it away for a while under his big hat, along with his cotton, wheat, corn and sorghum grain.

Exports of soybeans have held at around 140 million bushels a year for two years. But before that they increased an average of 20 million bushels a year for five years. Soybean exports are not subsidized in any way. They meet real needs in Europe and Japan. It seems reasonable to expect them to increase by a normal amount in the marketing year ahead.

About 45 million bushels of soybeans may be used for seed.

ALL TOGETHER, crushings, exports and seed may take around 645 million bushels, leaving 45 million or so for carryover a year hence. The USDA is willing to pay $2.30 for these beans if the farmer will store them until next summer.

If market prices are held too high during the year, domestic use and exports will be less than we have indicated, and the carryover will be more. Market prices seem likely to dip below the support level for a substantial part of the year unless new price-lifting forces appear.

College Training Helps Cut Surplus

In this age of farm surpluses, a college education can help dissolve at least one surplus—farm youth who will not be able to farm.

C. D. Smith, assistant dean of the University of Illinois College of Agriculture, reminds farm youngsters that the per cent of high school graduates earning college degrees doubles every 18 years.

THOSE WITHOUT a college education face stiff competition for jobs. Too, many jobs are open only to college graduates. Usually these jobs offer the best salaries, and more prestige.

Smith cites a National Science Foundation report which says, "Scientific talent is a scarce resource which the U.S. must fully develop to assure its future well being."

Scientific talent is especially needed in agriculture. Nearly every field of basic science can provide a satisfying career in agriculture. Biological, physical, social, livestock and crops scientists are needed to advance agricultural knowledge for the benefit of farmers, businessmen and consumers.

EVEN TODAY agriculture and its related industries need nearly twice as many college graduates each year as are graduating from colleges of agriculture throughout the country.

Farm youth interested in nonfarming agricultural careers can write to Smith for more information. His address is 104 Mumford Hall, U. of I., Urbana.

Russell Rydin Takes Barrington Hills Bride

White satin bows with fresh white flowers decorated the pews of St. Mark Episcopal church in Barrington Hills August 19 for a double ring ceremony in which Miss Patricia Ann Roxworthy, daughter of Thomas J. Roxworthy Sr. of Barrington Hills, and Russell E. Rydin, son of the Eric R. Rydins, 1028 Dairy lane, Inverness, were married by Rev. Thomas C. Phillips.

The church altar was decorated with two bouquets of white double stock and glads. Soloist, Erma Bartling, sang "O Perfect Love" and "May the Grace of Christ Our Savior," for the 1:30 o'clock service. Organist was Mrs. Douglas Gomm.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white silk organza, fashioned with teardrop neckline, elbow-length sleeves and a fitted length sleeves and a fitted basque bodice. The bodice was re-embroidered with taffeta in a rose and vine motif which was also used on the bouffant skirt of organza and the chapel train. A tiny pearl crown held her waist-length illusion veil.

White phalaenopsis with white stephanotis on a prayer book made up her bridal bouquet.

ONLY ATTENDANT to the bride was her sister-in-law, Mrs. James Roxworthy of Barrington, who wore a short ballerina dress of shell pink nylon sheer over taffeta. She also wore a large matching picture hat and matching shoes and carried a white garden basket of deep pink roses and ivy.

Mrs. Rydin chose a mauve pink chantilly lace and chiffon dress with matching accessories. Her corsage was a glamellia fastened to her hat of shaded satin roses.

Roger Peterson of Chicago was best man to the groom and ushers were Donald Roxworthy, brother of the bride, and John Whitehead of Skokie.

FOLLOWING THE service, a reception for 150 guests was held at Shady Lane Farm in Marengo.

Mr. Rydin and his bride honeymooned for two weeks in Canada and since September 1 have been at home at 6823 W. Raven, Chicago.

The new Mrs. Rydin was graduated from Barrington Consolidated high school and Mr. Rydin from Niles Township high school. He also attended Bradley university for two years and is now a draftsman with his father's firm, Apex Die and Tool Works. (S

Linda Bullock Weds U of I Sweetheart

Six attendants preceded the former Linda Ann Bullock down the aisle of the First Methodist church, Arlington Heights, as she became the August 19 bride of John C. Davis of Pinkneyville. The couple have both graduated from the University of Illinois and are living in Evanston following their honeymoon.

The bride's attendants were all gowned alike in powder blue silk linen dresses with matching accessories. Their bouquets were of royal blue cornflowers.

Maid of honor was Susan Harris of Wilmette. Bridesmaids were Deanna Davis, the bridegroom's sister; Lynn Schroeder and Joan Ekdahl, both cousins of the bride and both living in Evanston; Sue Jordan of Western Springs and Barbara Ann Rasmussen of Arlington Heights. Miss Davis was also soloist for the wedding ceremony.

THE NEW Mrs. Davis is the daughter of the Thomas J. Bullocks, 209 S. Wilshire lane, Arlington Heights. Her mother was attired in wedgewood blue peau de soie trimmed with brussels lace, had matching accessories and a pink camellia corsage for the wedding and reception festivities.

The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Davis of Pinkneyville. For the nuptials Mrs. Davis chose a dusty pink silk shantung sheath dress with matching accessories and had a pink camellia corsage.

COMING DOWN the church aisle for the 8 o'clock wedding, the bride was gowned in white silk organza with bodice and sleeves of alencon lace. The lace continued into the full circular floor length skirt in a scalloped pattern, and at the back a taffeta rose accented the waistline. A short 3-tiered veil was held in place by a lace cap topped with a large cabbage rose. The bride's bouquet was of white rosebuds.

Dr. Hughes B. Morris united the couple at the altar of the church in double ring rites performed by candlelight.

Best man was Warren Talley of Rockford and ushers were William McKinstry of St. Louis, John Wessel of Rockford, John Thompson of Detroit, Dale Luke of Baltimore and Ronald Schroeder of Newark.

A reception for 150 guests was held at O'Hare Inn following the ceremony. The couple then left for a week's honeymoon at Lake Lawn lodge.

Get Child's Attention Before Making Requests

It's important to get your child's attention before making requests.

D. W. Rapp, University of Illinois child development specialist, says a pre-school child's power of concentration is longer than you might think. That can be in your favor as long as you and he work together. If, however, he is thinking about something else, he may honestly miss your directions.

To motivate desirable behavior in pre-school children, Rapp lists these other guides:

USE LANGUAGE the child can understand. And enunciate slowly and clearly enough for him to follow you. Remember, children under five years are still learning to distinguish words.

Do not give too many instructions at once. In general, a 5-year-old child can carry out three simple directions from one telling, but only if you repeat them at least once while he is paying attention.

Ask your child to do only the things you consider really important and expect him to do. Be consistent in your demands and expectations. Children thrive on fair treatment.

IF YOU'RE ANGRY, it's a good idea to count 10, perhaps even 20, before you allot punishment.

Do not use threats or bribes as a means of gaining obedience.

Do not make misbehavior interesting by making it exciting or profitable.

Remember, too, children are good copiers; they learn good behavior more naturally if they have a good model.

Praise what is good. Look for it, it's there! Children learn faster when they are praised for right behavior than when they are allowed to do something wrong and then are punished for it.

Expect good behavior. Be positive, not a pessimist.

Be honest with your child on his level. (S

Newlyweds Live in Peoria After August 12th Wedding

Four attendants in mint green taffeta preceded Miss Martha Jo Gatts down the aisle of St. James Catholic church, Arlington Heights, for her marriage August 12 to Gregory Walter Rose. The main altar of the church was decorated with two bouquets of white glads and white mums, while smaller bouquets of the same flowers were on each of the side altars.

Both young people were graduated from Arlington high school and the bride has also been graduated from Evanston hospital school of nursing. The newlyweds are now living in Peoria where the bride is employed at Proctor Community hospital and Mr. Rose is a senior at Bradley university, affiliated with Sigma Chi fraternity.

The bride chose a gown of white bouquet taffeta fashioned with fitted bodice, sweetheart neckline, short capped sleeves and a bell skirt that swept into a long train. Her tiered ballerina veil of silk illusion cascaded from a crown of seed pearls and she carried white roses with a white orchid and ivy. She was given in marriage by her father.

MISS DIANE Dailey of Mt. Prospect was maid of honor and the Misses Celia Close and Janet Rose of Arlington Heights and Peggy Kirk of Decatur, were bridesmaids. Their gowns were made with square necklines and full skirts with cummerbunds of flower embroidery in tones of green. The bride's mother was in an almond green silk linen tunic dress with beige accessories and a corsage of beige cymbidiums. Mrs. Rose chose a candlelight peau de soie sheath with overskirt, matching accessories and a corsage of white cymbidiums.

Albert Rose of Arlington Heights was his brother's best man and ushers were James Sachtschale, Thomas Rose, Ronald Herff, Daniel Greco, Robert Barber, William West and Peter Dunderdale.

Mark 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. August Schulenburg, 112 S. Evergreen, Arlington Heights, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary August 26 with immediate family members and a few lifelong friends. They hosted at a dinner party for 34 in Dick's Corral and enjoyed a laugh-filled program of reminiscence after dinner.

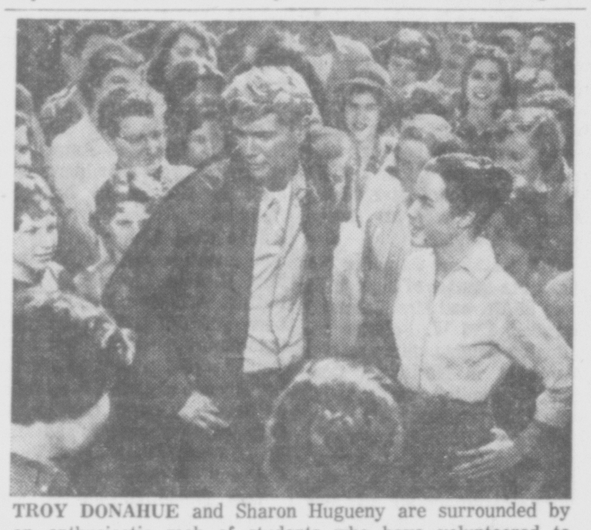
Their son, M. J. Schulenburg, here with his family from Appleton, Wis., acted as toastmaster. In the later evening hours the party was continued in the senior Schulenburgs' home.

OTHER GUESTS included the anniversary couple's daughters and sons-in-law, the Frank Leths and Alvin Kahlings, all of Arlington Heights; their eight grandchildren, Eric, John and Mary Schulenburg, Nan and Mark Kahling, Stephanie Leth and Stephanie's married sisters, Mrs. Ted Lisec and Mrs. David Gallimore.

Four great-grandchildren completed the family circle. They are Christine and Shelly Lisec, here with their parents from Indianapolis, and Elizabeth and David Gallimore who were here from Mundelein with their parents.

MR. AND MRS. Kahling entertained immediate family members the evening before the anniversary to honor the celebrants-to-be. An outdoor supper party in the back yard at 810 S. State was the just-right introduction to the next evening's festivities.

Mr. and Mrs. Schulenburg were married in Mt. Prospect, moved immediately to Arlington Heights and have made their home in Arlington ever since. (S



TROY DONAHUE and Sharon Hugueny are surrounded by an enthusiastic mob of students who have volunteered to work in his tobacco fields when he makes a determined bid to break her father's monopoly in this climactic scene from Warner Bros.' Technicolor production of "Parrish," opening Sept. 8 at the Prospect Theatre.

BARBARA EDEN and Robert Sterling star in the new science-fiction fantasy "Voyage To The Bottom Of The Sea," filmed in CinemaScope and color, opening Friday at the Des Plaines Theatre.

'David and Goliath' at Cascade

The story of David and the giant Goliath has long been a favorite subject of the filmmakers, but the newest treatment of the story "David and Goliath," starring Orson Welles, is the first to be filmed in color on the actual location in Israel.

However, Israel today, obviously is a far cry from the land of 3,000 years ago when the protagonists of the classical Biblical story met on the field of battle.

Today, Israel's backgrounds feature white stucco homes located on the historical site. And, in the background one can see modern day airfields, jet airplanes, restaurants and thoroughfares which Nostradamus never envisioned.

Accordingly, it was necessary to build whole new cities and sets and backgrounds close to the original scene of action. The magic touch of the property men and set men created the old Jerusalem close to the new, and it is here that the action of the film takes place.

"David and Goliath" will have its first showing in this area starting Friday, Sept. 8, at the Cascade Outdoor Theatre, on North ave., one mile east of Route 59, where it is double featured with "Voyage To The Bottom Of The Sea,"

Festival Closes

Dear Peg:

Our town just closed its second annual Fine Arts Festival with an even more successful two days than last year. This year the exhibits included more than the visual arts. Folks dancing and international folk singing, a barber shop quartet, a jazz quartet and performances by several drama groups added variety. Esther and I were most anxious to see the work of the painters and sculptors whose exhibits filled the main street of town in rows of crowded booths.

Besides local artists and students, many artists from the Chicago area were invited to show. Among these were such familiar names as Victor Ing, one of my favorites, a master water colorist whose work is distinguished by its fine lines and delicate shadings; Carl Schwartz with his canvases filled with bold streaks and swirls of vibrant color; Victor Perlmutter and Sidney Rafilson, story-telling artists of tremendous appeal — all adding greatly to the interest of the show.

Also outstanding were the bold beautiful portraits of Scali — a portrait painter whose studio is in Deerfield and the whimsical poses of the happy children painted by Christl. A young painter with remarkable talent and unusual sensitivity is the water colorist Irving Shapiro. With a simple subject and design and bright, crisp color the canvas becomes alive.

I have seen several outside shows of this kind within the past year and, although I believe that they bring a great deal of fine art to the attention of the public (benefiting both painter and public), they are not without fault. I realized this more than ever after finishing our festival exhibit. The heat didn't help any but more important than that, it was too crowded together and there was too much to see to make viewing a pleasant experience. The senses become dull with too much of anything and this is never more true than when one is exposed to hundreds of pieces of art at one time.

We felt when we had finished the show that much of the art, with great merit, was lost simply because there was too much to see to be able to spend any time studying an artist's work. A few things stood out in our minds, but in most cases they were paintings by artists whose work we had seen many times before. We would have enjoyed it much more and would have gained a little more insight if we had been able to view about half the number of paintings on display.

My love,
Patty

'Arty' Party Held In Hoffman Estates

By LUCILE ERNST

Hope you get a chance to attend the lecture and demonstration presented by the Countryside Art Center Thursday evening. Mr. Edward Olmstead will explain the mechanics of a new stencil film for silk screen printing. The way he discovered his new process is quite interesting.

Mr. Olmstead has been doing architectural illustrations for a number of years and was dissatisfied with the usual methods. After working for three or four years, he developed the new film and etching process which he will demonstrate.

THE STENCIL film is of a fine grade of plastic backed lacquer which has been coated with a resin. It is only necessary to write or draw on the film with a ball point pen or needle and then etch out the exposed lacquer with a special etching mix. It is then printed on any silk frame in the conventional manner.

This stencil allows a great flexibility of color and effects not possible with other processes. It offers challenging new opportunities for new forms of expression to the artist.

Mr. Olmstead presents his discovery at Pioneer Park in Arlington Heights at 8 p.m. on September 7.

DID YOU READ about Sam Schwartz's party which was held in Chicago? Mr. Schwartz is an art dealer who invited all of his artist friends to a paint it yourself party. He provided each of his guests with a blank canvas and a merry time was had by all, slapping paint hither and yon.

If this makes suburban parties sound dull, you must meet Lynn Melcher. As a matter of fact, I feel sorry for people who don't know Lynn Melcher.

Lynn is editor of the Elk Grove edition of Paddock Publications. She is also an art lover, that rare kind of art lover who doesn't just talk about paintings, she actually buys them.

COMBINE THIS endearing quality with the ability to concoct a party which made Sam Schwartz's get-together seem reserved and you will see why I say I feel you are missing something by not going out of your way to meet such a paragon of creativity.

Lynn called and invited my husband and me to attend a collage party. It was to be held in her garage on Sunday afternoon. She was polite enough to invite us to join her at the Hoffman Estates dump where we could obtain some interesting material for our collage.

I couldn't attend the gathering at the junk yard, but it turned out to be a dissapointing visit. Lynn was quite certain, as she put it, someone had beaten her to it. She did find something which with a bit of paint and a small fortune might look like a seaman's chest and a small piece of corroded iron. Even junk yards aren't what they used to be.

IN ANY CASE we didn't have any interesting materials for our collages. That piece of iron was impossible. We did have paint though, oils and lovely metallic spray paint, so we painted. We all laughed good naturedly at each others paintings, everyone, that is, except the person doing the painting. They would stoutly maintain their painting was actually quite good.

When they all laughed good naturedly at my really effective abstraction, I just shot a little gold paint in their general direction and they didn't think it was so darn funny.

Lynn was infinitely richer when we left. She was the owner of our priceless paintings, even though she didn't seem too excited about it.

What with all the good natured laughter, I suppose it was a good thing we left when we did. She might have been the only homeowner in Hoffman Estates who could boast of a solid gold garage. (Bill

The Way We See It

Mental Problems Are Not Shed in Suburbs

The reason we fly from the city is not that it is not poetical; it is that its poetry is too fierce, too fascinating and too practical in its demands.

— G. K. Chesterton

There is a prevailing myth that accompanies this flight from the hard, concrete poetry of the city. It is the belief that a move to the suburbs solves personal as well as housing problems.

The change in environment, from the violent syntax the city imposes on its forms to the surface tranquillity of suburban living, is supposed to magically transform its inhabitants.

But mental problems are not shed as easily as surroundings. This fact is often conveniently overlooked or simply ignored by suburbanites.

A ready example is Northwest Family Service's waiting list of some 100 persons in need of counseling service. The social agency, which serves Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Palatine and Des Plaines, has been limping along on a limited budget since its inception, largely because the response to requests for financial assistance has been meager.

But a growing awareness on the part of police chiefs, school administrators and civic and industrial leaders of the lack of facilities for the treatment of emotional ills has led to formation of the Northwest Cooperative Mental Health association.

The association is attempting to form a mental health clinic to serve the seven participating communities of Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Wheeling, Elk Grove Village and Hoffman Estates.

A fund drive will be launched Sept. 10-16, national Mental Health Week, in which a goal of $2,000 a community is sought. Two-thirds of the clinic's budget would be provided by the state, matching the one-third raised locally.

With success, the association will seek state approval of the clinic in October in order to begin operations at the medical center on N. State rd. in Arlington Heights in December. Failure to reach the appointed total, however, will postpone state approval and appropriations until May 1962.

The clinic would be available to those of all ages who cannot afford private professional consultation, with services rendered to each community on the basis of the percentage it contributed to the total amount of money raised.

The clinic's services will be extended in some instances beyond village boundaries to areas defined by school districts.

Arlington, Elk Grove and Mount Prospect elementary school districts have jointly hired a psychologist, but his time will be taken primarily in administrating psychological tests. Palatine high school recently hired a psychiatrist on a consulting basis. The state's school psychological services office in Elgin is limited to making an average of one trip to area school districts a year, and its waiting list for students in need of assistance is lengthy.

Area schools, particularly, could make considerable use of a mental health clinic to which severely disturbed children could be referred.

The mental health association's financial goal might seem utopian in an area which often appears to refuse to acknowledge the presence of mental problems. But as an investment in the future health of the northwest suburbs, it will pay precious dividends.

For the poetry of the suburbs may be more measured and paced than the knife-edged meter of the city, but its language is changing. The population push taxes existing facilities and makes greater demands for non-existent ones. A need we can no longer ignore is a mental health clinic.

One Issue Is Involved in 'Truth in Lending' Bill

Two senators in Washington have taken a look at the same set of facts and, naturally enough, have drawn opposite conclusions from them.

The subject is consumer credit rates. The matter at issue is the bill introduced by Senator Paul Douglas of Illinois, called the "Truth in Lending" bill. This bill would require extenders of credit to disclose to customers the price of credit "in a standard and meaningful way," generally in terms of the simple annual interest rate being charged.

Senator Wallace F. Bennett of Utah has argued against the bill, and his arguments, together with those of Senator Douglas in favor of the legislation, have been presented without comment by the National Retail Credit association.

Senator Douglas says the bill is needed because the variety and complexity of credit plans are so great that a customer who is not an expert in mathematics cannot expect to know how much he is paying for credit.

Senator Bennett replies that the variety and complexity of credit plans are so great that a salesman who is not an expert in mathematics cannot expect to be able to tell the customer the annual simple interest rate.

He says the bill would be "incredibly difficult to comply with." Senator Douglas replies that he is willing to accept something easier to figure than the annual interest rate in the case of unorthodox credit plans.

Senator Bennett, who seems to be thoroughly convinced that "ignorance is bliss," makes another interesting point.

He says it actually costs from 12 to 18 per cent to provide retail credit, but that there is a "prevailing myth" that six per cent per year is the maximum reasonable rate.

He warns against exploding this myth, under penalty of forcing retailers to find ways of getting around the bill.

Senator Douglas says that to predict such deceitful practices is to insult reputable merchants.

The Utah senator has one more string for his bow. He says the subject is properly a matter for legislation by the states and not by the federal government.

Douglas retorts that ignorance of actual interest charges prevents buyers from making informed decisions, thus crippling the natural workings of a free market, which depends upon accurate information for buyers and sellers.

Thus, he claims, stability of the economy is affected, and that is a matter for federal concern.

It is around this question that the fate of the bill should be resolved, for the other arguments against it boil down to a defense of perpetuating confusion and ignorance, which help no one except the unethical minority.

Dream Along with Me

Period of Decision

Does Future Depend Upon the Voice of Neutral Nations?

(This is the second of a series of articles by Stuart R. Paddock, editor-in-chief of Paddock Publications, regarding the thinking of the State Department as presented to newsmen who attended a briefing held in Washington, D. C., August 14 and 15.)

by STUART R. PADDOCK

This installment of the recent briefing conference held in Washington by the Department of State is opportune this week because it reveals their thinking on many matters that the government will be facing in the present Belgrade conference which is being attended by the giants of neutralism.

Representatives of 25 countries will include such heads of state as Nehru, Nassar and Nkrumah. The conference is expected to adopt resolutions that will be presented to the United Nations. The United States will be facing some strong opposition.

We find it difficult to report to our readers many of the things that we were told without revealing the identity of the speaker (the only curb placed on newsmen at the briefing).

This installment is based on remarks made by a high official of the State Department. He was recently sent to the Far East to pinpoint the problems in capitals and countries in which the United States wishes to develop better relations.

He brought together for the first time, officials from south Asia and North Africa—from Morocco to Iran, Vietnam to Burma. He considered the bringing of these groups together a great step forward.

THE FIRST meeting in Africa of 150 officials included the "carefully briefed" wives of the State Department. The Assistant Secretary declared this was the best new idea in a long time.

He found that the movement to the left was increasing, but was not a communistic trend. The African representatives are vigorous, an average 30 years old, and "political pragmatists."

The second stop was Yugoslavia, where discussions were held and plans made for the Belgrade conference in September. He called Tito an extraordinary man, saying that "backing Tito a few years back was a courageous move, one of the best." Tito's break in 1949 was an act of defiance against Moscow authority and shows to new nations that Yugoslavia left the Soviet bloc and developed an industry comparative to the West, with police terror almost gone.

The Assistant Secretary's third stop was in Rangoon, Burma, and his fourth was in Delhi, India. Here, the Southeast Asian representatives came together. The ambassadors of these nations are non-career men but university-trained. The Berlin crisis, disarmament, and nuclear testing were all on the agenda. The secretary stressed that these topics were "all looked at through near Eastern eyes."

The administration feels that it must help stabilize Europe. Decisions involving the Far East that were formerly made in England and those for Southeast Asia that were formerly made in Amsterdam now must be made in Asia.

Continental strategy is no longer the key. All diplomacy must be integrated. By building with pressure a strong position in Europe, we may neglect strengths in other parts of the world, and this should be avoided.

"We may suffer setbacks in other parts of the world, but we are building greater strength in Europe. Africa has changed; the Congo has straightened out; the bright young people do not like Soviet systems and move out when they can. If we have the wisdom and the courage to explore our system, we shall come out all right. We must stand firm and we must have a global policy."

THE SPEAKER freely answered questions from the quick-thinking newsmen. Some of the answers given were:

"I do not think we should recognize Red China as it stands today or as long as it threatens attacks on Taiwan. We must not lose sight of the 650 million people or the ruthless imperialistic government as well as the long history back of China. That country lacks basic land for soil use—less than two acres of land for every family.

"We would not gain anything by the entrance of Red China into the UN."

As regards the coming Belgrade conference, the U.S. must be very careful not to oppose these nations getting together, whether we approve of their politics or not. "We have made mistakes in other first meetings concerning their efforts." We should not be indifferent, counseled the speaker, and he cautioned us to remember our own early confederate beginnings. "It is too early to know what will be done. The conference may not be constructive in relation to the Berlin crisis.

"THE MOST important problem in the Far East is bringing India and Pakistan together. We must try to keep sane, with no pressures involved.

"Berlin is not a poker game. It is too dangerous. It is a symbolic situation as well as representing two million people and 11,000 soldiers from three nations. The 11,000 soldiers are a symbol, and we must keep the right of freedom and right of access."

In the new countries there is a sense of purpose and participation for the young people. Songs, parades, etc., give a sense of security. He pointed out that East German and Hungarian children had been exposed to communist schools, libraries and subjected to Communist ideology. In spite of this indoctrination through the schools, 32,000 were killed because of their desire to be real Hungarians a few years ago.

The Russians have the advantage in that "any change" is in their favor, for as they move in they agree with any change. We use caution, perhaps too much.

It was suggested that if we ask students of the new countries to list their aspirations for their countries 10 years hence, and if we would do the same of our students, the expressed hopes would be similar. The speaker added that Soviet students would arrive at the same answers in listing hopes for their country.

"Our reluctance to start any change gives the Soviet the first chance. Change is not a bad word. Change is good and the world is in a bad way."

"Are we making any effort to dislodge Communists from the mainland of China?" brought this answer: "We wish they would settle down. We will be dealing with this for a long time; no well-operated police state has been overthrown in the last 25 years.

"A hungry China is more dangerous than if there was plenty of food. The exportation of Canadian wheat is a political effort. The Chinese food situation is very serious, but some Asian reports state it is being distributed quite well.

"We have our struggles—racial rights among them—but when we present ourselves as trying to improve ourselves, we have a much better acceptance."

WE ARE doing better but not enough. Other nations, however, do not think America is backward scientifically.

In answering the query, "Do our racial problems here undermine our situation in Africa?" the questioners were asked to remember the existence of the caste system in India and the African tribal situation. It will take time in all continents to change existing social conditions.

We are teetering on a great period of decision. The next year is most important. With skill, tolerance and patience, we are making friends with other nations. There is a danger of stressing the Berlin crisis and precariously minimizing the needs and problems of other nations.

Flowers of Evil Bloom

Seeds of Annihilation Spread by Wind of Hate

by DICK HOFFMANN

This is the season when the flowers of evil bloom and multiply. The seeds of annihilation spread, moved by the winds of hate, distrust and some fatal flaw in the species.

Now the harvest awaits the hand. The scythe is poised; we know it is the grim reaper in that arrestment between tension and delivery.

Russia — that name that now becomes the curse of mankind — resumes its testing to find the ingredients to turn this planet we inhabit into a meteor—a brief hyphen in the skies.

A recent newspaper article told of how sensitive instruments have just recorded the death of a star the size of our sun which was wrenched from its axis by a series of violent explosions. Yet the news of its death, transmitted at the speed of light, did not reach here until hundreds of thousands of years or so after the fact.

The demise of a minor planet existing in a solar system that is a fraction of an island universe among millions would not do much to disturb the tranquillity of space. Judgment Day might not even be recorded if and where other life exists.

THIS IS little consolation, however, for a world where the explosive equivalent of 10 tons of TNT exists for each of its three billion inhabitants.

Appeals to reason seem lost. The savage statistics are ignored by a race apparently bent on fratricide. Or they are comforted by the belief that "it will never happen to me. It will happen to someone else." Here are some interesting facts compiled in the book, "The Community of Fear," and reprinted in a recent article in "The New Republic":

"A surface burst of a 10-megaton bomb would produce a crater about 250 feet deep and a half mile wide. The zone of complete demolition would be about three miles in diameter. Severe blast damage would extend to about nine miles from the center of the explosion, and moderate to major damage would extend out to 12 miles, or over an area of 450 square miles. It is likely that firestorms will result from a thermonuclear burst over a large city. A firestorm is a huge fire in which cooler air is drawn to the center of the burning area, elevating the temperature and perpetuating the conflagration. Winds reach hurricane velocities. The holocaust consumes the available oxygen in the air with the result that persons not burned to death may die of suffocation or of carbon monoxide poisoning."

This is only a 10-megaton bomb, a firecracker compared to the bombs the Soviets now hope to test. Their nuclear blackmail, probably a result of their Berlin adventure, was put in wise perspective by President Kennedy, who said that we already have enough bombs to blow up the works.

That the pressures on the President to resume testing will become accelerated is obvious. It is to be hoped that in the interim world opinion will force Russia to repudiate the outrage. This country can do much to organize this opinion, primarily in the United Nations. But perhaps it is also time to give the world court more litigation to consider than the dispensation of fishing rights. We could start by submitting the Berlin question. As a country which holds the rule of law in such esteem, we should be among the first nations to attempt to end the anarchy of international relations and substitute the growth of a body of precedent in international law.

I ARGUE only for sanity and for life. I have no sympathies for the solemn Caesars who would make life ordered, predictable, pyramided and grim. I have seen their work in Berlin, and I know that they would reduce man to a law of physics, a conditioned response. They are the Grand Inquisitors of whom Dostoyevsky wrote; they are the despisers of life.

But we must not embrace hysteria and rush to adopt the tactic of the enemies of life. We must have patience with democracy. We must not apply the methods of these pale morticians.

Taste life, hug your babies, embrace your lover, rejoice in the fragrance of rain, experience the visual delight of sundown, the promise of sunrise: "Let not these soul-houses built of mud go toppling to dust a vacant shrine."

I AM REMINDED of Thomas Wolfe's description of night in a great city when the realization reached him that he would not strangle like a mad dog at the tunnel's mouth. Mankind has no such assurances.

The sound of thunder is not so distant anymore; the final hour approaches. The species is in danger. The world's people must protest this fate by whatever means at their disposal. They must become creative and find new ways to treat old maladies. They must break out of the prison of platitudes whose inadequacies threaten existence.

Visions of Great World

Responsibilities in A Democracy Defined

by MARTIN E. MARTY

In these dark days we welcome any signs of optimism or hope if they are tempered with realism. One such sign is a new book by Professor Edmond Cahn, a philosopher of justice at New York University, The Predicament of Democratic Man (Macmillan, $3.95).

Those who shy away from discussions of law or politics because of their technicality should be attracted to Professor Cahn's clear, case-filled, concrete writing.

Illustrating all his chief points by reference to specific incidents, large chunks of the book are as interesting as this morning's newspaper. Before we describe the predicament of democratic man, let's look at Cahn's last paragraph:

"THE CONDITION of democratic man is something new and young on the face of the earth, and his work of political creation is only beginning. In all the sad stages of human history, his is the first that, by grace of intelligence, can actually will the elements of a just society into practical existence. Now that he has commenced to discover his capacities and flex his desires, the work is visibly accumulating power and momentum. I see a world where no nation is accounted strong except in justice, rich except in compassion, or secure except in freedom and peace."

If Mr. K. and his fellow blackmailers give us time to work this out, this could be a vision of a great world. But Cahn does not talk about a millennium, about Utopias. He talks about people who carve a little chunk of Utopia and work it out practically and realistically here and now. This is where he sees American democracy to be located.

But a problem, a predicament is involved. The state or nation, representing many and conflicting wills, will often be involved in morally complicated acts. Can "democratic man" live in such a society and not himself become contaminated? When an elected official commits an injustice, could I have done something about it?

CAHN DOES NOT let us "off the hook" very easily as individuals. We cannot so easily complain about "the politicians" after we have read "Self-searches" about ourselves. Let's look at them, briefly: When something goes wrong:

1) Did I incite the official to commit a wrong? (I may do this as a merchant, a banker, a journalist, a church member, a member of a 'Patriotic' association, by the way.) The mob that hollers 'lynch' is as guilty as a lyncher. The lobby that lobbies for unjust measures is as guilty as the corrupt politician who is purchased.

2) Did I authorize the wrong? The Germans who bought Mein Kampf knew all about the gas chambers before they were built. When they inclined toward Hitler they were authorizing him to carry out what he had promised he would.

3) Was I reckless in helping to install a conspicuously dangerous public instrument? (Same illustration as on Point 2).

4) DID I REMAIN silent or passive when I might have prevented a wrong about to be perpetrated?

5) Did I ratify the act of wrong or knowingly accept its fruits? (For example, American Communists who "shamelessly ratified innumerable atrocities committed under the regime of Josef Stalin.")

6) Did I suppress the truth when it came to my notice and thus become an accessory after the fact?

7) Before the wrong was committed, had I contributed to the vulnerability of the victim?

Summary: a very good portrayal of moral responsibility in democracy and in American life; a book that makes it hard for us to blame "the other guy" when things go wrong.

Warns Against Kennel Buyers

Sometime ago my wife put an ad in the paper to sell our puppies. She received a call about them before the paper was barely out. The party came and took all three, so they wouldn't get lonesome, the party said. Naturally my wife was pleased to find a home for them so fast, especially as they would be together. So she thought.

Quite b yaccident I found she had sold them to a kennel. Now I have nothing against kennels in general. Before we got our mongrel, we visited many of them in this area, and found them to be clean and well kept up, and proud to show us what they had. Besides, these kennels have no need to stoop so low. I am talking about the few who don't care about their place or animals, just about the money they make from them. And one of these, I'm sorry to say, got our pups. There is nothing I can do about ours, but maybe this letter will insure some others from the same fate.

1. Be leary of anyone calling unusually early.

2. Be careful if they want more than one pup, whatever the reasons.

3. Anyone of any age group coming alone, but usually an older person.

4. Mention in the ad that you will not sell to a kennel. But don't rely on this alone.

If you sell your pups, for whatever amount, they are more likely to come around than if you don't. The best way is to sell or give onl yone to a family, and make sure that they bring children along. This last is the best guarantee of all.

Everyone Should be Reached On Reapportionment: Graham

I read with a great amount of interest a recent article in an area daily newspaper entitled, "The Democrats Just Call Daley." Contained therein was a good analysis of the current problem of Congressional re-apportionment as it now stands, and an intelligent description of the inner-working procedures of the two political parties involved.

It is most significant in my opinion that what many members of the General Assembly know to be a fact has been put in print. That is, if the Mayor of the city of Chicago does not have complete control of one half of our two-party system in this state, he is a long way in front of any potential contender.

As a result of this interesting disclosure, it would seem to me that the people of the State of Illinois should be ever grateful for the fact that the leadership of the Republican Party will undoubtedly fall heir to the largest phone bill before this knotty problem is solved. (The bill will be incurred in contacting all Republican leaders on re-apportionment, rather than one man).

THE VERY truthful fact that interested people in all sections of Illinois are being contacted, should indicate clearly that an all-out effort is being made to reach a fair decision, one which will not reek with the offensive odor which accompanies a one-man rule proposition.

Equitable re-apportionment can, and should be accompanied by the use of the measuring stick of sincerity, governed by the yard rule of understanding, and engineered by individuals who have foremost in their minds the inherent rights of their fellow men.

If more expense and personal sacrifice should be our lot in the effort to accomplish the task ahead—and at the same time indicate to the more than 10 million residents of this state that all of the best decisions can not possibly come from one man—than so will it be.

Is There Group to Aid Negro Family?

The alertness and eagerness of the group interested in aiding a Peruvian family to live in the United States is to be encouraged and commended. Certainly, the international implications of our lives are becoming more and more apparent. Such a plan would do much to promote mutual understanding among peoples as well as political communities.

I wonder, however, if there is any alert and eager group to assist a Negro family to come to Arlington Heights. We estimate that there are 35,000 Negro families in the Chicago area ready and able to finance their own homes. They find the vast majority of the suburbs closed to them. Certainly, these six generation Americans deserve a welcome to all areas of the United States.

Reference is here made to the Negro doctor, lawyer, chemist, etc. who would like to live in the suburbs for the same reasons that suburbanites live in Arlington Heights.

This is an interesting idea and a challenging one. It would seem that the opening of the suburban areas to Negro home purchasers, American citizens, should inspire great enthusiasm among forward-looking suburbanites. What is the reaction to this idea.

Editor Favors The Minority?

As a citizen of Palatine and vitally interested in its municipal government, I have read with a great deal of interest the articles written by John Reddy about the new village administration. As of this date, I cannot recall any article that has been favorable to the majority party from the April election.

The tone, the over-all theme, the inferences and the style of writing has consistently favored the so-called minority group, the Palatine Economy Party. From your articles, it appears that he is a staunch supporter of that group. If this is not so, then they must be writing his articles or providing him with all the information. If the latter situation is true, then he certainly has not been checking out the facts with the village board, the police magistrate, or the village attorney.

His articles have editorialized to the point where they should be printed on the editorial page rather than in the news section. They have misquoted, they regularly include mis-statements of facts and they generally leave an anti-administration feeling with the reader. This certainly cannot be called good journalism.

IF HE WANTS to help the village of Palatine, why not support the village. Why can't he present a constructive picture rather than a destructive one? Present the facts, but include all of the facts, not just those that are provided by a member of the defeated Palatine Economy Party.

Many people in Palatine depend on the Enterprise for their local news and information. It has a great responsibility in providing these people with unbiased information.

I hope that he will begin to write his articles so that they will help the village instead of continually casting a bad light on the village board, the police magistrate and other village officials.

Protests Sunday Closing Law in Letter to Kerner

I am enclosing a copy of a letter to Governor Kerner. In it I have stated my opposition to the law prohibiting the sale of automobiles on Sunday.

I have no personal relationship to the automobile business, but as an American and a citizen I must voice my protest to this type of legislation.

I FURTHER believe that every individual who, in fact, loves his country and that for which it stands will, upon examining the implications of this law, join in the protest.

No man, whether he be the Governor of Illinois or the Premier of Russia, has the right to interfere with our heritage of self expression.

Following is the letter:

Sir:

As an executive member of a competitive American business corporation it has been my privilege to travel these vast United States. In that traveling I have come to realize, above all else, the enormous variation in our continental country.

With that realization has come a deep appreciation of those who endowed us with a political system tailored to this variation and designed to prevent undue monopolization of power by any single or group of individuals.

Our Founding Fathers were never privileged to fly over even the relatively meager territories of the thirteen original states. But their vision was obvious when they said, "We hold these truths to be self evident. That all men are endowed with certain inalienable rights. Among these, life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

TO REPHRASE IT — it is the natural right of every individual to manifest his desire in his own particular way, allowing that same right for all others, thus providing a betterment for all.

Further, it is the right of every individual to work to the limit of his ability to produce to the limit of his capacity, and to enjoy the just rewards of his labors.

Its economic counterpart is competitive enterprise and on this freedom the outstanding prosperity of America was built.

Unfortunately the very success of this sytem has worked to its detriment. The material response to our heritage of individual effort has been so well, that many have come to look upon prosperity as a right when actually the emphasis should be to the contrary.

As an United States citizen, proud of my heritage and willing to fight for the rights of my children I raise my voice in protest to the passage of law discontinuing the sale of automobiles on Sunday. It is my birthright to buy when I please. It is the birthright of my fellow citizens to conduct business when they please. I refuse to believe that a proud American wold allow a prostitution of those rights for the reasons set forth.

I therefore urge you, a public servant sworn to uphold the dignity of the people of this state, to further examine this law and its implications and to take the steps necessary to bring about its repeal. You as holder of the highest office of this state have no other choice.

Sincerely,
James E. Reda

You're Broke? So Is Reader

"Hats off to the ladies of Elk Grove." More power to them, if they can only organize and hold fast and not stop at milk prices only. I read the milkman's wife complained he is out at four in the morning, etc. What's the difference what time he goes to work, he is bringing in that good old pay check. But she did not mention anything of the fringe benefits or pensions.

The milkman's wife did not mention how many qquarts of milk he delivers. Let's say he delivers 600 quarts of milk a day. They raise it at a penny a quart; that's $6. Let's say he got a 10 cent an hour raise which would be 80-cents a day for him, which is not bad. Then let's say the inside workers in the dairy got 10 cents an hour raise which is 80 cents a day. That makes it $1.60 a day out of the $6. Who is getting the $4.40?

The milkman's wife should get a pencil and paper and do some figuring. The milkman's wife shouldn't worry about his working hours. There are thousands of people working different hours. They don't cry about it. Look at the policeman, the firemen, and even my boss works 9-10 hours a day and gets up in the middle of the night to see me. I don't think the milkman's wife is so bad off.

NOW, LET'S GET back to the Elk Grove women with gumption who are trying to protect the old man's pocket book. I hope they don't just stop at milk prices. I hope they look into our high property taxes that are paid mostly for parasites. Our taxes from 1952 to 1960 were raised $185 and for what? Everything is still the same as it was in 1952 with the exception of schools, which I don't mind paying for. We still get floods. About a dozen county highway boys with their hands in their pockets come out and talk about what should have been done and then leave it at that.

But where are Mr. Duffy, Mr. Ward, Mr. Stavros? Where is the man from the state waterways division in regard to streams and creeks? None of these will do anything. But let a new subdivision go up or a gas station; then you see them get around.

Iam speaking of the State and Hintz road area. I doubt that the state or county knows where this area is. Since 1952 they have been called to this area, but what has been done? Nothing! Taxes still go up, and for what? Nothing! I think that taxpayers should boycott the property tax collector's office and the assessor's office until they can show something being done. They only look at what improvements you have made, then tax you for it, while they should reduce your tax when you make an improvement.

IN OTHER words, here's the way it works. Let your property run down, then down go your taxes. Improve your property and up go your taxes. It should be the opposite.

The milkman's wife is yakking about her husband. Why doesn't she look into the tax collector's salary, and what does he do? I'll tell you what he does! He gets your dough and you do nothing about it, and he is sitting in comfort. I know. I was at his home. And he will tell you he can't do anything about your high tax bill.

And one more thing to the ladies of Elk Grove. Remind the women of the phoney ads in the paper. A sale will be on but when you get to the store they have just run out. But the women will still buy in the same store. And another thing I noticed, women will get a wagon full of groceries up to the cashier and let the cashier check it all out. This is a big mistake people are making. So many times I have seen the cashier wrong and I'm right there to call them on it. Most women never watch what the cashier is ringing up. I'm not saying the cashier is crooked. I'm saying the buyer is sleeping and not alert. After all, a penny here and a penny there is the same as in taxes. Ten cents here, five cents there. Where has the buck gone?

You're broke—Me too.

Press Team Views 'Operation Inferno'

Paddock's Man In California

by WARREN ROGERS

(Warren Rogers, special correspondent for Paddock Publications, along with 17 other professional journalists from the Midwest, flew to Twentynine Palms, Calif., last week to witness Marine reserve units in "Operation Inferno." Here is his report.)

It was only twelve hours after departure from Glenview Naval Airbase that we set down in the middle of the scorching California desert, home of the Twentynine Palms Marine training base, world's largest Marine Corps base.

I was a member of the special press team invited to attend "Operation Inferno" by Brig. General Louis B. Bradshaw, Commander of Marine air reserve training, Glenview.

Operation Inferno was the climax of two weeks of active service by better than 2700 officers and enlisted men of the Marine reserve, directed by Col. Douglas Peacher, Evanston.

The afternoon and evening were spent on the Mojave desert viewing Operation Inferno. This name was indeed appropriate as the temperature was 102 degrees in the shade—what little could be found.

MARINE HELICOPTERS carried us into the simulated battle area after we had been equipped with pith helmets and canteens. From various vantage points we could view the action.

Resistance to the air-to-ground Marine reservists was provided by two ground, and two air aggressor units. Although these four aggressor units were outnumbered by three-to-one, they managed to delay and harass the "friendlies" at every turn.

A SIMULATED atomic explosion was the high point of our observation of the battle activities. Throughout the exercises, we ate "C" rations, which were palatable, but not as good as the food in the officers' mess on the base.

Our experiences at Twentynine Palms pointed out the vast differences in techniques and equipment for modern combat versus those of World War II. We saw, however, that a ground force was still an integral part of the defense system.

Later in the week we took a short hop to El Toro, Calif., airbase for the Marine Corps. Here we witnessed demonstrations of the latest equipment and methods for fighting aircraft fires.

THE USE of helicopter rescue to get injured pilots to medical care was a case in point. We were also able to see a demonstration of short field take-offs and landings using Jato-assist and arresting equipment similar to that used on aircraft carriers illustrating how the marines can use high-performance aircraft which normally need five to eight thousand foot runways on strips only 2,000 feet long.

Although it is everyone's hope that it will never again be necessary to go to war, it was reassuring to see actual evidence of Marine reserve readiness should hostilities ever break out. (A14

THE JOURNALIST to the left in this picture looks like he's "had it" after an intensive week of observing the Marine reserves in action in southern California. Our man Warren Rogers was among the 17 man press team looking over Marine "Operation Inferno."

A MARINE RESERVIST is seen above testing a high altitude full pressure suit. The pilot carries his own portable air conditioning unit with him. This was a part of a demonstration for 17 Midwest newsmen, including our own Warren Rogers.

Fellowship to Explore World's Key Religions

The fall series of Sunday services at Countryside Unitarian Universalist Fellowship will be devoted to an exploration of the key ideas of great world religions as presented by representatives and adherents of such groups as Buddhism, Islam, Judaism and others.

This series will inaugurate formal services after a 2-month vacation during which the fellowship's members participated in a July watermelon festival and an August corn roast and square dance.

DR. ARTHUR E. Hoover, a member of the group, will lead off the fall series Sunday, Sept. 10, at 10:45 a.m. by speaking on the Unitarian Universalist approach to liberal religion. His topic will be "Rejection is Not Enough," and will stress the positive aspects of liberal religion which have helped its growth and have contributed to its influence and effectiveness.

Dr. Hoover is a faculty member of Roosevelt university and president of Gordon, Hoover and Associates, Inc., a firm of industrial psychologists.

He has been a frequent speaker for many business, educational and religious groups, often stressing the need for synthesizing the facts of phychological science with an individual's moral and ethical value structure.

CHURCH SCHOOL will also resume at 10:45 a.m. Sunday, Sept. 10, with classes for all ages. A liberal approach to religious education and to the exploration of ethical ideas is offered in the curriculum. The fellowship serves liberal thinking people in all the northwest suburbs. It is centrally located on Ela rd. just south of Algonquin rd. in Palatine township.

Tax Seminar Is Set for Friday

Theodore J. Isaacs, Director of Revenue, State of Illinois will discuss scope of the Illinois sales and use taxes at a one-day seminar on the subject at McCormick Place Friday, September 8.

Taxpayer rights and remedies will be described by State Rep. James P. Loukas (D-Chicago), chief sponsor of the sales and use tax amendments in the Illinois House.

THE SEMINAR, expected to draw an attendance of 1,000 business men, will be co-sponsored by the Illinois Retail Merchants association, the Building Construction Employers' association of Chicago, and the Downtown Center of the University of Chicago.

It is the first event of this year's law courses for non-lawyers program presented by the downtown center.

Chairman of the seminar will be Marvin W. Mindes, developer and coordinator of the law courses for non-lawyers program. Mindes, an attorney of 111 W. Washington st., played a major part in drafting the Illinois Sales Tax broadening bills.

Isaacs will cover both the retailers' occupation tax and the service occupation tax at the seminar.

Probable course of litigation in the area will be outlined by Jo Desha Lucas, associate professor, the University of Chicago Law school.

COLLECTION OF the use tax, from the standpoint of company internal policy and procedures will be discussed by Harry L. Hulman, manager of state and local taxes for Sears, Roebuck and company.

Willard Ice, supervisor of rules and regulations, Illinois State Department of Revenue, will describe assessment, collection and audit procedures.

Registration fee for the seminar is $35. (A14

TWO MARINE RESERVISTS participating in the 1961 Marine reserve air-ground exercise at the Marine Corps base, Twentynine Palms, Calif., are interrupted in their observation of aggressor held territory by a simulated bomb blast.

Q. Do you consider it proper, when in a group of persons, to speak with one of these persons while someone else is already speaking to the entire group?

A. It is rude to "cross converse." When one tries to talk with a person while someone else is talking to the entire group, it possibly prevents that person from listening to the first speaker. He may be very much interested and wish to listen—and also, this can be very distracting to the person who is speaking.

Q. Does a woman EVER rise from her chair when a man speaks to her?

A. Only if she is a hostess, but not otherwise—unless the man is an important personage or very elderly.

This Is What Happens When Stroke Occurs

(This is the first of four articles dealing with the problems of heart disease.)

Strokes affect thousands of Americans each year and cause approximately 170,000 deaths. But what exactly is a stroke?

The medical term for "stroke" is "cerebrovascular disease." Cerebro means brain; vascular means blood vessels. Thus a stroke is "brain damage caused by blood vessel disease."

BASICALLY A stroke occurs when the blood supply to the brain is interrupted. Blood carries nourishment and oxygen to the brain by way of the blood vessels. Brain tissue has no stored supply of oxygen and if the flow of blood is reduced or interrupted the cells cannot perform. Brain cells may die if deprived of blood for too long.

The blood supply to the brain can be interrupted by clots or hemorrhages, both of which are blood vessel diseases.

A CLOT WHICH is on the inside wall of a blood vessel and blocks the blood flow is a "thrombus." A clot which breaks loose from where it was formed and becomes lodged in a blood vessel through which it is too narrow to pass is called an "embolus."

High blood pressure may lead to rupture of blood vessels supplying the brain, resulting in the hemorrhage or "leak" type of stroke.

Certain heart and blood vessel diseases may set the stage for a stroke. Atherosclerosis (a form of hardening of the arteries) may narrow the blood vessel's inner wall, causing thickening and roughening, thus slowing the blood flow and making it easier for clots to form.

The information contained in this article is explained in greater detail in a Chicago Heart association pamphlet called "Facts About Strokes." Write your Chicago Heart Association, 22 W. Madison, Chicago 2, for your free copy.

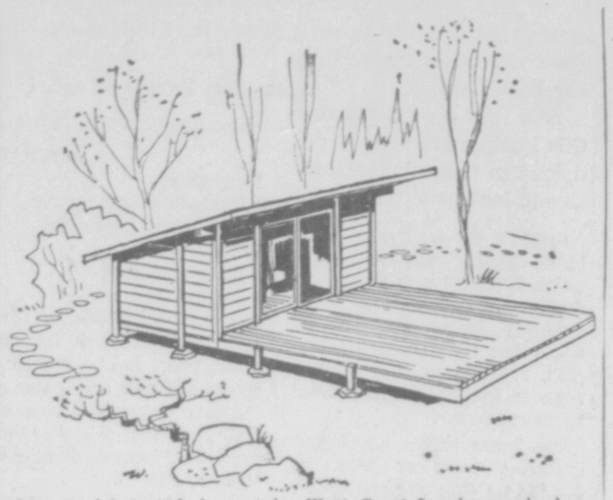
Vacation Cabin Costs $445, Grows With Need



A "do-it-yourself" vacation cabin — really designed to be built by a do-it-yourselfer—has been developed by the West Coast Lumbermen's association. The cost: only $445 for lumber, nails and roofing on Pacific Coast.

The cabin, conceived for the many Americans who want a home "away from home" but can afford only a small price, is truly unique.

IT IS A GROWTH cabin—that can be built in your basement or garage and moved in sections to the cabin site in the woods or at the lake shore.

It can be made to grow as your needs grow and as your pocketbook can stand the strain.

The cabin is designed to be built in add-on sections. The first section or starter cabin is 9x12 feet and includes a porch deck 12x18 feet in size.

Into this 9x12-foot enclosure can be fitted two double bunks, a section of cabinetry for cooking facilities, and an enclosure for toilet and washbasin.

The cabin is well designed, not a shack. It uses sturdy Douglas fir framing lumber, western red cedar bevel siding, interior paneling of cedar, fir, or west coast hemlock, and tough fir flooring for deck and cabin.

HERE'S HOW THE starter plan works, as the family gets more money "in the till." The 9x12 starter cabin with 12x18 porch deck is the first component.

A year or two later, an exact matching cabin is built facing the first with the roofs joined and a midsection built to connect the two.

The deck serves as the floor. This makes a cabin 27x12 in size.

THIRD STEP is to duplicate the original starter cabin, with this cabin joined to the first.

This provides a cabin 27x24 feet, and with the addition of a 12x18 porch deck, a pretty substantial summer home is realized.

The starter or growth cabin has been designed by a Portland, Ore. architect so that walls can be built in three-foot panels.

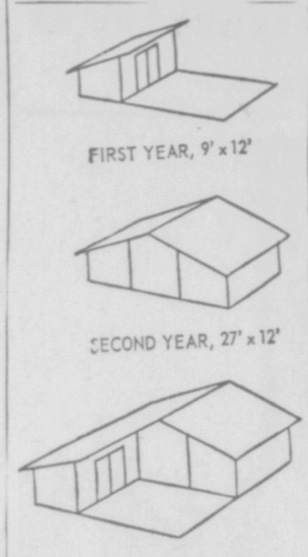
THESE PANELS can be fabricated in advance in your basement or garage or the plans can be taken to a retail lumber yard where the panels can be built.

Finished panels can be trucked to the job site in any ordinary truck.

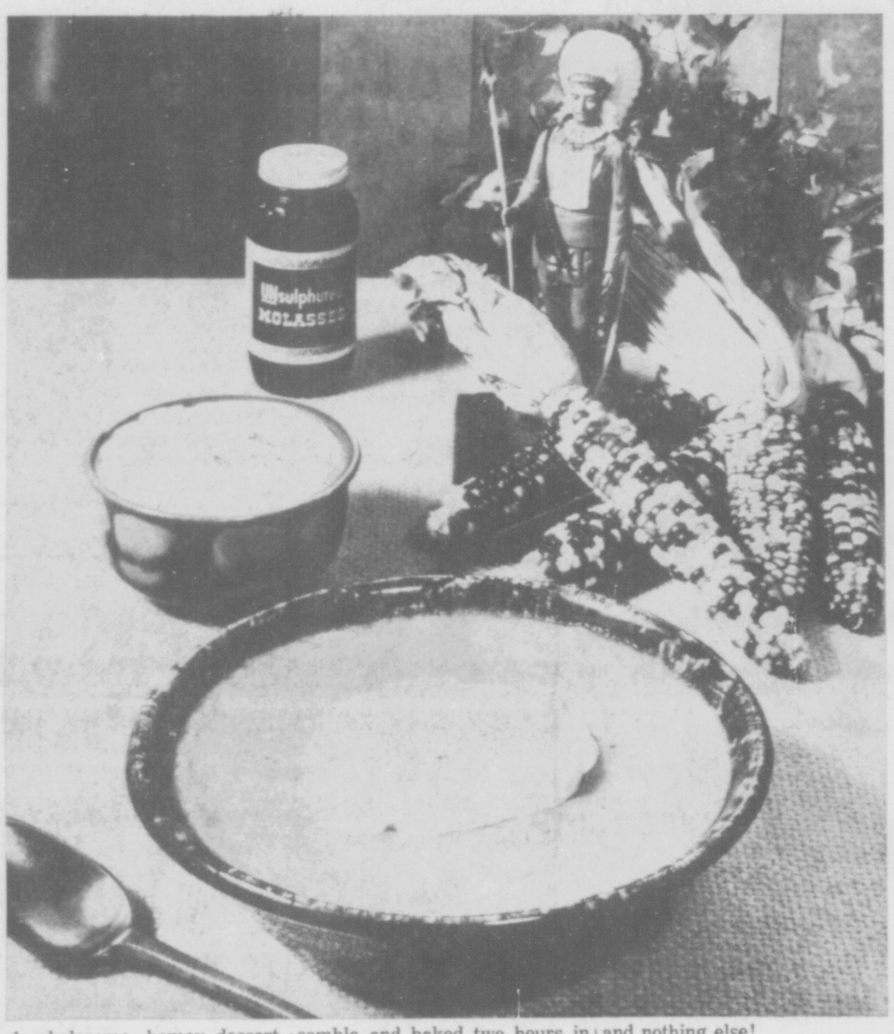
The starter cabin, first step, when prefabricated in panels, can be erected by a family in a day or so.

PLANS WITH complete lists of materials and instructions are free by writing Cabin Plans, West Coast Lumbermen's Association, 1410 S. W. Morrison st., Portland 5, Oregon.

Any ordinary weekend carpenter will have no trouble following the plans which have been carefully developed.



'Indian Sign' On Pudding For New England Classic



A wholesome, homey dessert, yet one served in many of our nation's delightful restaurants, is Indian Pudding. This dessert calls for such simple ingredients as corn meal, the taffy flavoring of unsulphured molasses and milk. A truly New England classic, it has been made since the Indians introduced colonists to corn meal.

With sailing vessels bringing sweet, aromatic molasses from the West Indies to the colonies, it was only natural that the corn meal pudding came to be flavored and sweetened with molasses. The same high quality, delicate molasses known today as "unsulphured."

THE INDIAN Pudding recipe being featured is easy to assemble and baked two hours in a very slow oven to develop its flavor and thick pudding texture. It is then served warm with cream, a scoop of vanilla ice cream, dollop of whipped cream or topping of cooked, spiced apple slices.

At Durgin-Park restaurant in Boston (a nationally famous century-and-more-old eating place in the wholesale produce market area), Indian Pudding is a daily offering. Owners claim that every morning at 11 for the past 42 years, a retired sea captain has dined on chowder, Indian Pudding and coffee.

AND TWICE a week for the past 44 years, a little old lady from Beacon Hill has come in at 5 p .m. and ordered two man-size portions of Indian Pudding and nothing else!

INDIAN PUDDING

¼ cup corn meal
3 cups milk
½ teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon soda
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ teaspoon ginger
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
1 tablespoon sugar
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
½ cup unsulphured molasses

Mix corn meal and 2 cups of the milk. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened, about 5 minutes. Remove from heat; stir in remaining ingredients. Turn into a one-quart casserole. Bake in a very slow oven (275° F.) 2 hours.

Serve warm with cream or ice cream. Yield: 6 servings.

Welcome Child Home With Hearty Lunch

"Hi! ho!—hi! ho!—it's home for lunch we go."

Many a youngster will be humming this tune, now that school days are here again.

Welcome home your child with a well balanced noon day meal. It's so important for his (or her) well being.

LUNCH IS SO much more inviting to children when foods they like are served. And a favorite with children everywhere is soup.

Please them with canned condensed chicken vegetable soup—sparkling with colorful garden vegetables and egg noodles—made excitingly different with strips of boiled ham.

It's a bowl of soup so good to look at—so delicious to eat!

Perhaps the children will want a few crackers to eat with the soup. Then surprise them with a perky salad, so easily arranged with a canned pear half and a few garnishes to resemble a bunny rabbit.

With the salad serve raisin bread finger sandwiches and a glass of milk.

GOLD STAR CHICKEN VEGETABLE SOUP

1 can (10¾ ounces) condensed chicken vegetable soup
1 soup can water
2 slices (2 ounces) boiled ham, cut in thin strips
1 tablespoon chopped parsley

Combine all ingredients: Heat, stirring now and then. Makes 2 to 3 servings.

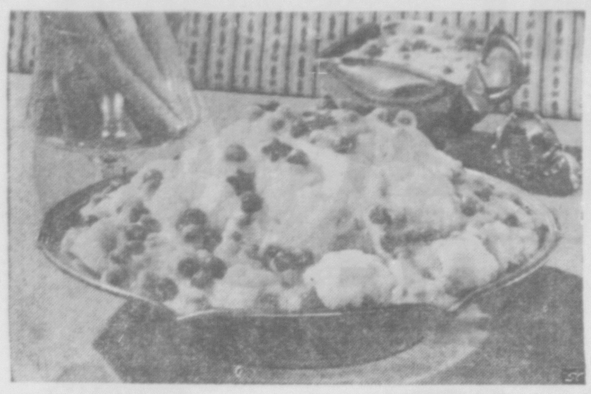
Cook's Garden Fresh Rhubarb Is Seasonal Family Favorite

Frozen Peas, Sauce Dots Market-New Cauliflower



White as new-drifted snow is the beautiful cauliflower in market now. Dramatize its attractive appearance and enhance the delicious flavor by serving this popular vegetable under a filip of creamy sauce bright with the jade-green of garden fresh frozen peas.

CAULIFLOWER WITH POLKA DOT SAUCE
(5 to 6 servings)

1 head cauliflower
1 10-ounce package frozen green peas
4 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons flour
1½ cups milk
½ cup cream
salt, pepper, paprika
2 tablespoons pimiento

Select a beautiful head of cauliflower. Remove all leaves except the pretty small leaves next to the head. Wash and allow to stand, head down, in cold, salted water, (1 teaspoon salt per quart) for 15 minutes.

Remove, rinse, and place, head down, in boiling salted water (same amounts) to cover, adding 1 tablespoon white vinegar or lemon juice. Boil, uncovered, until just tender, 15 to 20 minutes.

DO NOT OVERCOOK, or cauliflower will darken and develop a strong flavor. Meanwhile, cook peas by flavor-saver method, and make sauce: melt butter, blend in flour, and add milk gradually, stirring constantly until sauce is smooth and thickened.

Continue heating several minutes over low heat to thoroughly cook flour. Add cream, season to taste. Add peas and pimiento and mix carefully. Place cauliflower in serving dish and pour sauce over it.

GREEN PEAS—FLAVOR SAVER METHOD

1 10-oz. package frozen green peas
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons water
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon sugar

Put peas in saucepan with butter, water, salt and sugar. Cover. Bring quickly to a boil over high heat, separating block with fork, if necessary, to hasten thawing.

Reduce heat to medium and simmer gently until peas are just tender, 5 to 7 minutes.

SUCCESSFUL HOMEMAKING

by LOIS SEILER

HAPPILY ANTICIPATING the treat their mother is preparing for them are Terry, Vickie, Kim and Brad Tyl of Rolling Meadows. Mrs. James Tyl Jr. is sifting ingredients for the batter of a Rhubarb Kucken, a delicious rhubarb cake, which can be served as a dessert or an elegant breakfast treat. It is Mrs. Tyl's favorite recipe for utilizing her home grown rhubarb.

Whether you grow your own rhubarb or buy it at the market, you'll surely want to try the tempting recipe we are featuring today.

Called a Rhubarb Kucken, it has been shared with us by Mrs. James Tyl Jr. of Rolling Meadows, who declares that it is her favorite recipe for utilizing the substantial crop of rhubarb in her back yard.

And it is no wonder, for this kucken is not only delicious to taste, but attractive to look at as well.

SIMPLE TO prepare, it has a basic baking powder batter which is topped with freshly-cut rhubarb, strawberry jello and a streussel topping. The jello not only colors the rhubarb a pretty pink, but acts as a congealing agent to keep the rhubarb from becoming runny.

The cakes makes an elegant breakfast treat or may be dressed up with whipped cream and served as a delectable dessert.

Another favorite recipe of Mrs. Tyl's is for a Red Cabbage Salad with a French Celery Seed Dressing.

"I haven't found anyone who doesn't like this salad," Mrs. Tyl said. "It is the dressing, of course, that makes the salad so different and tasty."

THE OIL and vinegar dressing is seasoned with dry mustard, onion, celery seed and sugar. It has a sweet-sour flavor and is tossed with the shredded cabbage.

"The salad is colorful and attractive and goes well with almost any dinner," commented this good cook.

Her favorite luncheon dish is one that must be prepared the day before it is served.

Called a Cheese Strata, it consists of white bread and cheese assembled in layers in a baking dish with an egg-milk mixture poured over all. Crabmeat or lobster may be included in the dish, if desired.

REFRIGERATED overnight, the baked souffle-like sandwiches may be topped with a mushroom sauce.

The Cheese Strata is not only an appealing luncheon dish, but is good for buffet suppers and meatless Fridays as well.

"All of my children like these recipes too, especially the red cabbage," said Mrs. Tyl, who in addition to being the busy mother of four, is an assistant Brownie leader.

The Tyls live at 3802 Eagle in Rolling Meadows. Their children are: Terry Lynn, 8, Vickie, 7, Brad, 5, and Kim, 3 years old.

RHUBARB KUCKEN

1 cup flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
2 tablespoons shortening
¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon milk
1 beaten egg
3 cups fresh rhubarb, cut in small pieces
1 package strawberry or raspberry jello

Mix flour, baking powder, shortening and salt together with a spoon. Add milk and beaten egg.

Spread batter on bottom of an 8 by 8 inch square pan. Place cut rhubarb over it and sprinkle with either strawberry or raspberry jello. Prepare following topping:

1 cup sugar

Mix ingredients together and sprinkle over top of cake. Bake in a 375 degree oven for 35 minutes.

The cake may be served with whipped cream, if desired. Serves 9.

RED CABBAGE, FRENCH CELERY SEED DRESSING

1 large red cabbage, shredded
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1 teaspoon salt
½ small onion, grated
3/8 cup vinegar
1 cup salad oil
1 tablespoon celery seed

Mix sugar, mustard, salt, onion and one-half of the vinegar together in bowl. Add oil gradually while beating with an electric mixer. Add remaining vinegar and celery seed. Pour over red cabbage and toss. Serves 10 to 12.

For a small cabbage, use only one-half of the dressing; remainder may be stored in the refrigerator for future use.

CHEESE STRATA

12 thick slices cheese
3 cups milk
5 eggs
¾ teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper

Trim crusts from bread. Line buttered baking pan with 6 slices of the bread. Put two slices of cheese on each piece of bread. (Two small cans of lobster or crabmeat may be spread over the cheese.) Top with remaining 6 slices of bread.

Beat eggs; add milk, salt and pepper. Pour over bread. Sprinkle paprika over top and place in refrigerator overnight.

Bake, uncovered, in a 350 degree oven for one hour. The Cheese Strata may be served with a mushroom sauce, if desired. Serve 6.

Layer Chiffon Pie With Season Fruit

Three flavors combine with harmony in a fruited chiffon pie.

For this triple-decker dessert, there's a fluffy lemon chiffon base made with unflavored gelatine, eggs, and fresh lemon juice.

Only 6 minutes of cooking time are required.

PART of the mixture is blended with cream cheese for the bottom layer of the pie. Seasonal, bountiful fruit—strawberries, peaches, bananas or blueberries—form the second layer.

The remaining lemon chiffon goes on as the crowning layer. The chiffon mixture can be served in a baked pastry crust or in sherbet glasses.

Fruited Chiffon Pie

1 envelope unflavored gelatine
⅔ cup sugar, divided
¼ teaspoon salt
4 eggs
½ cup lemon juice
¼ cup water
1½ teaspoons grated lemon rind
1 8-ounce package cream cheese
1 9-inch baked pastry shell
½ pint strawberries

Mix together gelatine, ⅓ cup of the sugar and salt in top of double boiler. Combine slightly beaten egg yolks, lemon juice and water; add to gelatine mixture.

Cook over boiling water, stirring constantly, until gelatine dissolves and mixture thickens, about 6 minutes. Remove from heat; add lemon rind.

ADD ⅓ CUP of the gelatine mixture to cream cheese; blend until smooth. Turn into prepared pie shell; chill until almost firm. Hull berries; reserve several for garnish.

Slice remaining berries over cream cheese layer. Chill remaining gelatine mixture until the consistency of unbeaten egg white. Beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry.

Gradually add remaining ⅓ cup sugar and beat until very stiff. Fold into gelatine mixture. Turn on top of strawberries; chill until firm. To serve, garnish with remaining strawberries. Yield: 1 9-inch pie.

If desired, 1 cup blueberries sliced bananas or peaches may be substituted for strawberries.

Whole Wheat Bread Lovers Will Relish Ranch Recipe

Ranch Loaf has all the good, nutty flavor of whole-wheat bread—and the time for making it has been cut way down, thanks to the new formula developed by the experts in the Fleischmann's Yeast Kitchens.

The recipe makes two loaves; double it and store the extra away in the freezer for later enjoyment.

A word or two about using whole-wheat flour: stir, don't sift it, before measuring. The dough will be slightly more sticky at first than all-white-flour dough, but the stickiness will work out during the kneading process.

RANCH LOAF

2 cups very warm water
2 packages or cakes Fleischmann's Yeast, active dry or compressed
2 tablespoons sugar
2 teaspoons salt
3 cups sifted white flour
½ cup brown sugar
1 tablespoon molasses
3 tablespoons Fleischmann's Margarine
½ cup boiling water
5¼ cups whole-wheat flour (about)
½ cup dry milk solids

Measure very warm water into large mixer bowl. Sprinkle or crumble in Fleischmann's Yeast; stir until dissolved. Add sugar, salt and white flour.

Beat 2 minutes at medium speed of electric mixer, or 300 vigorous strokes with spoon. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk and bubbly, about ½ hour.

Meanwhile, add brown sugar, molasses and margarine to boiling water; cool to lukewarm. Add to doubled flour mixture. Mix 1 cup of the whole-wheat flour with dry milk solids; add.

THEN CONTINUE adding whole-wheat flour to make fairly stiff dough. Turn out onto floured board. Knead until smooth and elastic, about 10 minutes. Place in greased bowl, turning to grease all sides.

Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 40 minutes. Punch down; divide in half. Turn out onto floured board. Cover and let rest 10 minutes. Shape each half into loaf; place in greased 9x5x3-inch pans. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled, about 40 minutes. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 50 minutes or until done. Remove from pans; cool on wire racks.

Makes 2 loaves.

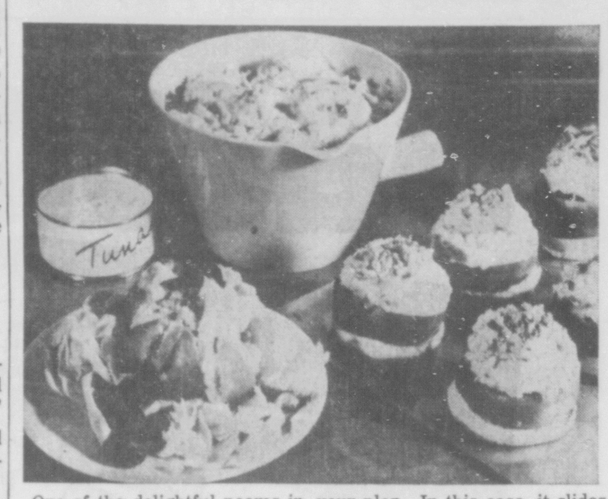
Basic Tuna Mixture Makes 'Twin' Treats



One of the delightful poems in Alice in Wonderland begins: "I sent a message to the fish; I told them this is what I wish," and goes on to tell how the fish replied: "The little fishes' answer was, 'We cannot do it, sir, because.' "

Obviously, the frustrated petitioner had not addressed himself to a school of tuna, because a tuna never says no. Whatever kind of meal you want—a casserole, curry, salad or chowder, tuna supplies you with an excellent and tasty main ingredient that needs only to be removed from the can.

IN THE SUMMER, a basic tuna salad mixture obliges you twice over because it leads a double life. If you like your warm-weather meals hot, place the mixture on thick tomato slices set on toasted buns and make tunaburgers, that can be broiled in five minutes.

If you prefer a cold lunch or dinner, use the tuna salad to stuff tomatoes, artfully cut to resemble tulips.

In either case, choose tuna in vegetable oil for the basic mixture. Tuna packed in vegetable oil emerges from the can in all its glory, because the vegetable oil, by covering the surfaces of the fish, actually seals in the flavor.

IT ALSO HELPS the fish to retain its attractive appearance and texture. Moreover, whatever you plan to do with the tuna, the oil will fall in with your plan. In this case, it slides easily into the mayonnaise.

Once you've made your choice between tunaburgers and tomato tulips, make the rest of your menu easy, too. Serve potato sticks with the burgers and French bread with the stuffed tomatoes, and bring on a tall glass of iced tea or coffee.

Everybody will heave a sigh of relief, on two counts: the meal is light, as it should be in summer and you haven't worked up a fever producing it.

TUNA-SALAD-DUO
(Hot and Cold)

Basic Tuna Mixture:

2 cans (6½ or 7 ounces each) tuna-in-vegetable oil
½ cup finely diced celery
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup mayonnaise
1 teaspoon lemon juice

Combine ingredients; blend thoroughly.

Grilled Tuna Burgers

Split 3 hamburger buns; toast halves. Place a thick slice of tomato on each half, top with tuna mixture. Place under broiler heat 5 minutes, or until browned.

Yield: 6 servings.

Tuna-Tomato Tulips:

Cut each of 6 tomatoes into 5 or 6 sections almost to stem end; spread apart slightly. Sprinkle inside of tomatoes with salt, fill with tuna mixture. Serve in lettuce cup, garnished with ripe olive.

Yield: 6 servings.

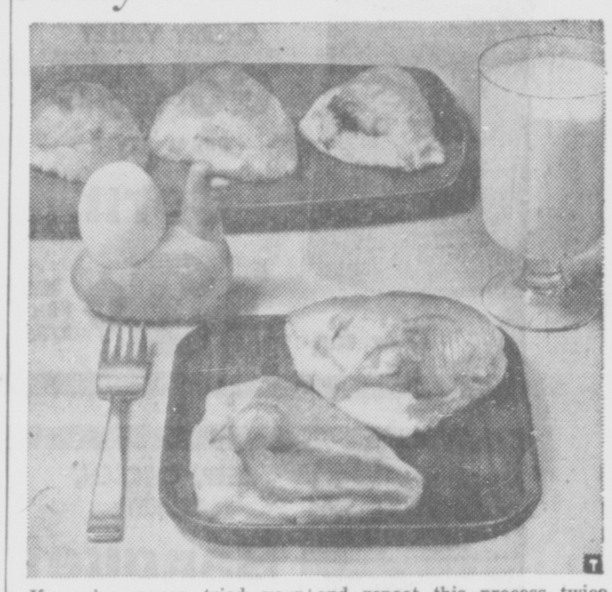
Now's The Time To Make Flaky Danish Turnovers



If you've never tried your hand at making Danish Pastry, now's the time to do so, for the recipe below is as simple as a true Danish Pastry recipe can be.

Developed in the Fleischmann's Yeast Kitchens, it's a no-knead refrigerator dough that takes less than an hour to rise once the pastries are shaped.

THE SECRET of flakiness is the rolling in of the margarine between layers of dough. Have the dough well chilled, and margarine soft enough to spread but not melted. The rolling will proceed easily; work quickly so the dough stays cold.

DANISH JAM TURNOVERS

1/3 cup sugar
2 teaspoons salt
¼ cup (½ stick) Fleischmann's Margarine
1/3 cup very warm water
2 packages of cakes Fleischmann's Yeast, active dry or compressed
3 eggs, beaten
4½ cups sifted flour
1 cup (2 sticks) soft Fleischmann's Margarine
Preserves
1 egg white, slightly beaten
Sugar

Scald milk, stir in sugar, salt and ¼ cup margarine; cool to lukewarm. Measure very warm water into mixing bowl. Sprinkle or crumble in Fleischmann's Yeast; stir to dissolve.

Stir in lukewarm milk mixture and eggs. Gradually add flour, beating smooth after each addition. Refrigerate two hours.

Roll chilled dough on lightly floured board to make rectangle 12x16 inches. Spread 1/3 cup of soft margarine on 2/3 of dough surface. Fold unspread portion of dough over ½ of spread portion.

Fold third section over first two. Roll dough to original size and repeat this process twice using remaining margarine. Refrigerate, covered, overnight.

WHEN READY to make turnovers, divide dough in half, returning one-half to refrigerator. Roll dough lengthwise into a 15x12 inch rectangle. Cut dough into 3-inch squares.

Put one teaspoon preserves on center of each square; fold each into a triangle and pinch edges to seal. Place on greased baking sheets.

BRUSH TOPS with egg white and sprinkle with sugar. Repeat with remaining half. Let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 30 minutes.

Bake in moderate oven (375° F.) 10 to 12 minutes. Cool. If desired, frost with confectioners' sugar frosting. Makes 40. (SH

CARD OF THANKS

The family of the late Louis F. Busse Jr. wish to express their sincere appreciation to relatives, friends and neighbors for the many kindnesses extended during their recent bereavement.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Bonnie Piske, who passed away September 12, 1959
Some say time heals an aching heart
But we find that is not true
For 2 years have passed and our hearts still ache for you
Gone is the face we loved so dear
Silent is the voice we loved to hear
'Tis sad but true, we wonder why
The best are always first to die

Step, Step, Together Step . . . page 7

ANYBODY CAN LEARN TO DANCE, says Amy Vanderbilt. She didn't know a cha cha from a waltz till, after years of "sitting this one out," she determined to learn, and now she steps right along with the best of them. How did she do it? This month she explains and adds a dozen valuable pointers for others who have more than one left foot.

Eric Nicol and Peter Whalley are two bright, new, and brash talents from Canada who have just written a hilarious history of the United States for people who are not going back to school. Here is a sampling of Mr. Whalley's cartoon low-down on what was obviously left out of authorized versions of the lives of Lincoln and Ponce De Leon and the Pilgrims and other Founding Fathers.

A Den Mother's Lament . . . page 14

There are 310,298 Den Mothers in this country. They are dedicated, hard-working women, but sometimes even their best efforts fall on the deaf ears of boys who are bored, tired, restless, and just plain not interested in repeating the same handicrafts that took up a lot of their time during the school day. Out of harried experience, one thoughtful mother tells how she would improve Cub Scouting.

Par Excellence . . . page 18

World Champion Louise Suggs (twice winner of the U. S. Women's Open) believes that short-course or par-three golf will become the nation's top sports attraction some day. She reports the story of this new sports boom to date, with notes on its great appeal for older people, for beginners, for mixed games, or for any good golfer with limited time.

It's the first day of school, so, while the eager scholars are debarking from busses and cars, says our famous cover artist, Mrs. Suzanne Gold (room 1-C), is waiting with everything ready on her desk —dictionary, calendar, globe, ruler, pen, ink, paper, and the pretty flowers one early arrival brought her.

GETTING AROUND

. . . to Our Pleasant Places and People

HERE ARE A COUPLE of firsthand reports on the activities of brand-new five-year-old scholars: the first, from Elsa Badger, is about little Martha Drummond, of Wellesley Hills, Massachusetts, who was looking forward to her first day in school. When the great morning came, she bounced out of bed, got ready, and thoroughly enjoyed being taken there with all the responsibility of being left alone and of taking the school bus home by herself. The next morning, when her mother went to wake her up, Martha protested, "What? Again?"

The other story comes from Mrs. Hy Rosenthal, in Millburn, New Jersey. It's about a five-year-old boy who had just started school. Every day, when he returned from the morning kindergarten session, his mother would ask him what he had made in school. One day the little fellow, in answer to the standard query, just looked up at her and said, "I made two new friends, Mommy."

America is still the land of unlimited opportunity for those who know where to look for it. Take the young man Mrs. Irene Rawson of Normandy, Missouri, told us about. He found out that there was a city law which prohibits dogs from the beaches, so he went into the business of taking dogs swimming. Three times a week he makes his rounds, picks up his charges, and takes them to a sheltered breakwater where they can swim, romp, and exercise to their hearts' content. The dogs love it, their owners are delighted, and the entrepreneur is making a neat profit running his own unusual business.

Imagine the plight of maintenance man James Graves, who was faced with the monumental task of removing 100,000 flowers that had been specially put in as decorations during the grand opening of a shopping center near Oak Grove, Oregon, a few weeks back. The flowers were still fresh enough, but there were so many of them to dispose of. Well, canny Jim, remembering his Tom Sawyer, went out and got the biggest, flattest box he could find. He began to put the flowers out on the box, and in a few minutes a crowd of shoppers had gathered. One lady asked Jim what was going to happen to the flowers, and he graciously replied that they could all help themselves. Soon, everyone who passed by was going home with armfuls of lovely blooms, and Jim went ahead with the rest of his cleaning job, free of at least one big, beautiful headache.

Forrest and Bernice Miller, who own a lodge and restaurant in Poncha Springs, Colorado, have their own novel way of contributing to charity. On Sundays, customers are invited to write the name and address of the church of their choice on the back of their dinner check, and the Millers then forward 10% of the tab.

A sign on the back of a car in North Hollywood, California, read: "Just Divorced."

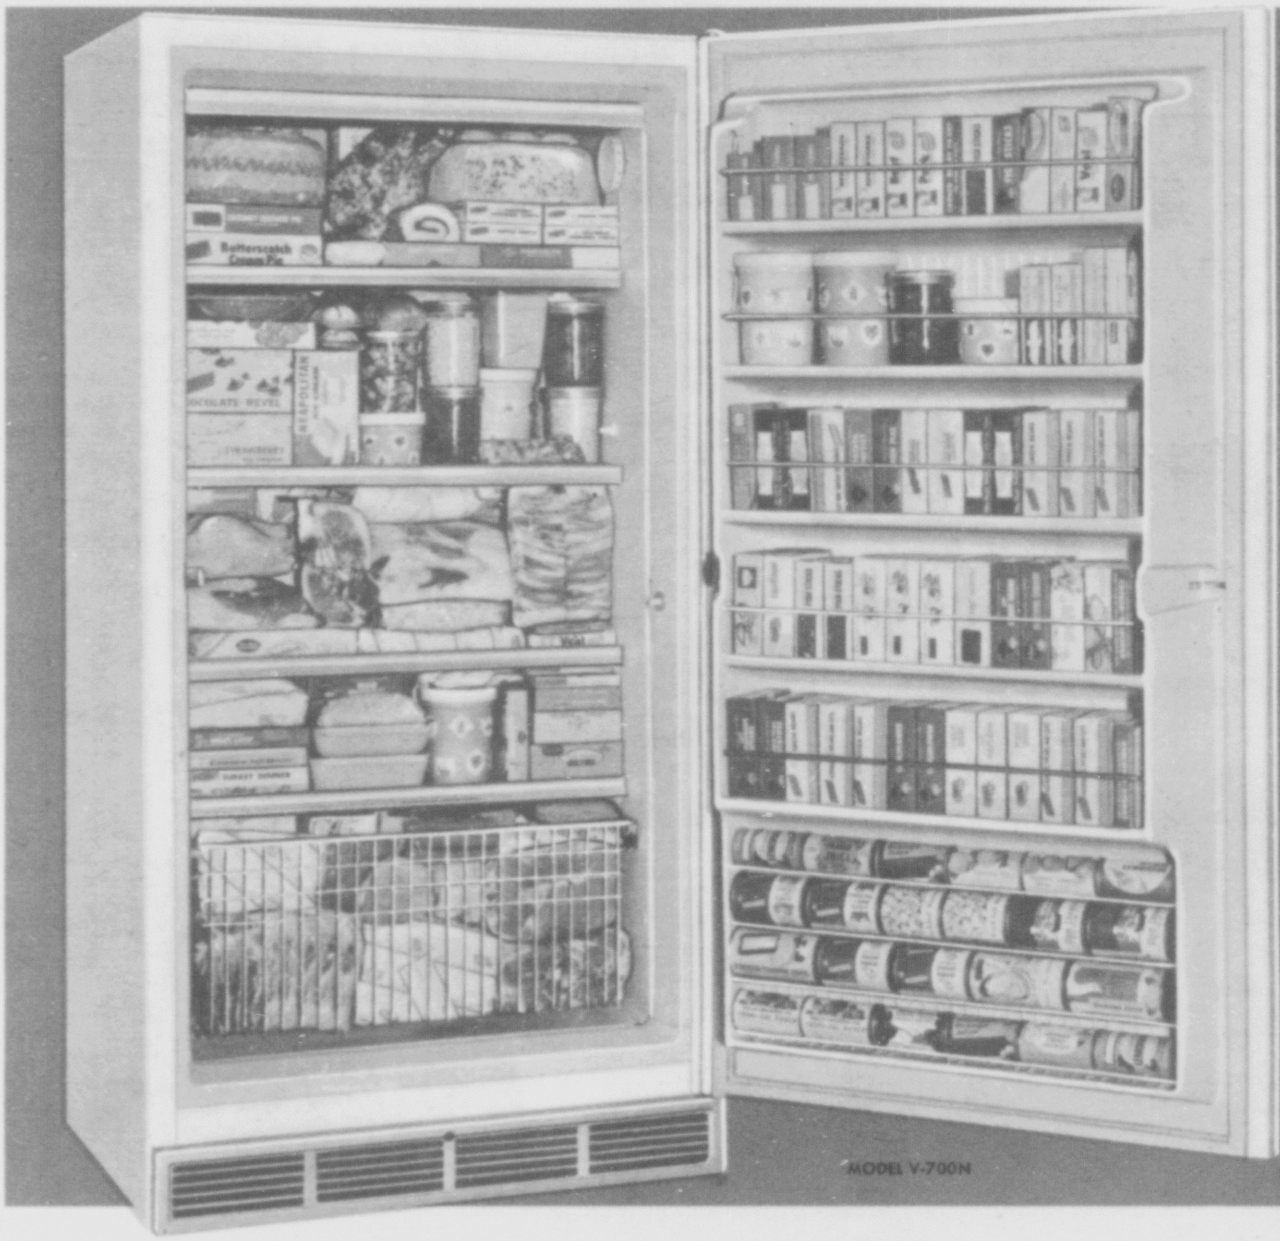
Here's what makes Kelvinator

Your best buy in "No-Frost" Freezers



1 FREEZES FASTER!

Fresh foods freeze quickly in Kelvinator, reaching zero-zone temperatures in exceptionally fast time.

2 NO "HOT" SPOTS!

Kelvinator maintains zero-zone temperatures throughout—without the "hot" spots that cause frozen foods to deteriorate more rapidly.

3 SAFE DOOR STORAGE!

Kelvinator even maintains zero-zone temperatures in the door, allowing you to store frozen foods there for the maximum safe storage period.

4 REAL OPERATING ECONOMY!

With all its superior performance, Kelvinator costs less to operate than other "No-Frost" Freezers.

And Kelvinator Gives You Conveniences You Won't Find On Many Makes!

INTERIOR FLOODLIGHT helps you locate foods quickly.

SAFETY SIGNAL LIGHT glows constantly . . . goes out only if power fails or temperature approaches unsafe level.

BUILT-IN DOOR LOCK assures protection for your frozen food investment.

FLUSH HINGES allow door to open within cabinet width . . . let you place freezer against cabinets or in corner.

ADJUSTABLE SHELF may be raised or lowered to accommodate bulky items. All shelves are removable.

ROLL-OUT BASKET stores odd-shaped packages easily.

JUICE CAN SHELVES provide convenient in-the-door storage for frozen juices.

ROOMY DOOR SHELVES provide "book-shelf" convenience for smaller frozen food packages.

Never Needs Defrosting!

Here's the "No-Frost" freezer that provides true zero-zone protection for all your frozen foods . . . and uses less electricity while it's doing it!

What is Kelvinator's secret?

The answer is its simpler "No-Frost" system. Instead of using electric heating elements or other expensive devices, Kelvinator simply reverses its refrigeration system periodically . . . banishing frost forever from shelves, packages and walls!

Trust your frozen foods to the most trusted name. Kelvinator is the oldest and largest manufacturer of low temperature cabinets for frozen foods and ice cream.

Here's Why Kelvinator Brings You So Much Value!

Kelvinator doesn't waste money making costly annual model changes—mere "change for change's sake." Instead, Kelvinator concentrates on making appliances more useful, more dependable and more economical to operate. Just as soon as improvements are tested and approved, they are introduced. Because of this policy of Constant Basic Improvement, you are always sure of the newest with Kelvinator.

The Rev. Floyd Fortin, pastor of St. John the Baptist Roman Catholic Church in Hugo, Minnesota, believes horseback riding is better exercise and a better answer to juvenile delinquency than hot-rodding. Father Fortin encourages the parish's youngsters to use the riding rink he has set up on church grounds and to look after the horses that are kept in the parish's barn. Each year they put on a horse show that has now become one of Minnesota's biggest exhibitions—this year's drew nearly 4,000 people. Many children in the parish have their own horses, and, Father Fortin says, "a boy or girl who rides, grooms, and cares for a horse won't be a juvenile delinquent."

Anyone Can Learn To DANCE —I Did!

BY AMY VANDERBILT

The noted author and etiquette authority tells how she finally learned and adds some invaluable tips

AS A CHILD I was the little, chubby girl with stringy blonde hair they put in the last row of the ballet class. The fifth position never meant a thing to me until—I hate to say how many years later—I learned of its relation to the break in the rhumba.

Not that I didn't have dancing lessons. I was literally dragged there, and then dragged around by my partners. Although I had the theory of the dance well-drummed into me throughout my pre-teens and late teens, I could just never learn to coordinate. The waltz made me dizzy, the fox trot was a shambles. When Latin dancing took over, I couldn't even understand the beat. When my eldest son began to jitterbug, he tried to teach me the rudiments, and we both collapsed with laughter. I was worse than square, I was hopeless, but you should see me now. I became a good dancer when I was 45 years old.

I laid the foundation, I think, for my successful dancing when I decided to take some routine psychological tests to see if there was any ascertainable reason for my lack of coordination. The tests showed almost immediately that I was born left-handed.

DURING MY childhood it was fashionable to switch left-handed children to right-handedness on the ground that it is a right-handed world and that one shouldn't be too different from other people. The nice man who gave me the test asked me if I had trouble in kindergarten with pegboards, basketwork, beadwork, and so forth. I explained that this was another desperate period in my life. He laughed and said it was a wonder I got into the fifth grade because, before that time, so much depends on dexterity.

I was told that I could be retrained in matters like learning to do arithmetic (I can't), learning to play the piano (the hours I spent fruitlessly at this!), and in other things, but that it was rather pointless. There were things, however, that I could learn, like dancing, through patient teaching and, in the case of dancing, by literally being dragged through the steps over and over again until they made a pattern, I gather, on the left side of my brain, which is the side for me that acts. It was explained to me why, if the teacher said, "You put your left foot here and your right foot there," it made absolutely no sense whatsoever.

I struggled along with my form of dancing for many years, but when Latin dancing actually began to take over, I just sat down.

Then, five years ago, I met a strong-minded man who wouldn't let me say no when the Latin music started. He was Captain Frederico Gladulich, then commanding officer of the S.S. Nassau. He and I used to dance together a lot, and like most Italians he was an excellent dancer. When I tried to sit down as the rhumba started, he held me in a firm clutch, but strong-minded as he was, he finally had to give up. "Well," he said quite flatly, "you're going to Nassau. While you are there, why don't you take Latin dancing lessons at the Emerald Beach? Who's going to know the difference? You could learn."

These mildly encouraging words sped me to the private dance studio of the resident instructor at the hotel. My approach was strange. I said, "I can't do any of the Latin dances. I don't understand the beat. I am very awkward at anything like this, but if you are willing, I will try." I wish I could remember the name of that kind man.

He promptly gave up trying to show me that you put this foot here and the other one there. He was tall and strong and he did drag me through the steps, over and over and over again. At night, when the dancing started in earnest at the hotel, he would dance dutifully with me and his other pupils. Every time I had to go on the dance floor with him I suffered more than I did in infant dancing class. I realize now how much he must have suffered, too.

I was in Nassau two weeks that time, and on my return on the S.S. Nassau I was a relative surprise and delight to Captain Gladulich, and at least I understood the box step in the rhumba, although I had not at this point even heard of Cuban rhythm, an undulation difficult to describe in print but an integral part of a flashy rhumba. I can do it now.

WHEN I GOT HOME, I was sufficiently encouraged to continue my dancing lessons. I knew it was useless to join a class where I would have to dance with a variety of partners, some of them probably even worse than I. Instead, I had two lessons a week at home with a cheerful young man who had graduated from being an instructor at Arthur Murray's to the job of selling advertising for our local newspaper. My lessons kept his car in gas. Slowly, under his expert administration, my ego began to bloom. I guess it is perfectly clear by now, learning to dance—really learning to dance—did all kinds of wonderful things for me.

SWAP YOUR CRABGRASS FOR A GOOD LAWN

Here's how:

1. Blast crabgrass now. Fill the Scotts Spreader with clean, granular Clout*, set the dial and walk. Clout quickly dooms even toughest crabgrass – yet it lets good grass grow unharmed. Leave the dead crabgrass plants right where they are. They'll disintegrate soon enough. Meanwhile, they make an ideal seed bed.

2. Seed one week later. Sow all-perennial, 99.91% weed-free Scotts seed at the economy spreader rate – for the most good grass per dollar. Choose the Scotts blend that gives the kind of lawn that's right for you. Family* is the most popular. It thrives in sun or shade, takes good wear with only moderate care.

3. Feed the same day. Give new and established grass the balanced diet it needs to thrive. A Scotts Spreader application of protein-building Turf Builder* promotes stronger rooting and thicker, healthier growth. Turf Builder is clean, odorless, non-burning. For best results, apply the same day, immediately before or after seeding.

Follow this simple three-step program and Scotts guarantees your results—a good lawn this very fall or your money back!

Scotts
FIRST IN LAWNS

Properly, the man is supposed to lead the way through crowded tables and so forth to the dance floor, then turn and take his partner in his arms. If there is plenty of room for the approach, then walk side by side with him. Remember, at the end of the dance when he thanks you (and I hope he does), to say something pleasant in return, even if it is a lie.

7. Don't slump on the dance floor or assume what used to be called the debutante slouch. Keep to your own center of gravity and lean your body slightly forward, never dragging on your partner. You take guidance from him by sensing the movement that his body will take through the light pressure of your hand against his shoulder blade. Don't drape your arm around his neck or in any other esoteric position.

8. Forget what you learned in ballet dancing class as a child. Most social dancing is not done on the toes or even on the ball of the foot. There is a lot of "flat foot" in Latin dancing, and when you are danced backwards you are often right on your heels.

9. Especially in the Latin dances, dance with a restrained body. The movement should come from the hips down. Shoulder shaking is strictly for the gypsies.

10. Your hands are a very important part of your dancing. In the breaks in the Latin dancing hold your hands as if you were inspecting your rings—avoid the look of the claw.

11. Watch your head. Its proper movement can help to balance your body in intricate steps. The general rule is to look in the direction of the step you are about to take. Don't feel you must keep up a constant chatter with your partner. You'll dance better if you keep your gaze, when he is holding you in a close position, just past his right ear instead of full in his face.

12. And finally, relax. If you misstep – and even the best dancers do – it is easy to cover up if you are relaxed.

Once you have learned to dance more or less to your own, and other people's satisfaction, practice your dancing as much as possible. Inspire other people to learn to dance, too. If you form a little dance group of your own, you can bring new fun into life.

Dancing – and especially Latin dancing – is an activity that you can easily keep up, with great benefits physically and psychologically. Busy as I am, I find time for it. I have even added square dancing to my repertoire this past summer – and that is exercise!

Learn To Dance

For one thing, it gave me a form of exercise I really enjoyed (calisthenics bore me and I'm not very good at them), and of course it widened my social horizon. I began to attract good dancers because, as one of them said, "You make a man look good on the dance floor." These good dancers were not necessarily men I would have found fascinating during my mainly intellectual years. I remember the thé dansant where I had a terrific time with a man well over 70 and, it seemed to me, seven feet tall. He knew every step of the tango ever invented. Men thirty years younger sat listlessly on the side lines and watched us.

Also, I had found something I could do better than my children—that is, in a physical way. My activities have inspired the younger ones to look at their dancing classes as pleasure instead of torture. They want to be able to beat me at my own footwork. My eldest boy, addicted to the curious shuffle of his generation, has even willingly taken a couple of tango lessons, and he sometimes brings a young thing to view his mother at her dancing lessons.

MAYBE I should no longer call them lessons because I am pretty satisfied with the steps I know, and if I progress much further I will soon narrow the field of my partners. One with whom I used to go dancing in the old days of my two left feet said to me after I had had about a year of lessons, "You're no fun for me to dance with any more. You've been taking dancing lessons."

I've become a kind of dancing snob. But I must admit that I still don't know what I am doing with my feet, and I am completely unsuccessful in trying to teach anyone else even a rudimentary dance step. I can, however, not only give hope to others who imagine they can't dance, but I can give some pointers I had to absorb myself.

These are all for the girls:

1. Take your dancing lessons, if possible, in something that will give you complete freedom. Tights and leotard, shorts and ballet slippers (or certainly shoes of some kind that will be completely comfortable). Dancing instructors prefer shoes with a slight heel, but they will put up with ballet slippers, and I do think that they give a beginner more confidence. Barring leotards or shorts, a full skirt of some kind is far better than a tight skirt for lessons.

2. Be particularly conscious when you are being propelled backwards to keep your feet together. One famous New York dancing teacher used to tell his little girl pupils that they shouldn't dance backward with their feet apart, for they then looked like a horse being backed into a stall. Keep your ankles together.

3. Don't be a drag on your partner. Each partner should be able to dance as if independent of the other. In other words, it's a fallacy that you need to have a "strong lead" or a "good dancer" in order to dance well. When you really know what you are doing, a partner with fairly modest ability won't bother you.

4. Never try to lead. If you get stuck with an impossible dancer, relax and try to follow what he is doing. If you really can't, plead thirst or a headache and sit down.

5. Never suggest a step to a man with whom you are dancing or try to show him a new step on the dance floor, even if he asks you to. Any such requested instructions should be strictly private. The man should always be in charge on the floor.

6. Don't be so overcome with delight when you are asked to dance that you barge ahead of your partner.

Table Scraps Can Short-Change Your Dog

Do right by the dog you love...balance each meal with GRO-PUP Ribbon

When you feed your dog table scraps, you can never be sure he's getting all the nutrients he needs. And yet, to stay fit and strong, he should have a well-balanced diet every day.

That's why thoughtful families are adding Gro-Pup Ribbon to every scrap meal they feed. Gro-Pup is an unusual kind of dog food. It contains an extra bonus of vital protein, important vitamins and minerals—far in excess of the minimum levels set by the National Research Council.

Even when fed with large amounts of "unbalanced" leftovers, the high nutrient level of Gro-Pup can safeguard against improper diet. When you feed Gro-Pup every day, you can enjoy the confidence that your dog is getting an abundance of the essentials he needs for a long and healthy life.

Why don't you start tomorrow?

Tips on WOOD FINISHING

Floors never need rescraping

When you put the finish in the wood—not just on it—your floors will last a lifetime. Minwax goes deep into the wood . . . leaves no brittle surface to scratch or mar. You have a choice of Natural Minwax or a wide range of color tones. Maintain with liquid wax and you never have to refinish your floors.

Today's trend is to paneling

Easy-to-use Minwax brings out wood's natural beauty. Simply apply Minwax Wood Finish to the panel after sanding it thoroughly. Then add a light touch of Minwax Finishing Wax. The result is a rich, hand-rubbed look. For authentic Colonial effects, try Cherry, Ipswich or Puritan Pine. Modern effects include Driftwood, Straw or Spruce Gray.

Unfinished furniture

Minwax imparts a rich, warm glow to unfinished furniture . . . cabinets . . . new shelves and wood trim. Choose wood with uniform grain and sand silk-smooth. Finish as above in your choice of Minwax quick-drying colors.

For over 50 years Minwax Wood Finishes have been the standard of quality with architects, custom builders and antique dealers. Also economical and easy to use are Minwax Finishing Wax, liquid or paste, and that wonderful new repair stick for surface scratches — Blend-Fil.

A Den Mother "sounds off" and tells what she thinks should be done to improve Cub Scouting

BY MARTHA HUTCHISON

"DO THESE kids act that way at home?"

"What am I accomplishing?"

"I don't know whether to take tranquilizers or feed them to the Cubs!"

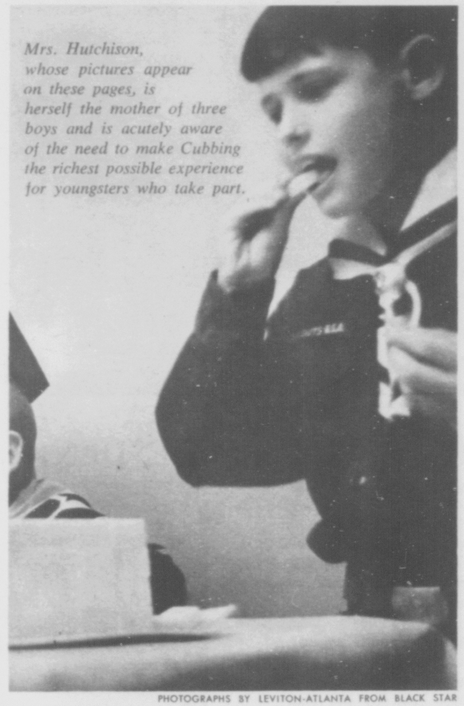
You're reading (word for word) just a few of the comments I have listened to from other harassed Cub Scout Den Mothers over the years. Much of the work they do—and it's hard work—seems to them to be a waste of time and effort. And, I must admit, most of the time I have shared their frustrations.

This is the way it usually goes. Six or eight gold-trimmed, blue suits assemble for a Den meeting. In each suit is housed a boy who has sat in school long enough that day, pasted, cut and squooshed clay enough; studied about Canada or Alexander Graham Bell or pioneers enough.

Now he figures he has earned his medal for the day and is entitled to act like a growing child who has much unfinished business of his own invention left over from yesterday. The "club is met," however—and the Den Mother is obliged to make it work. Dependent upon the personalities of the group, or the mood at the time, she may exhaust every persuasion she knows but with little success.

Here is one experience I remember vividly. The subject for that month was Alaska, and the whole idea was to carve

THE DEN



Mrs. Hutchison, whose pictures appear on these pages, is herself the mother of three boys and is acutely aware of the need to make Cubbing the richest possible experience for youngsters who take part.

an object out of soap that was at least vaguely connected with that locale. My little Cubs had been delighted with the suggestion that they carve sleds, sled dogs, igloos, whales, or a number of other simple objects, but the minute they felt that soap give easily under their touch, destruction rather than creation took over.

Visualize these fellows flaying chips of soap like hungry termites! Fortunately, I had given each boy a tin for scraps which kept fifty-percent of the shavings off the floor, but such butchering at a bar of soap has seldom been seen, even back when Grandma shaved her washday supply.

While this was going on, the air was shaking with the volume of unleashed running and jumping still held insecurely under those Cub uniforms!

Cub Scouts aren't really villains and varmints. Under other circumstances these are the same boys who get into a few scrapes here and there, are active, noisy, interesting, and normal children. They're the same kids that visit and play with my offspring and yours all the time. They come in a number of flavors of dispositions and interests, but almost all are quite acceptable in homes—one at a time or six at a time—until

Most boys, says Mrs. Hutchison, are as naturally good-natured and well-behaved as these shown with her here, but boredom can convert any active Den into a group of restless, uninterested Cubs.

The Den could "go places and see things" —visit the local print shop or the zoo, There are numerous places with appeal for boys from eight to eleven years. Many are close to home, and most businesses are more than willing to cooperate with small groups "on tour." Paste on their fingers may be old hat, but a printing press is absolutely fascinating!

Eight or nine such weekly jaunts, one lunch-time "cook out," or a nature walk investigating the flora, fauna, and snails in a nearby creek would easily fill the number of summer Den meetings with pleasures and knowledge.

Schedule only the monthly Pack meetings for the year-round. Invite an adult who can capture Cub imagination with information about life aboard ships; forestry; newspaper reporting; a sharpshooter to emphasize gun safety; a veterinarian. The high-school coach will be full of tips for budding athletes; a tree surgeon could amaze them with the ailments of trees.

Allow fifteen or twenty minutes with another five if there are lots of questions. Add to this the Cub Scout Oath, two announcements, a salute to the Flag, and light refreshment.

There'll be no need for the clever little games and pleas for "Quiet" while the adults attempt to enforce the format of a young businessmen's meeting in defiance of scuffling feet and scraping chairs.

I'm sure that Scouting councils will be more than happy to help pull together a program that is better adjusted to the needs and interests of the boys. After all, that's what they're there for, isn't it?

The kids would still have their eye-catching uniforms to wear; they'd still be part of the gang. The gang would now be honestly accomplishing something. Benefits to the Cubs would be real, not just fancied. They might even look forward to becoming Boy Scouts!

As it stands, we've been trying to fit Scouting to Cubs. The trousers are not only too long, they are too big around to take in a few seams successfully. Let's use the shears and cut a whole new pattern—Cub size!

Which came first, Gordon's or the Martini?

When Alexander Gordon introduced his gin to London in 1769, the martini had not yet been invented. So when the martini finally did arrive—around 1850—it had ready access to Gordon's remarkable dryness and flavour, and the martini's success was thus assured. Tonight, when you ask for a Gordon's martini, you'll be glad to know the gin harks back to Alexander Gordon's original formula. Why should we tamper with a good thing, especially when it's the world's biggest seller.

"Sleep, my little one, sleep"

Hints collected by Mrs. Dan Gerber, Mother of 5

Many a new mother is apt to worry about whether her baby gets enough sleep. Strangely enough, most babies get the amount of sleep they need. Reassuring to remember that sleep patterns vary, just as all baby behavior patterns do. A high-voltage baby tends to sleep less than a take-things-as-they-come baby, but there is no evidence that a wide-awaker does not thrive as well as a sleepyhead.

Night owls or sleepyheads have a tendency to eat with special relish when menus feature Gerber Strained Foods. And small wonder! They're "custom" cooked for babies. Flavors are delightfully natural, the texture ever so nice to the tongue. And they're mildly seasoned the way they should be for a young baby. All are prepared by specialists who are wise in the ways of infant nutrition.

Gerber Menu Delight	Ham High Meat Dinner Green Beans Custard Pudding with Peaches Formula or milk

Baby will snooze more happily if he's comfortable. Night togs should be loose and nonrestricting. Check to make sure there's at least 2 fingers of space between baby and his diaper.

Fun and games plus mild exercise, to keep baby reasonably active during waking hours, usually help baby sleep longer and more soundly. Peace and quiet just before bedtime has a lulling effect.

After a nap or before a nap— baby will be oh-so-socially-acceptable in Gerber Baby Pants. Made of soft, soft poly-vinyl film that's waterproof, leak-proof, acid-proof. Won't stiffen . . . will stay soft for the life of the pants. For extra comfort, they're amply cut to provide plenty of wiggle-room and allow for growth. Of course, they're hand and machine washable . . . come in medium, large and extra-large sizes.

Important: Gerber prepares over 100 baby foods: cereals, strained and junior, to meet your baby's nutritional needs. We're proud to say:

they're draped in blue and gold. With this camouflage, I find, you often can't recognize the same child at all.

The problems that Den Mothers endure are caused by two things. We're cramming "another helping" into days already crowded by school, and the Cubs are telling us quite clearly that they're bored. Secondly, they are still too young to be interested in such "organized club work." You'll notice that any back-yard club they set up themselves is very elementary.

They may have a few rules, but mainly it's a place to sit and visit or hide from the rest of the world.

Why are we so deaf to the message the Cubs are sending us? They aren't benefiting from this "grand experience" we're providing for them. Their behavior clearly proves that remedies are necessary to make Cub Scouting the worthwhile venture it was intended to be.

Put away the crayons and paste, I say. Hold gatherings less often during the school year. And please! Let's cut out the feeble schemes to earn badges and all the bookkeeping about who "earned" what. If they enjoy being classified as "Bobcats" and "Lions," why not do it simply on the basis of attendance?

Stop imposing on already full school days—Den meetings should be held during summer months only. A weekly meeting with more distant friends might be good diversion then. Without the limitation of school hours, a variety of interesting activities becomes possible.

Par-Three Golf Course

stay...and more people play the short courses every year

BY LOUISE SUGGS

Today many beginners edge into the game the par-three way, where before they might have quailed at the expense and all the paraphernalia that are required for sampling regular golf.

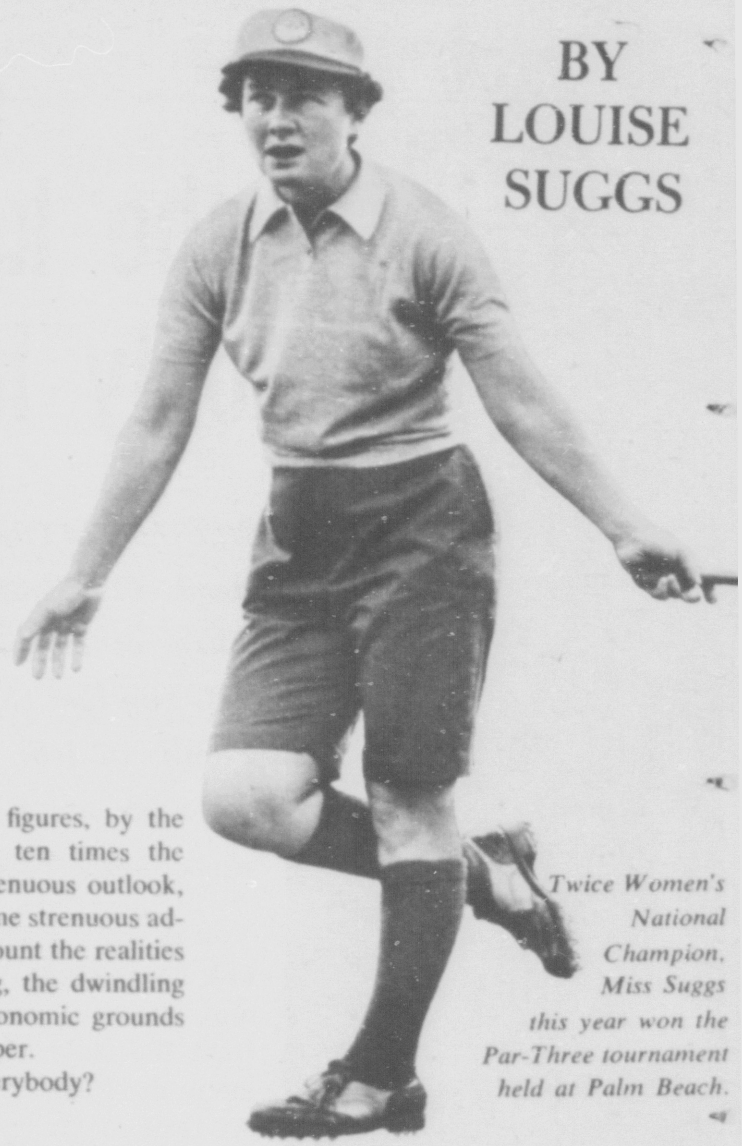
Setups, of course, vary throughout the country. Many of the most beautiful par-threes, as in Florida and Texas, are run as adjuncts to hotels. California, which tops all other States with a total of 76 par-threes, leans to swimming pools and restaurants as extras. Some establishments night-light their courses for more hours of play, some provide children's play areas—supervised.

Whether all this is really "golf" is no longer a serious question. Bobby Jones boosted par-three into permanent standing by staging a warm-up round on his new nine hole "Little Masters" before the start of the 1960 Masters Tournament at the Augusta National Country Club in Georgia. The event, won by Sam Snead with a 23, not only delighted the spectators but dramatized the possibilities of par-three golf as a supplement to regular golf.

At the new Merrywood Country Club in Smithtown, Long Island, Club officers and the Club professional are happily forecasting the benefits to come from the 18-hole short course they are building. It will provide a quick and stimulating substitute for many players, who for some reason are unable to go a regulation course round—the five-thirty player, for instance, or the lady whose time is limited, or the older player. Beginners, they say, will start with more assurance there; it will drain traffic from the large course. The short course will tend to equalize the game between men and women (with the premium on accuracy), and it may give rise to a new kind of tournament featuring men, women, and teen-agers as the contestants.

Golf planners tell us that, with our present golf boom and rising population figures, by the year 2000 there will be a demand for ten times the golf facilities we have today. This is a strenuous outlook, and the par-threes figure prominently in some strenuous advance planning, which has to take into account the realities of the population explosion, overcrowding, the dwindling of available land, and rising costs. On economic grounds alone, the par-threes are bound to prosper.

Besides, they're lots of fun. Golf, everybody?



Twice Women's National Champion, Miss Suggs this year won the Par-Three tournament held at Palm Beach.

NEWS! The

It's respectable . . . it's here to

TODAY THERE ARE four times as many short courses round the country as we had in 1955, and Gene Sarazen is predicting that in fifteen years they'll outnumber the long. If they had been promoted twenty-five years ago in his heyday, he says, par-three golf would now be the nation's number-one sport.

With the term "par-three," which came into use about ten years ago, short-course golf took on its fully developed character: nine or eighteen complete holes, each of them short enough for a possible score of three (on or near the green in one, down in two more). Except in scale, the short courses are similar to the layouts of their conventional relatives in all details of tees, greens, fairways, and hazards—including, sometimes, such trimmings as a clubhouse and elaborate service facilities.

As of now, over-all lengths vary widely from course to course, but a growing number of purists insist that the real par-three will call for the use of every club in the bag and will run to enough length to accommodate some long wood shots.

In any case, from under 600 to over 2700 yards is the present eighteen-hole length range, with individual hole length limited only by the USGA rule which sets 250 yards as the maximum yardage allowed. In practice, it may all work in much the same way as it does at the Oak Lawn Golf Center outside Chicago.

THIS PAR-THREE COURSE, like many of the other 374 spread across the country, functions as part of a community center, which has added to its attractions by including the course. It spreads altogether over seventeen acres, with nine holes as follows:

1. 110 yards	4. 205 yards	7. 170 yards
2. 185 yards	5. 125 yards	8. 230 yards
3. 140 yards	6. 150 yards	9. 160 yards

The Oak Lawn player can not only get a challenging round on such a course for the moderate fee of, say, 75 cents, but for a little extra outlay he can also sharpen up on the driving range or practice green, while a nongolfing companion, in the meantime, can find diversion on the Tom Thumb course unless he wants to rent some sticks and balls and give the real game a try.

"And why not, may I ask?"

When you get the flowers from a nursery, planting procedure is much the same as that outlined above. Soak the soil in the container well to insure that the soil adheres around the roots in a ball. Next, turn the pot upside down, holding the plant with one hand while striking the edge of the pot lightly on a wall or fence to loosen the root ball. It will then slip out easily and into its hole in the bed.

Tin containers should be slit in two or three places down to the base so that the sides can be bent outward, thus freeing the root ball. Be careful of the containers' edges! Burlapped root balls can be planted intact, the top of the burlap being untied then and buried alongside the roots, where it will disintegrate. In all cases, soak the plants well and shade if the weather is hot and dry, then water afterwards.

As chrysanthemums come into bloom, visit public gardens and nurseries to make notes of those you particularly fancy. Then you can order them in the spring and have a better idea of what you are getting. Many people order plants in the spring and plant them in pots, which are sunk into the ground in some part of the property where they keep on growing until time to use them in the fall. Then they may be brought in their pots onto the terrace or taken into the house in full, long-lasting bloom or replanted where you need them as outlined above.

However you use them, you can be sure of bushels of bloom all autumn.

Flowers By The Spadeful

From now on, in full bloom, chrysanthemums transplant happily

BY JOHN BRIMER

DO YOU NEED FLOWERS to fill a bare spot in your border, something that will give you bushels of bloom right up to winter's first cold breath?

Chrysanthemums are your answer—they can be transplanted successfully and easily when they're in full bloom, and they will hardly know they've been moved, provided you follow a few simple rules. Here is the procedure:

If you have chrysanthemums growing in your garden already, water them thoroughly a day or two before lifting. Late-afternoon transplanting will give them the benefit of the night's coolness for recovery, but it is perfectly possible to transplant them at any hour. Gently tie the stems together to prevent breakage when you are digging and transporting them; an old stocking or other soft cloth is ideal for this. Insert a spade on all four sides of the plant at least six inches out from the stems and six inches or more deep, then lift out a good, deep spadeful of soil and roots. If you have soaked the soil deeply, the soil ball won't break up as you tote the plant to a new home. Dig a hole deep enough to contain the soil ball comfortably, and stir the soil at the bottom, mixing in well a handful of complete plant food, or compost if you have it.

Water well, and when it has soaked in put the root ball in place, fill around it with soil, and tamp lightly. Water again, then fill up even with the soil and soak the plant well. Untie the stems, and there you are. If the weather is hot and dry at transplanting, it may be well to shade your flowers for a day or two with a carton which is open on two sides for ventilation, thus allowing them to settle into their new home without undue strain. Keep watering two or three times a week unless you have enough rain to take care of the plant's needs.

Now is a good time, too, to get chrysanthemums from nurseries, for you can tell exactly what you are getting in height, color, and blossom size. They may be in pots or tin containers, or the nursery may have them balled and tied in burlap. Any way is good, provided the burlapped ones are freshly dug. I've used all three methods and never had a failure, probably because chrysanthemums are surprisingly tough for plants which seem so delicate.

Beautiful Hawaii! Land of swaying palms and hula girls, tropical vegetation and ideal year-round climate. You can get in on the land boom in Hawaii by buying a homesite in the Black Sand Beach Subdivision.

Official hostess at the Black Sand Beach Subdivision, showing the beautiful tropical foliage on a typical homesite. All homesites have road frontage.

Enjoy the Black Sand Beach of Kalapana, one of the area's scenic attractions. Many homesites will have a breathtaking view of the blue Pacific Ocean.

The Greatest Land Boom in Our Nation's History!

Right now is the golden opportunity to own a big, beautiful homesite in the Black Sand Beach Subdivision in Hawaii. This investment opportunity in Hawaiian real estate is unique because of the tremendous growth since statehood and the increasing popularity of Hawaii as a tourist attraction and retirement haven.

There is a scarcity of land as only a small percentage is available for private ownership. The tremendous future predicted for Hawaii and the ideal year-around climate . . . temperature varies between 70.3° in January to 75° in August in the Black Sand Beach Resort Area . . . have already interested thousands of wise mainland investors into purchasing homesites in Hawaii.

Here is Why YOU Should Invest in Hawaii Now!

Through peace and war . . . through depression and prosperity . . . the history of land in Hawaii has been that of a steady increase in land value and price over the years, making it a gilt-edged investment. People who acquired land in Hawaii some years ago are now wealthy because of this steady increase in land values.

And if you have ever dreamed of an Island Paradise . . . a place of your own where you could "get away from it all" . . . you will want to own land in the Black Sand Beach Subdivision. Hawaii is the Land of Opportunity, a place to live and raise a family under ideal conditions; perfect climate; wonderful people and a bright future.

Hawaii's facilities for the sports-loving are unlimited. Within a short distance from the Black Sand Beach Subdivision are golf courses, tennis courts, bowling alleys, big game hunting reserves, skeet shoots, spectator sports stadia for baseball, football, basketball and polo, and the Blue Pacific for fishing, swimming, sailing, water-skiing, etc. And up in the mountain areas there is skiing.

Now you can own a homesite in the Black Sand Beach Resort Area for just $10.00 down, $20.00 per month; total purchase price is only $1495.00. All homesites have road frontage, taxes less than $2.00 per year and there are no assessments. This beautiful area is AA, considered the finest land available in Hawaii.

You receive a deed and title insurance policy at no additional cost. Your property is sold on a six-month, money-back guarantee. You can lease out your homesite, build on it, or hold it as an investment for your future. It is located just a short distance from the world-famous Black Sand Beach of Kalapana in the heart of the Kalapana Resort Region. Also, you are less than twenty minutes away by paved highway from the largest city on the Island of Hawaii. Many of these homesites have a view of the Pacific Ocean.
